

Externship Opportunity in Williamsport, Indiana

Fox Ridge Veterinary Service has openings for externs that are interested in small or mixed animal practice. We encourage veterinary students of all years to apply as we are flexible to accommodate schedules that fit rotation or summer schedules. FRVS is a progressive two doctor mixed animal practice in Williamsport, Indiana. We are a family-oriented clinic dedicated to quality care of family pets and livestock located less than 30 miles from Purdue University Veterinary Teaching Hospital. We pride ourselves in commitment to our patient's health while building lasting relationships with our clients.

We encourage a hands-on experience in a variety of areas of veterinary medicine. We provide small and large animal service including swine, cattle, equine, and small ruminant species. Students will be offered to take part in routine vaccine appointments, medical appointments, routine/elective surgeries on both small and large animal, emergency procedures and surgeries that arise, seasonal large animal work such as equine vaccine and dental calls, cattle processing, swine/bovine/small ruminant OB cases, and large animal pregnancy ultrasound.

Our facility is equipped with digital radiology, surgery suite with patient monitoring system, separate dental area with ultrasonic scaler/polisher/high-speed drill system, in-house blood and urinalysis equipment, computerized medical records system with integrated referral lab service (Cornerstone), isolation ward, ICU area, and indoor large animal haul in facility.

If interested or have further questions, please contact Carrie Johnson, Practice Manager at cjohnson@foxridgevets.com or call 765-762-0600.