

Associate Veterinarian Position in Williamsport, Indiana

Our mixed animal practice in Williamsport, Indiana is seeking a full-time associate veterinarian to expand our growing establishment. We are looking for either a small animal or mixed animal practitioner that enjoys a relaxed environment in a rural setting (large animal work would be optional). Our practice consists of approximately 70% small animal and 30% large animal. Fox Ridge Veterinary Service is searching for a highly motivated applicant with great client relationship skills. An individual seeking a transition into an ownership role would be welcomed. Doctors are expected to manage a variety of small and/or large animal cases and provide excellent client communication and patient care. We maintain a positive work environment and promote teamwork among the entire staff.

Fox Ridge Veterinary Service was established in 2018 and has seen substantial growth since opening our doors. We serve the community by providing routine wellness care, elective and emergency surgeries, medical visits, and limited ICU care. We are in close proximity to Purdue University, University of Illinois, and Indianapolis emergency clinics for referrals and complicated cases. The staff at Fox Ridge Veterinary Service is friendly, professional, and believe in providing quality care for our clients and patients. We currently have an experienced support staff with a 2:1 staff to doctor ratio.

Our facility is equipped with digital radiology, surgery suite with patient monitoring system, separate dental area with ultrasonic scaler/polisher/high-speed drill system, in-house blood and urinalysis equipment; computerized medical records system with integrated referral lab service (Cornerstone), isolation ward, ICU area, and indoor large animal haul in facility.
