

Trio Revolution Bio

Trio Revolution is comprised of three young, dynamic, and contrasting yet symbiotic personalities who all share a common musical vision and a great love for work, the synthesis of which delights the listener. Their individual and revolutionary approach to performance is clearly reflected in the diverse repertoire of the trio, which promotes a new world in chamber music programming. The members of the trio consist of Temo Kharshiladze (flute), Sandro Sidamonidze (cello), and Ketevan Sepashvili (piano). Despite their Georgian origin, the Trio Revolution often performs abroad, with them having had their debut concert at the famous Wiener Musikverein concert hall in Austria. Since 2019, the Trio Revolution has performed at the European Center for Classical Music in Vienna, where they rehearse and play in various chamber music concerts and projects throughout Austria.