Red Sox drop two of three to the Royals

Bobby Witt Jr and Colton Cowser wear out the Red Sox

The Red Sox dropped two of three to the Royals. Bobby Witt Jr. and Colton Cowser wore down Bryan Bello and Geroge Kirby in the first two games of the series. Witt went 3 for 5 with two home-runs in game 1 off Bryan Bello and Jake Cousins. The Royals pounded out 12 hits in the 6-2 victory. Game 2 was more of the same, as Colton Cowser hit a two-run home run in the sixth to put the Royals ahead 3-0. Yamamoto pitched 5 scoreless innings and got the victory. Michael Busch and CJ Abrams hit homeruns in the sixth and eighth as the lone bright spots in the game. Kirby Yates shut the door in the ninth preserving the 5-2 victory. After dropping two games to start the series, the Red Sox faithful were grumbling on the way out of the stadium booing every at bat by Elly De LaCruz who went hitless and dropped his average well below the Mendoza line at .095. The rest of the team has been slumping as well and proving the early season prognosticators correct that the Red Sox would not hit much this season.

Witt hit .333 with two home-runs and 2 RBI's. Cowser was even better hitting .454 with a homerun and 3 RBI's. The Red Sox will hope to do better against the Twins on the road next week.

Singer dominate in first start of the season

Boston, MA – Brady Singer salvaged the last game of the series against the Royals. He had a dominate performance striking out 11 and scattered 4 hits and only one walk. The Sox needed a stopper after getting beat in the two previous games and dropping to 1-4. Michael Busch started the scoring in the 1st with a leadoff homer his second home run of the season. They tacked on a run in the sixth to lead 2-0. Colton Cowser went yard to lead-off the 8th, but Singer was able to strikeout Sterling Marte and Korey Lee to end the 8th. Mason Miller finished up for his 1st save.
