Preparing for the future and the next 25 years

We're looking toward the future and need your help

Working for the future together

Throughout the 25 years Toco Hills Community Alliance has existed, we have grown as the need has changed. When COVID hit, we adapted our model of food distribution very quickly, never missing a day of service. The crisis of COVID that led into the crisis of supply chain issues that led right into the crisis of a steeply increased cost of living, means that food insecurity is on the rise. In looking to the future, it is clear that THCA will continue to be needed to fight food insecurity. This will require innovation and agility to increase access to healthy food for families, children, seniors, veterans, unhoused people, and others in our neighborhood. We will need to hear feedback from our neighbors, strive to think outside the box, establish new relationships in the community, and it will take the whole community - including you - to work together toward a future where no one goes hungry.

the future is by helping form the next generation of leaders

Currently, we have

- *9 Interns from Candler School of Theology at Emory University
- *6 Community Service Learning students from Emory Medical School
- *2 Public Health Nursing students from Emory Nursing School
- *5-7 high school students from the Collective Learning Academy

We have also had students from:

- *Volunteer Emory Undergraduates
- *Georgia State University
- *DeKalb County Vocational Training
- *Paideia High School
- *Lakeside High School
- *Intown Community School

While here, students not only learn about food insecurity, but also about working with others, communication, taking responsibility, and problem-solving; all skills they will need to be the leaders of tomorrow.

the students:

"I chose Toco Hills Community Alliance as my Contextual Education site because I have a heart to serve marginalized communities. The hands-on education, the families we help, and seeing what it takes to run a non-profit, all make the work meaningful, in addition to influencing my vocational journey. This is the reason I chose to intern for a second year at Toco Hills. In my two years here, one thing I have learned that helping our neighbors, impacting the community, and giving to over 400 families weekly is all made possible only with your support."

Sabrina Wilson,

Second Year Intern from

Become a sustaining donor to help move us into the future.

It is indeed only with the support of you, our community, that we are able to work to end food insecurity. One of the best ways to help us in moving into the future is to become a Sustaining Donor. By giving a set amount (of whatever is comfortable for you) on a monthly or even quarterly basis, we are able to count on a certain level of funding. This definitely makes planning for the
