

To Whomsoever it may concern

The best I can say may not be a sufficiently good recommendation for Mani Bhandari. I have known her for well over six months and found her to be an excellent real estate agent.

She is very friendly, punctual, understanding, does her home work and knows the Bay Area like the back of her hand. But her strongest qualities are patience and excellent negotiating skills.

She had the patience to put up with a fussy customer like me who took four months and atleast seventy houses to finally buy a house. She was extremely cooperative before and even after the closure of the property.

I recommend her highly as a real estate agent and I do so with complete confidence knowing that she will measure up to your expectations

If you wish further information, please write or phone.

Sincerely
