

Sale Agreement

Date: _____

Humble Harvest Homestead offers goats of all ages. Details outlining sales may be discussed verbally in addition to this contract, but we are agreeing to the sale and purchase of goats. Goats are livestock animals and are sold as such. The goat you purchase from us will be well cared for prior to leaving our care. We provide a detailed record of the animal being purchased that outlines all the care that animal received while on our farm, young and old. We will present the animal as accurately as we can, sharing what we know.

When purchasing kids, all pregnant does are given their annual CD&T vaccine four weeks before kidding. All kids two weeks old are put on a Coccidiosis prevention plan. At around 6 weeks old all kids receive their first CD&T vaccine and are wormed. At about 9 weeks old all kids will receive their CD&T booster. All babies will be sold with an application for registration, unless sold commercial. Horned goats will be disbudded.

All animals that leave our farm will be healthy and disease free. We will not be responsible for the health of any animal once it has left our farm. Our farm is not obligated to offer any additional care such as castration or vaccinations after the sale is complete, unless otherwise agreed upon, this is up to our discretion. If an animal was purchased and happens to die before it leaves our farm, your deposit for that animal will be refunded. Goats must be paid in full before leaving our care.

We are always breeding with one thing in mind, to improve the breed. Although we breed our goats for the betterment of the breed, not all goats meet the qualities we are breeding for. This is sometimes obvious at an early age. In most cases, you will not know the quality of the animal until it has matured. When purchasing a young goat, there is no guarantee it will be great quality or meet your show standard goals. Even if the goat is of great quality, there is no guarantee it will blend well with another goat's genetics. Every breeding is a gamble. Sometimes genes from two outstanding lines do not blend well genetically.

At the end of the day, our goal is happy, healthy, quality goats, and happy customers. Humble Harvest's goal is to in some way, share a little piece of our farm values with yours as we enjoy the journey of raising our herds, small and large.
