THE NATIONAL MIAMI BEACH

KRISTIN CHUCCI

Kristin Chucci is a mixed media artist combining resin, canvas and recycled materials to create a thought provoking experience. Inspired by her adventures as Ms Earth and volunteering, Kristin is dedicated to producing zero waste art.

“Zero waste art means whatever waste I create is either traditionally recycled or becomes part of my next art piece. Did I coin the term... possibly. My hope is it inspires artists to reflect on how their art impacts not only people but our planet.”

Finding beauty in everything allows Kristin to create each unique piece of art by using repurposed materials. At times, what some would call “trash” becomes the very inspiration of the work of art.

Discovering beautiful nuggets of recycled materials amongst the often tortured canvas is much like Kristin’s life Journey. Diagnosed with depression at 16, she spent most of her life struggling to live until putting paint to canvas. The almost tortured appearance mixed with beauty is an unconscious choice and representation of her mantra “No matter how much darkness is around you, beauty also exists if you just take a moment to see it.

STEPH LEYDEN

During her lifelong journey as a fine artist, Stephanie Leyden continues to master bold colors, dramatic lighting, and both striking yet playful themes in her acrylic paintings. After graduating with a Bachelor's degree of Fine Art from the University of Saint Francis in Fort Wayne, IN in 2009, her artistic journey brought her to South Florida, where she still resides today.

With a challenging start in framed art sales, her career eventually blossomed into becoming the proud owner of Art Attack since 2013, a local gallery in downtown Fort Lauderdale. As Art Attack grew, so did the neighborhood. After years of providing artistic services, events, and eventually artwalks at Art Attack, the neighborhood alliance MASS District was born, co-founded and aptly named (Music & Arts South of Sunrise) by Stephanie.

During the many years since Art Attack's conception, Stephanie has continued her artistic adventure with various art events, in-house gallery services, workshops/classes, and the creation and hosting of our very own Art Brawl at Art Attack, a live art competition for artists to showcase their unique talents. Many of these accomplishments can be found in local publications such as: Lifestyle Magazine, Living in Oakland Park, Fort Lauderdale Illustrated, the Sun Sentinel, and more.

Today, you can still catch Stephanie at her gallery, painting away, and around town participating in an assortment of local artistic events: "I'm always going to continue to create and show a unique collection of artwork that brings both joy and awe to a wide range of viewers".

KARIM ABOUD

Artist Karim is a self-taught artist out of Palm Beach, FL who pushes the boundaries of resin on canvas creating aerial seascape paintings that transport you to paradise.

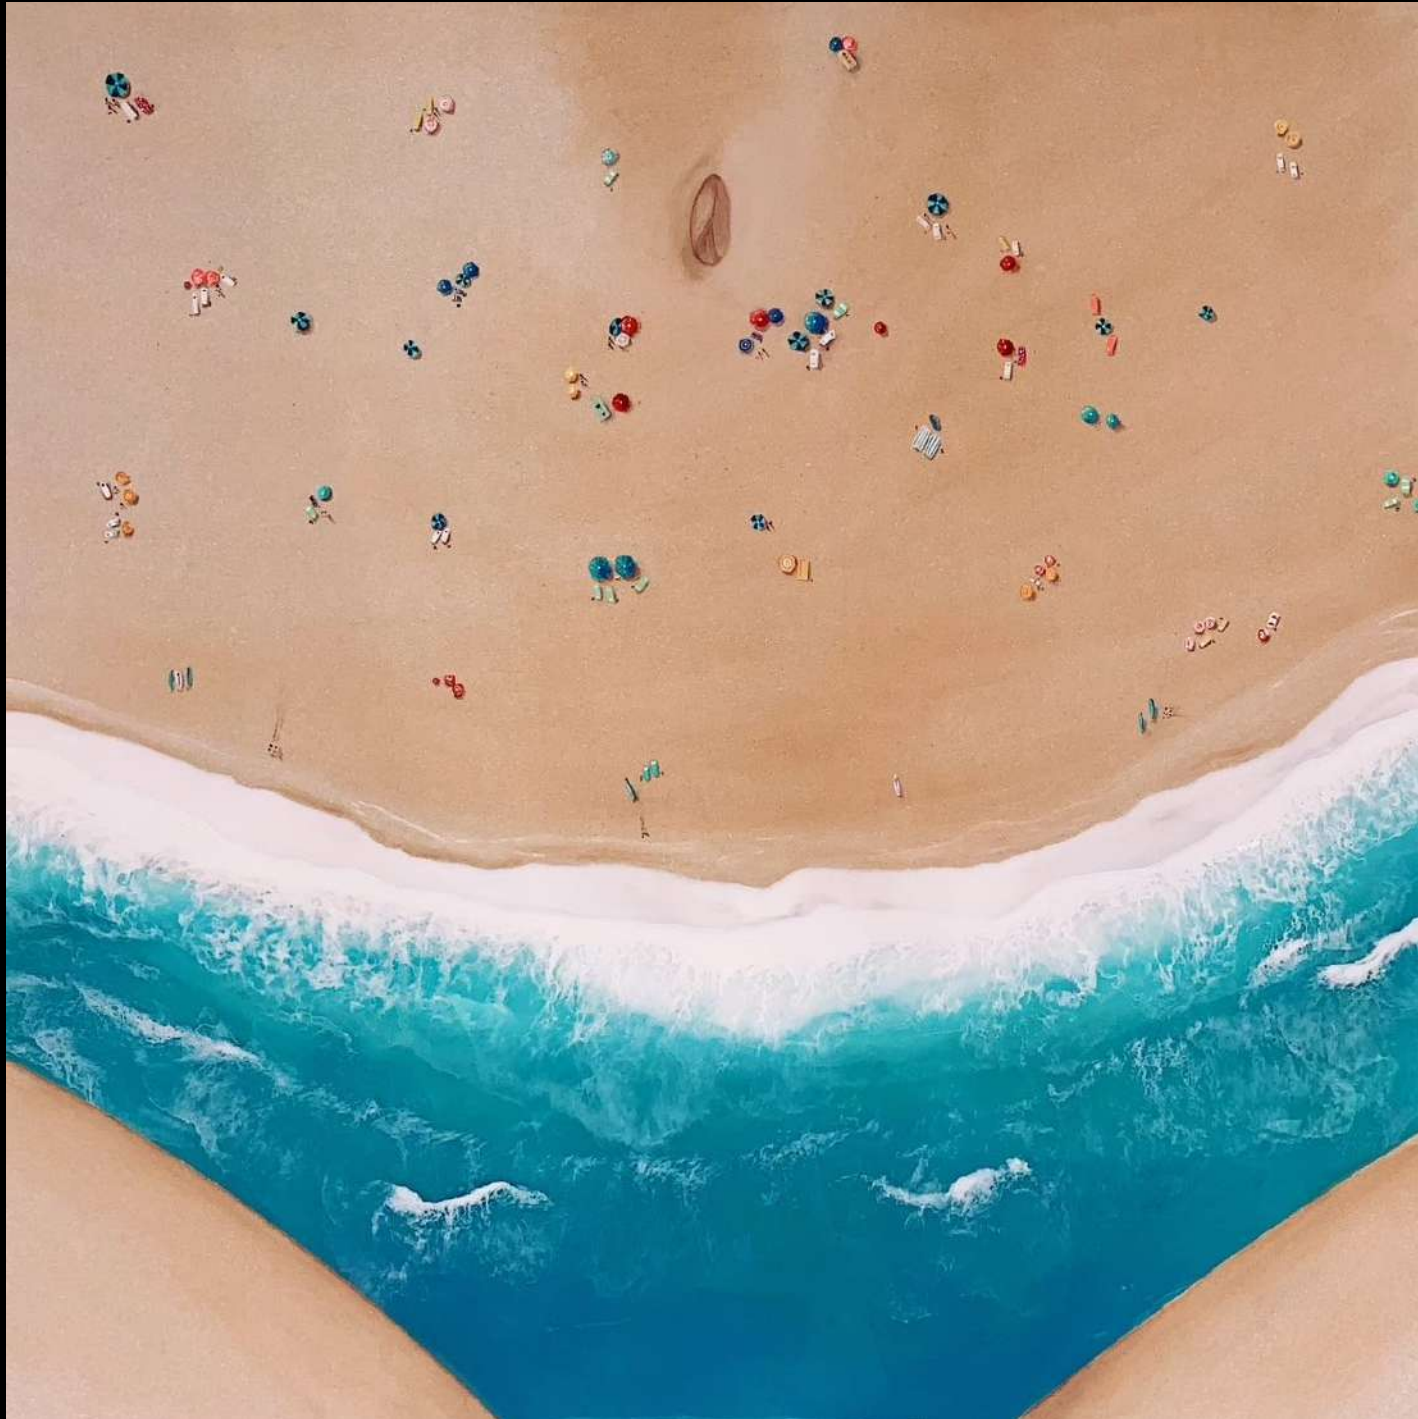

Her current collection focuses on aerial seascape paintings featuring textured sand and realistic oceans made with epoxy resin. Her life like waves pull you in and upon a closer look you are delighted by her charming 'tiny' details such as mini beach umbrellas, surfers, boats & beachcombers.

Look again and you'll discover how she cleverly combines soothing oceans and playful femininity.

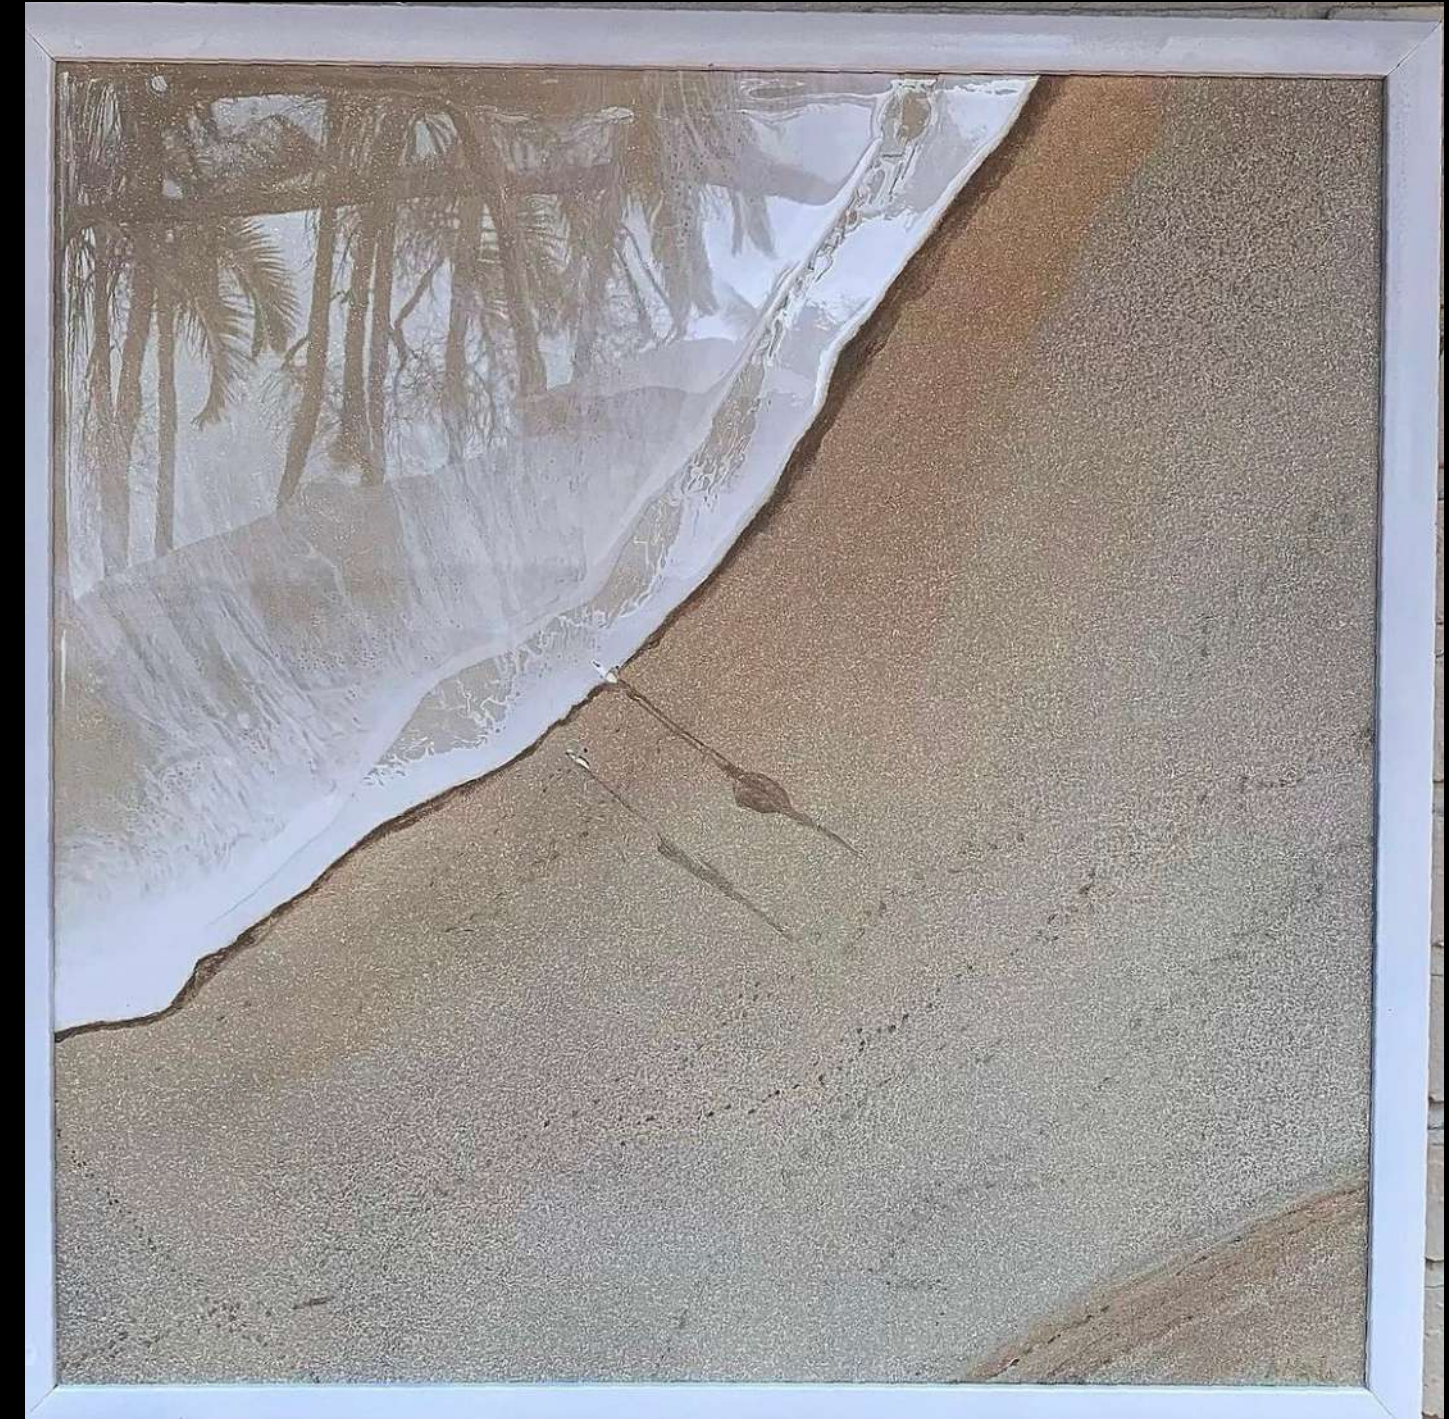

Second to her love of creating is teaching. She teaches one-on-one resin and alcohol ink courses and workshops in person or online.

BULK STYLES

Bulk Styles began painting large scale murals at sixteen years old. Starting out in the street art genre in the early 2000's, his work was largely influenced by big names in underground graffiti. "When I was in high school it wasn't 'cool' to paint a flower, that's why I got into letters."

Over the past sixteen years Bulk's style has evolved, but he will always be grateful for his introduction into the street art community and the way it continues to impact his work today.

Bulk accredits his success to the support of his mom. "She has always told me to go for it, and unconditionally supported me. I'm very lucky for that." He believes that the support and love from his family are what motivates his work.

When asked what he needs in life to be happy, "Health, for me and my family... and to get to keep doing what I love for the rest of my life."-Bulk Styles

THE NATIONAL MIAMI BEACH KING MALLARD

Jarid Blue was born in Miami, Florida and is currently based in Brooklyn, New York. He received his B.S. in Hospitality Management from the University of Central Florida in 2012 after which he began his creative pursuits. Influenced by the craftsmen in his family, notable figures of modern art, and incorporating elements of providing positive experiences from his hospitality background he began developing and growing a unique immersive photographic practice.

"Light Baths" is an ongoing photography and installation series intended to illuminate the universal beauty of humankind. The series is an exploration into new forms of portraiture encapsulating the subject's experience through the use of projected light. This collaborative experience includes a session with the artist and a custom digital portrait for download.

Jarid Blue is available to book for public and private events.

PAUL MCDERMOTT

Paul depicts the art of the human experience through observation and interaction with the world. He explores the planet to capture simple yet profound moments that leave viewers as if they were there themselves. Transporting the viewer to a specific moment in time provides an opportunity for awareness and presence.

Paul has been a photographer since the age of 14. His teen years began in photo labs and continued with a pursuit of technical photography skills in college. He has received numerous acknowledgements for his work including two Imaging Excellence Awards in 2022, 2022 Silver Award for WPE Photographers International Competition, the 2021 Spectrum Spotlight Award during Miami Art Week, 2020 Silver Award for WPE Photographers International Competition, two National Exhibit Merit Awards from Professional Photographers of America in 2018, two in 2017, two in 2015, and three in 2014. He was published internationally in the 2014 Loan Collection Book and earned Two Loan Collection Awards in that competition. Other awards include the 2008 Ocean City Arts Center “Best in Show” award and the 2005 Scholastic Art Awards “Portfolio Gold Key Award.” Paul’s greatest personal artistic honor was replacing Peter Lik’s photography on Lik’s own yacht, Stealth, after the new owners discovered Paul’s work and, in 2021, he also became a contributor featured by Hasselblad. In 2022 Paul has additionally been featured by Aquatech.

Paul’s “pandemic pivot” from a successful commercial photography career led to opening the Paul is Everywhere Gallery in early 2021. Throughout 2020, while participating in numerous exhibitions, he made the transition to fine art full time and became a resident artist at ArtServe in Ft Lauderdale. In 2021 the gallery launched within the ArtServe Building. Since opening Paul has participated in domestic and international exhibitions.
