To whom it may concern,

Jennifer Lauxman McCorkell took part in the launch event for Perth and Kinross Archaeology Month in Perth city centre on the 31st May 2014. From the start she drew interest from those attending due her excellent authentic clothing. The stall was colourful and inviting to people of all ages who enjoyed learning about spinning, weaving and dyeing processes throughout history. As well as interactive activities, Jennifer also had a selection of artefacts from various time periods to explain the varying materials used for the processes. She is very knowledgeable about her subject and was a joy to work with. She coped well with the numbers at the event and the very sunny weather.

Throughout the event she was professional, well organised, informative and engaged well with the various audiences who approached the stall. She would be a great addition to any event and I highly recommend her and would have no qualms employing her again at future events.
