

SOCIAL PROFIT
CORRECTIONS
Putting People First

A NEW APPROACH

TO CORRECTIONS REFORM

ABOUT US

Social Profit Corrections (SPC) is the country's first and only secure nonprofit full-service corrections corporation. Our business model is a new concept in managing secure correctional and re-entry facilities. All net revenues from federal and state contracts will be reinvested in resident safety, programming, education, healthcare and staff development. We will implement the Dynamic Security Model, which is a secure balanced approach of safety, mutual respect and supportive rehabilitation that will enhance existing security protocols, reduce violence and encourage self-improvement. Re-entry preparation begins on day one of incarceration. We call this social profit, as society at large derives the real profits.

SPC was founded by Brian Koehn. His shared passion for corrections reform and social justice prompted him to end his 28-year career in corrections and start SPC. Through his tenure as warden at five separate facilities, and security director over 65 facilities, Brian experienced firsthand the existing gaps and opportunities within the criminal justice system. He was inspired to apply his extensive knowledge, and couple it with proven rehabilitation principles to create a nonprofit with purpose, that will ultimately improve correctional care, reduce recidivism and result in a sustainable operational model that is indicative of our country's move toward social justice solutions.

BENEFITS OF A NONPROFIT MODEL

SOCIAL IMPACT

SPC plans for a resident's re-entry on day one of incarceration.

Our sole mission is to help residents do better through consistent and meaningful programming, therapy, access to healthcare and job training before they return as citizens.

Society at large derives the real profits from a system that invests in their most important asset - their people.

PEOPLE FIRST

SPC believes in a culture of safety and security, openness and mutual respect between leadership, staff and residents that will foster trust and meaningful rehabilitation.

Paying fair wages, and consistent staff training and appreciation is a priority for SPC.

TRANSPARENCY

Net revenues are reinvested in resident programming and staff development - no shareholders or red tape.

Operating as a 501(c)3 means performance is public record and social impact and public safety is how we measure success.

DID YOU KNOW?

Ninety-five percent of the 2.2 million incarcerated individuals will re-enter our communities; of this number, 83% will recidivate within nine years of being released.

We need your support to make a change for social justice.
To learn more visit www.spcor.org
To connect to Brian visit www.linkedin.com/in/briankoehnspsc

GET IN TOUCH: ● P: 719-661-9440 ● E: bkoehn@spcor.org

● SPCOR.org