PICKLE HEARTS

of Kindness

I was driving home in the evening and saw a man sitting on the curb, alone in the dark, with a few bags. I turned around and came back and talked to him - he had just arrived from out of state on a bus and didn't have a place to sleep. After deciding that he was not dangerous, I offered him a ride to a safe place. I also directed him to social services and I hope he followed through the next day. It's not hard to be kind!
