

National Election Integrity Association (NEIA)
Interim coaching and mentoring findings

The National Election Integrity Association (www.NEIA.US) has conducted a number of coaching/mentoring sessions with citizen groups across the country. There are consistent and common points that are emerging that have a significant impact on election integrity.

Below is a listing of the top-level findings. NEIA has additional details about each of the findings listed below.

1. This information is qualitative and quantitative data that is what it is. Some may not like this.
2. The threat to Election Integrity evolves continuously. The current major vector is by exploiting pollbooks in addition to other forms of hi and low-tech fraud.
3. There appears to be architecture errors in the manner in which Department of Homeland Security (DHS)/Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) monitors for election security.
4. 100% consistent data point - the County or County Equivalent Election Registrar/Election Registrar equivalent is the center of gravity of all voting integrity issues
5. Creative measures must be developed and used to hold the County or County Equivalent Election Registrar accountable.
6. Republican Party elements often expend numerous hours trying to work collegially with these registrars, with little tangible outcome, and yet strongly attack citizen groups trying to hold the county registrar, or equivalent, accountable.
7. After enormous effort and routine subservience to the Registrar and the Election Board, it looks like a major county in an upcoming vote will be accepting and processing ballots without signatures and perhaps without envelopes. We don't know for sure because the county election apparatus is denying visibility at the Central Absentee Precincts and the Republican Party cannot demonstrate any success in countering these efforts.
8. A very high percentage of citizen groups working Election Integrity matters on their own, identify that the state and/or county/county equivalent Republican Party elements are an active impediment to their work and are unsupportive to any form of forensic reviews to support Election Integrity.
9. A high percentage of citizen groups identify that state, county or county equivalent Republican Party entities "guard" or "defend" their Democrat, county/county equivalent Election Registrars/Election Registrar Equivalents instead of assertively challenging them and holding them accountable. In one situation, the Republican Registrar's wife is the campaign manager for a Democrat who questionably won a U.S. House Seat. The Republican Party says and does nothing about this situation.

10. A high percentage of Election Boards at the county or county equivalent routinely surrender significant, statute based decision-making authority, and are normally unaware or don't seem to mind those decisions being made by Election Registrars/Equivalents despite these decisions being statutorily the domain and responsibility of the county/county equivalent/state Election Boards.
11. Fractal Analysis led by Jay Valentine is very effective for counties who want to conduct Targeted Canvassing. Targeted Canvassing, enabled by Fractal Analysis, is far more efficient and effective for citizen groups who want to quickly identify and action Shadow Voter Election Integrity Issues.
12. The Carter Center is routinely held up as the model for election standards. The Center routinely lectures other countries on proper elections, yet many counties and states routinely violate the principles outlined in Chapters 8, 9, and 10 in the manual.
13. Role of Sheriffs: The role of the Sheriff is crucial at the County level and often overlooked.
14. Militias: Many states have statute-based militias, which may have an impactful, lawful role in the conduct of elections.
15. One unique situation is North Carolina (NC). NC is one of the largest providers of protein/pork to China. We are very supportive of the Pork industry and capitalism; however, this is a national security issue of grave concern in NC with the nexus of Chinese investments in the pork industry and attacks on Election Integrity in NC. This is unacceptable and must be investigated by the DOJ/FBI as a national security issue.
