

INTRODUCTION TO THE TAG4LIFE™ “CODES4CARE” (C4C) PROGRAM

tag4life, a 501(c)(3) charity, is focused on leveling the playing field for medically vulnerable members of underprivileged and disadvantaged communities, where the daily conditions of life can cause adverse health outcomes. While we are pleased to offer medical IDs to anyone “no questions asked” through our Codes4Care (C4C) outreach program (<https://tag4life.org/codes4care>), we primarily provide free medical IDs to those in need, and we educate about how these wearable devices help provide that protection. We also hold registration events with donors in order to raise the funds necessary to be able to provide IDs to the disadvantaged at no cost to them.

A medical ID is a wearable accessory or ID card that contains or allows access to the user's critical personal and medical information. Anyone suffering from a medical condition, food and drug allergies, or taking medications should wear or carry one. First responders and medical personnel are trained to look for them when encountering patients who are unable to respond. Having one can prevent misdiagnosis, unwanted drug reactions, and treatments that impose serious risk.

Depending on the level of event sponsorship, a C4C program sponsor receives prominent signage on tables/booths and in handouts, inclusion on related podcast(s), newsprint ads and televised spots, co-branded medical IDs for use at the sponsored event, a photo montage detailing positive effects on the community, and a separate, co-branded event at the sponsor's place of business for employees and other stakeholders.
