A man driving down a highway was surprised to see several red lights on the highway in front of him. He immediately realised that it was a danger signal. He brought his car to a stop just short of an abyss where the highway had dropped out of sight into the canyon below. At first he had been annoyed at the delay caused by the red lights, but when he saw what would have happened to him if they had not been there, he was thankful that someone had thought enough of others to warn them of the great danger ahead.

God has set seven warning lights on the highway of life to warn the careless of the danger that lies ahead. These seven red lights are the seven last plagues that are described in the book of Revelation. God has not given these to frighten us into being Christians. He has put them there to warn us of the ultimate end of the sinner. In every instance where it has been necessary for God to allow judgment to come upon a particular city or people, He has always warned them beforehand of what will happen if they fail to repent and accept the salvation that He has provided. In the days prior to the flood God sent Noah, who preached for 120 years, warning of impending doom. When God was about to allow the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah He sent two angels to Abraham and then to Lot to warn them of the coming devastation. Moses told Pharaoh what would happen before the plagues fell upon the Egyptians. Through the Bible, God has warned us in these last days of the future that is to come. It is not God's fault that we are so busy that we do not take time to notice the warnings. God will neither force us to heed the warnings, nor will He force us to accept the salvation that He has provided. Only if we love Him will we find it a privilege and pleasure to serve and obey Him.

Just before God delivered the Israelites from the land of Egypt, He sent Moses to warn Pharaoh of the consequences if the Egyptians refused to let God's people go. Pharaoh hardened his heart against God's warning. Ten plagues were then poured out upon the land of Egypt. The first three of these plagues fell on the people of God and the Egyptians alike, but the last seven, which in many ways parallel the Seven Last Plagues, fell only upon the Egyptians. God's people were protected from these tragedies.

Likewise God's people will be protected when the last plagues are poured out. The final plague of Egypt was the death of all of the first-born in the land. God's people took the blood of a lamb and sprinkled it on the door posts of their houses. When the blood of the lamb was seen by the destroying angel on that fateful night, he passed over the houses marked by the blood. Death and destruction came to the homes of those who did not use the blood of the lamb to mark themselves as being those who trusted in God for deliverance.

For us today, there is only one means of safety and deliverance and that is through the Lamb of God. His blood will cleanse all from their past sins and protect them from coming destruction as the Israelites were protected. It was on that last night when the final plague fell that God's people were delivered and they started their journey to the promised land. So God's people at the last plague will be delivered from this land of bondage and sin and will start their journey to the promised city.

Let us all be ready to make that trip by allowing the blood of the Lamb to cleanse us completely.

I desire to be washed completely by Jesus' blood.

I desire to be sheltered under the wings of the Almighty when the plagues fall upon the earth.
