

mindful learning

creating unique paths for life long learning

Admissions 2019-2020

Dear Parents,

As learning specialists, we believe that each student has a unique path to be discovered. While the process of admissions is only a small part of the life-long journey, we understand the significance it holds for you and your child. Each child has unique strengths, talents and capabilities. Determining the best academic path for your child involves a mindful approach to the process.

We know that a child learns best when the instructional approach and environment complements the individual's learning profile. We utilize a responsive approach for test preparation and admissions consulting to ensure that your child feels empowered by the process. We value the relationship that develops with each student and parent and we look forward to sharing this journey with you.

Sincerely,

Kristin Morrison
