

Village of Waldeck Community Bulletin

Privacy, Safety, and Mental Health Support

Community members have raised concerns about behaviors that may infringe on privacy, human rights, and public safety. These concerns are serious and may be addressed under the following:

- Municipal Bylaws, including nuisance, harassment, and public safety violations
- Saskatchewan Human Rights Code, which protects individuals from discrimination and privacy breaches
- Occupational Health and Safety Regulations, applicable in workplaces and public settings

As ratepayers, we value the well-being of our village and encourage all residents to treat one another with dignity and respect.

Recognizing Concerning Behaviors

While not all behaviors indicate mental health struggles, some patterns may reflect underlying distress. These include:

- Repeated disruptions or dramatic behavior seeking attention
- Online harassment or targeted bashing
- Invasion of privacy or spreading personal information
- Aggressive or erratic conduct
- Withdrawal from community activities
- Intense mood swings or emotional outbursts

These behaviors may stem from unmet mental health needs. Compassionate boundaries and support are essential.
