

Bloom Out

The colorful cactus in full bloom
Sparkling in the desert with extraordinary beauty
Against the sandy dusty environment
They sprung up like Egyptian artifacts
From centuries ago
But these are alive with the wonder of existence
Dotted against the irregular mountains
In their jotted distinguished shapes and sizes
Reminding me everyone is special
With their unique traits
Blooming to let us know
They possess their own distinctive beauty forever
If we reach to find it
In all humanity and nature

Renata Dawidowicz

Published in: "WestWard Quarterly"

On page 15- Summer 2009

On- line- "WestWard Quarterly"

Published in: "Senior Living News"- Oakland County

On page 22- November 2009

