Dedicated to Ziggy

From the forty-fifth floor
Overlooking two different countries
The fabulous discovery of height
Separated by gushes of deep water
I observe this splendid view
From above a window in a hotel room
The realization of height up there
As I look all the way down
And then up again quickly
To the glorious blue sky
And waters spreading far away
All the other tall buildings are so prominent now
Then I look beyond to time
How I happened by chance to catch this scenery
That was yesterday
