

Crystal Sparklers

As the earth glistens with freshly fallen snow
Sparkling with the reflections of the sun
The world changes rapidly
We get caught up in a routine
I miss enjoying the bountiful beauties of nature
Splendor in the making
As eventually it all melts away
But not before I learn the lesson
We get so busy running from here to nowhere
We miss out on this important beauty surrounding us daily
Because tranquility of nature has been taken over by machinery
I miss a walk
Nothing can replace trees glistening like sparkling diamonds
I am in awe
How beautiful is our world

Renata Dawidowicz