

Help Help

Help help he cried from the hospital bed
You could hear the scream down the hallway
His voice echoed loudly the words
My uncle was in another room laying in bed
We both heard the screaming
Of the sick man
The nurses went running out to help him
He was experiencing pain
I noticed how long the hallway stretched
With all the patients in their secluded rooms
Thinking how sad it is that these people are so sick
Some too sick to ever go home again

Renata Dawidowicz

Published in : “ Simply Words “

On page 19

