

Intrigue

Unknown narrow streets

Cunningly spaced out

Mysterious to strangers

Winding into different sections

Where darkness is a visitor

Lost in different dimensions

You wonder about your whereabouts

Old buildings stretching into the distance

As coldness enters with depth

Will you meet another day?

Wandering to a destination

Waiting for sunlight to appear again

You speed as fast as you can

Renata Dawidowicz

Published in: "The Great Marble Cake"

On page 18-January 1985

Published in: "The Villager"

On page 16- October 1985

