

Me

Will you love me for just a moment
Will I feel your heart beat
When I'm lonely, tired and old
Will you sit at my feet
By the fireplace burning
As the snowdrifts fall voluntarily
On a cold night when the clock ticks away
All the pain that will be flowing
Through the years
Can you see the tears in my eyes
Like the dew drops falling gently
From my favorite rose
For just a moment will you care
And understand how I am
The real me and not someone else

Renata Dawidowicz

Published in : "The Poet"

On page 170 -

