

Waves Up

Waves blowing dashing against old rocks

Seagulls' delighted echoes coinciding

With the rhythm of water pounding noisily on rocks

Straggling weeds dancing with the wind

The remains of the sun twirling beams of light on the water

Resurrecting the remainder of the darkening night

They fly so high with melody in their lives

Dancing in the sky knowing ecstasy in life when flying above

Masters of their own destiny

Diving into the water at random

A close up of exuberance in nature

Shining power plant fenced in tall as can in the background

Differences in the scenery stand out so prominently

Two different worlds

We cannot control either one

Nature and industrialization

Only time will show our destiny

No one knows all the answers

Because no matter how hard man tries

Whatever amazing accomplishments occurred

Life still stops for everyone

Renata Dawidowicz

