-Bad Boy Suggested Script-

"If you have been a parent, you know how helpful it is tell whether your child is lying or telling you the truth. In fact when my children were still in the home, I took a class on how to tell. Although I'm a little rusty, I used to be pretty good at it.

Would you help me by pretending to be my child? And would you use this quarter in our demonstration?

If you choose to be obedient, you will do exactly what I tell you to do and tell me the truth if I ask you a question. Whereas if you choose to be a disobedient child, you will do the exact opposite of what I tell you to do and lie if I ask you a question. Do you understand? (pause for them to answer)

Decide now which type of child you're going to be. Have you decided? (pause)

With your hands behind your back, put the item in your right hand.

Now switch it to your other hand.

Is the item in your left hand?"

Since it will always be in the left hand, you will know by their final answer whether or not they chose to be obedient child or not. Please Note: Guessing incorrectly the first time you try it and then getting it right when you try it two times seems to add to the believability of this little trick.
