KATE COLE:

Since meeting Mr. Darcy in English 101, Kate Cole hasn't managed to shake her obsession with all things happily ever after. A sucker for romance, this Canadian bibliophile is a buttoned-up bureaucrat in the street, a spicy romcom writer in her desk seat.

When she isn't reading or writing, she's also a wife and mom in suburbia who can't get enough of Duran Duran or pedicures that match her current reads.

EMILY MURRAY:

I'm Emily, mom of two girls, military spouse and author. During the day I wrangle children as a home daycare provider but at night I write. Heavily inspired by my town, I write Canadian contemporary small-town romance stories with relatable characters.

With two books out in the world and 1 in progress, this journey has been WILD!

Every author will put a little bit or a lot a bit of themselves into their characters...but I'll let you find out what
