

THE THIEF'S GREAT LESSON

Ahmet Habib TUFAN

In ancient times,

there was a country called Magic Lands, which no one knew about. Everyone in this country was very happy and comfortable. In this country, no one locked the doors of their houses because everyone trusted each other. Everyone had a job, had enough food to eat at their table, had enough belongings to make themselves happy at home. No one looked at anyone with bad thoughts or showed jealousy towards anyone. No one treated anyone with disrespect.

One day, an old man and his son had their way to this country. The old man was so old that those who saw him were amazed that he could walk or even talk. But he looked very happy with his little food, his cardigan, and his wand. But his son was constantly complaining that he had to walk slowly beside his father. He said he was never full and blamed his father for it. The old man said "Leave me by myself, son. If you want to walk fast, leave me here by myself. You go, live comfortably as you want!" to his son. But the boy had no intentions of doing such a thing. Because he knew that inside the wand his father held in his hand was the key to a treasure. The son heard this while his father and mother were talking before his mom died.

If he wished, the boy could easily take the wand from his father's hand, but his father said "This wand holds the key to a great treasure. However, that key has a very important feature. In order for the door of the treasure to be opened, I have to die a natural death. And after I'm dead, whoever picks up the wand will be able to use the key. It wouldn't work otherwise." to his mother when she was on her deathbed. That's why, the traitor son was bearing his father.

After the father and son started to live in the Magic Lands, some strange things started to happen. Some people's money and properties got lost. A thief was breaking into their house and stealing the food which was just enough for the homeowners. Of course, all the people began to suspect the father and the son. Over time, they have started to lock their doors. They didn't trust each other anymore. Once they understood that they can't put a stop to this situation, they decided to go and talk to the old man. Most of them already understood that the son was the thief. However, when they told this to the old man, the man was so upset that he suddenly collapsed on the ground. They immediately called the doctor. But the old man died in the doctor's arms, and the wand fell into the doctor's hands. When the boy saw the doctor having the wand, he attacked the doctor with anger. When the doctor raised the wand in his hand, the cover under the wand, which was like a tube, opened and a piece of paper fell to the ground.

The boy took the paper with a move and started reading. Tears came to his eyes as he read it. The paper fell from his hand. The doctor curiously took the paper and began to read it aloud: "Hey, whoever found this paper. This paper tells you that my life is over. Look, I'm dead. Know that your greatest treasure is life, it is the breath which you are taking. Drop the ambitions. Try to live with love and respect. In the end, there is death."
