6. RESEARCH OUTPUT

I have 11 years of academic research experience since my PhD and have made significant, sustained and internationally excellent contributions in the fields of financialisation, housing, urban social movements, social sustainability, and urban governance and planning. In total, I have published 27 research outputs, including 7 peer-reviewed journal articles, 6 peer-reviewed scientific book chapters, 2 scientific books, 4 peer-reviewed working papers, 3 book reviews, 5 publications intended for the general public (Details in the publication list below). I am also the editor of the special issue on bridging the literature on the structural changes in housing provision shaped by financialisation, and the potentials and limitations of housing movements emerging as a response to austerity measures since the economic crisis in the journal of Housing Studies in 2024, Vol. 39:6. I am appointed to the Editorial Board of Housing Studies Journal as the Social Media Editor by the 1st September 2024. You can find a list of my publications attached separately to my application.

Citation Statistics (As of February 25, 2026): Google Scholar Citations 309, h-index 10, i10 index 10

7. RESEARCH SUPERVISION AND LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCE

I have supervised one PhD and four MA students to successful completion at Helsinki and Malmö University. I was the advisor of four MA students and a post-doc at Urban Studies Institute, Malmö University. I am now supervising one PhD and one postdoc at the Sociology, University of Turku, six MA students at Global Development Studies, University of Helsinki. I played an external examiner role (opponent) for two PhD thesis at the University of Sheffield and SOAS, London.

So far, I also played a mentor role for the first year PhD students and the existing ones on academic writing, funding applications, creating a writing group at the Department, organising a workshop on Research Methods and Design at the time of COVID-19 at the Helsinki PGR Conference and in organising the First PhD Forum at the Department. I was also the advisor of the Human Rights Cities Project, between 2017-2018 at the Raul Wallenberg Institute, Istanbul, Turkey.

7.1. ACADEMIC LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCE

Research Leadership Roles
Date	Role	Brief description of activities
26-27 May 2025	Academic Leader of Critical Perspectives on Urban Political Economy Conference, University of Turku (TIAS, TURNS, NUPE)	In the wake of intensified global crises—economic, ecological, social, and political—recent critical urban political economy literature has sought to dissect the evolving dynamics of urbanization under neoliberal capitalism and uncertainties of futures. The intersection of urbanization, financialization, ecological transformations, displacement and migration, and urban movements has emerged as a focal point in understanding the complexities of contemporary urban governance and development. We invite submissions for a conference dedicated to critical explorations of Urban Political Economy , with a special focus on housing, financialization, new forms of urban entrepreneurialism, urban social resilience and urban movements in the context of climate and economic crises. The conference welcomes papers that scrutinize the contemporary dynamics of financialized forms of neoliberal urban transformations within the cities from critical perspectives looking into new risks, new forms of self-organisations, such as commons, grassroots logics of urban development.
2024-2026	The Emergence of Green Municipal Bonds in Finland (GREEF) (TIAS Grant, PI)	This project analyses the recent switch in the financing of 'green' urban development from conventional loan mechanisms to municipal debt financing in Finland, how this trend relates to a shift from a local entrepreneurial welfare state to a green entrepreneurial one, how it is embedded within neoliberalism combined with sustainability policy. Finnish municipalities and Municipality Finance Plc (MuniFin) have taken a frontrunner position in the issuing green municipal bonds for green urban development. Recent research has shown that while it is unclear to what extent actual green financed projects contribute to a systemic sustainability shift, little concern has been paid to the risk of unequal redistributive outcomes. Thus, the green financialization of urban development led by local states may represent a shift towards a green entrepreneurial local welfare provision signified by unequal distribution. How the emergence of local state-led green financialization in Finland potentially reorients the local welfare state has not been studied.

2022-2025	The Emergence of Municipal-Led Green Financialization of Urban Development in Sweden: An Inquiry of a New Form of Urban Entrepreneurialism (FORMAS Grant, Co-I)	This project analyses the recent switch in the financing of 'green' urban development from conventional loan mechanisms to municipal debt financing in Sweden, how this trend relates to a shift from a local entrepreneurial welfare state to a green entrepreneurial one, how it is embedded within neoliberalism combined with sustainability policy. Swedish municipalities have taken a frontrunner position in the issuing green municipal bonds for green urban development. Recent research has shown that while it is unclear to what extent actual green financed projects contribute to a systemic sustainability shift, little concern has been paid to the risk of unequal redistributive outcomes. Thus, the green financialization of urban development led by local states may represent a shift towards a green entrepreneurial local welfare provision signified by unequal distribution. How the emergence of local state-led green financialization in Sweden potentially reorients the local welfare state has not been studied. This project contributes to fill this knowledge gap by examining the use of green municipal bonds in three cities in Sweden from three theoretical strands: local state theory, urban entrepreneurialism, and financialization of urban development. The research is carried out with qualitative methods including document analysis and interviews with public officers and project managers engaged in issuing green municipal bonds and the planning of the green urban development projects. We have a team (4) of researchers based in Malmö University, doing their MA research as a part of our project.
2019-2020	Financialization of Housing Rights in Istanbul, (Swedish Institute Post-Doc Grant, Sweden)	This research aimed to analyse how global processes of housing in the form of financialisation, experienced in cities of the Global South, manifest at the local level in the case of Istanbul, Turkey. The research examined the role of the state in housing and financialisation in order to reveal different forms of consent created for different groups of society to be included in the financialisation process. The construction of consent carries importance in understanding how and to what extent the 'right to housing' is institutionalized, as well as tendencies toward depoliticization of the social movement for housing during the last decade.

2014-2016	Post-Gezi Neighbourhood Forums in Ankara (Raoul Wallenberg Institute Research Grant, Sweden, Co-I)	This research aimed to examine neighbourhood forums in Ankara that began to convene during the Gezi protests in 2013 and lasted about three years. The urban commoning practices in the neighbourhoods were the focus of this research in terms of suggesting and developing new set of demands and methods of local activism.

Editorial Leadership Roles

Date	Role	Brief description of activities

Network and Working Group Leadership Roles

------	------	---------------------------------

2020-today	Nordic Urban Political Economy Network (NUPE), Co-founder and Coordinator	The Nordic Urban Political Economy Network (NUPE) was launched in 2020 as an initiative for cross-Nordic collaboration and research exchange addressing the variegated political-economic changes occurring in cities and regions across the Nordics today. NUPE aims to promote and develop critical studies of urban political economy and political ecology by studying how neoliberalism, financialization, digitalization, platform economies, sustainability policy, and migration change urban landscapes, welfare systems, and urban and regional politics in the Nordic countries today.
2010-today	Urban and Regional Political Economy Working Group (URPE WG) Co-founder and Co-ordinator, IIPPE, SOAS	The URPE WG role involves: Developing a heterodox network between critical urban planners, human/economic/political geographers, urban sociologists and urban economists, organising panels at the IIPPE annual conference.

Conference, Workshop, and Training Leadership Roles

Date	Role	Brief description of activities
2020 – today	Academic Leader of Nordic Urban Political Economy (NUPE) Network Annual Workshop Series	We organize workshops to meet our members (40 academics at different stages of their careers) to discuss critical approaches to urban political economy/ecology scrutinising neoliberal urban transformations in the context of the Nordic welfare states at the national, regional and local scales.
2010 - today	Academic Leader of Annual Urban and Political Economy Working Group Panels at the IIPPE Conference Panel	I am the founder and the leader of the Working Group for a decade and have been organizing two to five panels every year on urban political economy.
April-November 2022	Academic Leader of 9th Annual Conference of Doctoral Programmes in Social Sciences &amp; the Doctoral Programme in Political, Societal and Regional Change, University of Helsinki	I have the academic leader role in organising the annual Conference of Doctoral Programs in The Faculty of Social Science, UoH. The suggested theme is 'Research in the Time of Challenges: Searching for New Methodological and Theoretical Horizons'. The theme refers to the multiple challenges in research beyond Covid-19 isolation. The pandemic has further highlighted that we live in a globally connected world; our overreliance on economic growth and increasing levels of consumption leading to new challenges, including rising authoritarianism, climate change crisis, social and spatial polarization in urban and rural areas, socio-economic inequalities, rising gender, race and ethnicity based discrimination.

		These challenges give rise to homelessness, precarious working conditions, unjust access to food, violation of human rights, and different forms of violence. Therefore, the conference will invite novel methodological and theoretical horizons to respond current challenges by bringing abstract to concrete discussions on politics, lived experiences, methodologies, and revisiting the concepts that have been widely used.
2020-2021	Dislocating Urban Studies: Rethinking Theory, Shifting Practice (DUS) Workshop Series Co-ordinator and Co-I	We organized four international workshops series that gathered early career and well known senior scholars to bridge the theoretical and empirical “gap” between the Global North and the Global South/East knowledge production in urban studies field from a non-occidental west perspective. We successfully had the four workshops and run a website to open up the discussions in the workshops to a wider audience ( https://dislocatingurbanstudies.com/ ). I am currently working as one of the web liaisons for Dislocating Urban Studies, responsible for @DislocatingUS and the website.
2020- 2023	The Global Extractivisms and Alternatives Initiative (EXALT) Member	I was one of the core members of The Global Extractivisms and Alternatives Initiative (EXALT), a new international network of scholars, activists, and policymakers dedicated to collaboration and knowledge creation around the pressing crisis stemming from extractivist policies and practices. I organized a series of virtual talks and organizing virtual EXALT Conference in October 2021.
2020	University of Helsinki, PhD Forum Advisor	I initiated and then co-organized ‘Research at the time of the Pandemic for PhD Students Workshop’ in 2020 at Helsinki. I have also been invited to give a talk on PhD Training and Publication at the Global Development Studies PhD Forum, which I initiated with the students. I am planning to apply for a funding to start a PhD Collective to develop critical thinking and skills of the PhD students as a community as opposed to the rising neoliberal discourse of competition and individualism in contemporary higher education.
2019-2021	HELSUS Global South Encounters Talk Series , Co-ordinator	Organising a series of seminars and talks intended to sharpen critical research in sustainability science.
2016-2018	Academy City Trainings, Chamber of Urban Planners, Izmir, Turkey	Giving trainings to urban planning and architecture students and practitioners in local governments at the program called ‘AcademyCity’ organized by me and three other colleagues with the support of Chamber of Urban Planners, Turkey. These trainings were targeting to develop the skills of the participants in sustainable city futures, local level initiative building, deliberate democracy models. Trainings were up to 25 participants.

2009 - today	Academic Leadership in Session Organisations in International Conferences	I have organised numerous sessions in significant international human geography, planning, and urban studies conferences, such as American Geographers Conference (AAG), RGS-IBG, Nordic Geographers Meeting (NGM).

Leadership has been a key aspect of my contribution to my academic citizenship, and the wider academic community, and is an area in which I have invested a great deal of time and energy. I finished the Academic Leadership Training Course by the HSSH, UoH, where I developed my leadership skills and extended my network. Thus, I have made a significant contribution to research leadership in my current post among my cohorts. This has involved a deep commitment to academic citizenship combined with a strategic vision informing change and innovation.

8. TEACHING MERITS

8.1. Teaching Experience

I am a highly experienced teacher in the scope, diversity of teaching at all levels and a variety of programs. I have teaching experience in several countries (UK, Turkey, Greece, Sweden, and Finland). I also hold a lectureship position for four years, where I gained a wide range of skills in designing my own modules for undergraduate and master level students, including research design and methods modules. I have designed and led 19 modules as the responsible teacher and sole teacher and 7 module as co- teacher and co-coordinator in BSc, MSc, and PhD programs across human geography, urban studies, international relations, political science, and global development studies. My teaching resume includes advanced graduate seminars taught to very small classes (less than 10 students), introductory courses offered to large classes (more than 50 students), advanced undergraduate courses, master's, and PhD level seminar modules.
