February Foundational Skill Focus: Time Awareness

bloomers will practice skills that help them better understand, anticipate, and manage time, which supports independence and smoother transitions throughout the day.

These skills will be practiced naturally during outings, daily routines, and group activities and include:

- reading a digital clock using hour and half-hour increments
- understanding how long activities last (before, during, and after)
- creating a simple daily schedule with visual support
- recognizing days of the week and months
- identifying upcoming events and changes in routine

Our goal is not perfection, but familiarity, confidence, and growing independence as bloomers learn to navigate time and daily expectations.
