Catalog Direction

"Good soon is better than Better in the far future".

I want to get "good" versions of most sections in computer printable format ready by fall of 2007. As I go along and as new information and reviews come in, I am constantly updating the printable files.

I'm thinking of dividing the Handbook/Catalogue into two or three parts. The first would cover "transaction" revenues and all perforated initials, numbers, and designs. The second would cover "product" revenues including any perforated initials, numbers and designs that occur on "product" revenues, The third would cover checks, drafts and notes and fiscal papers cancellations or examining punches. Also, specimen and non-postage stamp perforations would be in this part. It looks like this might divide handbook/catalogue into three parts of about equal size. The "Catalog Status" below is broken into the possible three parts to indicate my thoughts. Comments PLEASE!

2007 Plans

- Complete the initial drafts for first iteration of all 15 sections.
- Develop a "style manual" and start revising the drafts.
- Revise the current drafts moving from catalogue towards handbook form.
- Start second iteration of review.
