OUR STORY

On the memorable day of September 2, 2019, Tanisha and Bobby Graves awakened to what would change their lives forever. This became a day that would forever play in their minds. Tanisha found her son Marquis Devon Chapman in bed, and began to adjust his pillow. He did not move. When Tanisha rolled him over, her precious baby boy was lifeless. Marquis had passed away from S.U.D.E.P (sudden unexpected death in epilepsy).

In honor of their son Marquis, they have dedicated their lives to help
fight for a cure for epilepsy

Tanisha and Bobby had to do something, so they decided to get more involved with advocating for Marquis, those who fight epilepsy daily and the many that have lost their lives to S.U.D.E.P. / Epilepsy.

The couple founded When The Trumpet Sounds in March 25, 2021. "It is time for parents, patients, medical staff and insurance companies to work on one accord. Time to listen to one another and find a cure. We need to close the gap and become effective communicators and listeners."

As Marquis would say "I Pulled The Sun Out For You." Let's keep Marquis dream alive and fight towards a day when there is a cure and no other parents, adults, children or caregivers will have to endure the pain that comes along with losing someone to epilepsy. There is so much that comes along with epilepsy (disparities, stigma, S.U.D.E.P. and the lack of help for minorities) and we will shed light on the truth of it all.
