

The Gift-Giving Gal Who Knows A Guy

Purpose Prayer

Elohim, God of All Creation, I come before You in humble expectation of Your revelation. For it is You and You Alone that made me for a purpose on this Earth and for Your eternal Kingdom. I kneel at the foot of The Cross of Jesus Christ today with arms wide open, ready to receive and walk in Your Will. As in Isaiah 6:8, I shout, Here I Am, Lord, Send Me! Reveal to me the direction I should go – lead me and make my crooked paths straight. Restore to me the years that the swarming locust has eaten, the great locust, the grasshopper and the caterpillar. Remind me daily that though my purpose is for Your Glory, I will not be without reward, living a life of abundance, for it is this that Jesus Christ came, lived, suffered, died, and resurrected. He would have done this for me alone! Yahweh, every breath belongs to You – I AM Your workmanship created in Christ Jesus for good works, which You prepared in advance for me to do. Bring all the elements, organs, and limbs of my physical body into alignment as you created and intended them to be and to function to Your highest ability within this purpose. Let the evidence of abiding in Your purpose be love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. Lord, You are my strength, my defense, my salvation, the God of My Father. I praise You and exalt You so that my gifts make room for me and bring me before great men – not for pride but for the purpose of boring into the stronghold of the enemy and decimating it never to be built again. Just as Rahab's faith and obedience to the One True God of Israel destroyed the Walls of Jericho and grafted her into the lineage of Christ, so shall my legacy be. In Jesus Name, AMEN.
