

The Gift-Giving Gal Who Knows A Guy

Wife Prayer

Adonai, my Lord and Savior, I thank you for the privilege of becoming a wife. I first stand in the office of Your Daughter as You knit me together in my mother's womb and now call myself entrusted to build Your Kingdom on this Earth within the covenant of Marriage. Let Your Holy Spirit guide me into nobility, a woman far more precious than rubies, whose husband's heart trusts and values her because she brings him good and not harm all the days of her life. Let my hands be eager to serve, support, provide for and watch over my household. As my husband sits among the elders of the land, let his name be known at the city gates for a good name is more desirable than great riches. Let strength, honor, and laughter clothe me; wisdom and faithful instruction be upon my tongue as my husband praises me; and, that any children we bring into the marriage are able to call me blessed. I fear You Lord and expect the fruit of my hands to be given to me because You are a Generous Father who gives good gifts to His children. If at any point in our marriage my husband or I border on unbelief, let him be sanctified through me and I through him. Likewise, let us fulfill our marital duties toward each other purely, passionately, without reservation, and with resistance to temptation. May we give ourselves entirely to one another for all the days of our marriage. Allow us to trust in elder husbands and wives for fellowship, friendship and guidance on both the peaceful and challenging days. Let my husband have Godly-Confidence and Favor in having chosen me as his wife. I enter Your courts with Thanksgiving and Praise for all that was, is, and is to come in my role as a wife. In Jesus Name, AMEN.
