

The Gift-Giving Gal Who Knows A Guy

Singleness Prayer

Lord, in this season of singleness bring Your Peace upon me and Your Joy within me. Teach me how to delight myself in You each day. This is about more than You ultimately rewarding me, but truly about aligning my heart to Yours so that my desires are turned toward You. Your Word reminds me to seek first Your Kingdom, YOUR Righteousness and THEN all these things will be added unto me. Let Your Holy Spirit lead me in performing righteous acts without regard for public acknowledgement. Instead, I will give to the needy, study Your Word daily, pray with specific direction acknowledging Your Holiness, Will, and Kingdom. Through Your commandment of fasting, I will allow the Blood of Jesus Christ to destroy the roots of every hurt that has grown over the course of my life. Through this deliverance, let the doors of forgiveness swing wide open, strengthening me to resist temptation, edifying my spirit man through storing treasures in Heaven, preserving my eye, ear, and mouth gates with the things of God so that what comes out of me does not defile me, but instead purifies me. As I serve You only, let me take a note from nature, trusting You as the birds of the air and lilies of the field do for their needs and splendor. In the moments where I feel loneliness, may Your Holy Spirit remind me that You know my name, I AM Yours and, as I mirror the unwavering faith of Abraham and Moses, I AM Your Friend. Jesus, disciple me. Today, I make a commitment to deny myself and, while I will take up every cross that is revealed to me, I do so grateful for Your sufficient grace which will conquer them, leading me ever closer to You and the desires of my heart. In Jesus Name, AMEN.