To Whom It May Concern:

In the summer of 1994, Mr. Michael Forche was appointed by the Court to act as "receiver" in the case of Rosoff vs. Rosoff, a family dispute over a property known as the "Glass Pool Inn". The litigation was protracted and very contentious with the preservation of assets and the distribution of shared income between the parties being of concern. Additionally, operating expenses and those associated with property maintenance had to be paid routinely. All of this was coordinated and managed by Mr. Forche in an environment of distrust and misinformation between the parties. This Court was pleased and frankly somewhat surprised at the efficiency with which Mr. Forche was able to perform his task, given the attendant circumstances. His no nonsense approach and insistence upon cooperation from the parties led to a successful conclusion to a lengthy and complicated case.

Should circumstances in the future call for outside assistance in property management and/or business oversight, I would not hesitate to call upon Mr. Forche, a man with whom I place complete confidence.

Sincerely,
