SHS FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

We invite all 9th grade students to join us on a day planned just for that grade level. This event is from 8 a.m. to 2:10 p.m. We will start at the high school stadium that morning. The purpose of this orientation is to make the transition from middle school to high school a positive one. Seniors and juniors will be serving as leaders and mentors to the freshmen. Large and small group activities are designed to address students' needs and concerns in an enjoyable manner. After lunch, students will go through their schedules and meet their teachers. Students will also have the opportunity to purchase yearbooks and ASB cards. Wear comfortable clothes and shoes (the new school has a lot of stairs!) and don't bring all your stuff ... travel light! If you have any questions, please contact Link Crew Coordinators Jeanne Kelly, 629-1300, Ext. 5311, jkelly@stanwood.wednet.edu or Bryan Olsen, 629-1300, Ext. 5337, bolsen@stanwood.wednet.edu. ARTISTS RECEPTION FOR VAL PAUL TAYLOR

5-7pm at Beach 1 Gallery. Val's art is for people who like stories. His Acrylic paintings, drawings and Letterpress prints are just that: a visual expression of what Val is himself. Val credits much of his artistic intuition to being a "hybrid." He's been a Graphic Designer, Art Director, Creative Director, Illustrator, and Painter—and to that you could add Businessman. Also, Educator, Father, Grandparent, Counselor, Youth Leader, Outdoorsman, Historian, an avid reader, and a lot of other things that make him a keen observer of the human condition and highly effective problem solver. His art will be displayed and for sale the entire month of September. The Gallery is open 7 days a week. We will be serving pop, wine, bottled water and bags of chips for the reception. 1243 Beach Drive, Camano. 360-387-1655.

LABOR DAY

Do you get weekends off work? Lunch breaks? Paid vacation? An eight-hour workday? Social security? If you said "yes" to any of these questions, you can thank labor unions and the U.S. labor movement for it. Years of hard-fought battles (and the ensuing legislation they inspired) resulted in many of the most basic benefits we enjoy at our jobs today. On the first Monday in September, we take the day off to celebrate Labor Day and reflect on the American worker's contributions to our country. www.nationaltoday.com

BOW-TIE NOODLE BUTTERFLY CRAFT FOR KIDS

Use some old bow-tie noodles and turn them into pretty little butterflies! Using the neon chalk markers worked great and they dried very fast! Materials Needed: Fun chalk markers or paint; Black sharpie; White paper; Small bow-tie noodles; Glue. Directions: Start by painting your little noodles with bright fun colors and let dry. These chalk markers dry pretty fast so it's perfect for this craft! For the grass, carefully cut the noodles in half and paint them green. Glue them all to a piece of white card stock paper. Add sharpie antennas and dots behind them so it looks like they're flying!

Finally, a real paint store in Stanwood!

HOW TO HANDLE A PHONE SCAMMER – PART 1

[This is the first in a two-part series.] Maybe it's because I'm nearing the target demographic for scammers as I approach retirement, but lately I have been on the receiving end of a spate of calls from fraudsters wanting to alert me to everything from problems with my social security number to the fact that I'm suddenly wanted in multiple states for bank fraud. My wife always tells me that when I get one of these annoying phone scam calls, the mature, adult thing is simply to hang up – which is why I never do that. I prefer to have a little fun with the caller instead. The following are actual phone con artist solicitations I've received within the past few months. These calls typically start with a robo-message, urging me to press 1 to talk to a live agent. And they always end the same way – with the perpetrator getting totally fed up with my antics and hanging up on me. I find it endlessly entertaining. But then, I feel the same way about slinky toys.

The Social Security Scam: Robo message: "This is the Social Security Administration with an important message about your social security account. Your account number has been compromised. Please press "1" to talk to an agent to discuss how you can get assigned a new social security number."

So I press 1.

Officer Wilson: This is Officer Wilson. How can I help you? (She speaks with a noticeably thick Caribbean accent.)

ME: Thank you, ma'am, I just learned my social security number may have been compromised. Can you help me?

Officer Wilson: What is your name please, and your social security number?

ME: It's Bart. Bart Starr. Would it help if I provided my date of birth and the name of my kids to prove to you I am who I say I am? They are great kids, except for my middle child, Conrad. He's going through a phase. Do you have any suggestions for how to deal with a 9th grader who still wets the bed?

Officer Wilson: I don't know anything about that. Just tell me your social sec– ...

ME: Oh, right. Hey, quick question. Do you know any good fajita recipes? We're having guests over this evening, and I promised my wife I'd help out with an entrée. But between you and me, I don't know the first thing about Mexican food. You're not Mexican, by any chance, are you?

"CLICK" (That's when "Officer Wilson" hung up on me.)

The Bank Fraud Scam: Robo message: "This is the FBI. This is not a hoax. According to our files, you are currently wanted in four states for multiple instances of bank fraud and securities fraud. Please report to the nearest FBI office within 24 hours or else an agent will come to your residence and put a lien on your property. To learn details about the charges pending against you, please press "1" now."

So I press 1.

Agent Johnson: This is Agent Johnson. Please provide your name and the last credit card you used.

ME: Oh my. Yes, Agent Johnson. My name is John Unitas. But my friends call me Johnny. And I don't know what to say. I knew it was only a matter of time before my past would finally catch up with me.

Agent Johnson: We are willing to give you a one-time pardon for your past criminal activities if you agree to pay a fine of $2,500. Give me your credit card number and you can pay this fine right now.

ME: That seems more than fair. But the more I think about it, I actually think I would rather turn myself in. After all, I did commit that bank fraud your generic automated message mentioned. It's time I pay for my crimes by doing the time, right?

Agent Johnson: Excuse me?

ME: Quick question: Will I be sent to one of those rough prisons like in the movie The Shawshank Redemption? Or would it be more like one of those country club prisons like Martha Stewart was sent to? Can I put in a request for whatever prison Martha got?

Agent Johnson: What are you talking about?

ME: All I ask is one small thing. Can I take my little girls out for ice cream one last time, and so I can tell them their daddy has to go away for a while, but he still loves them? Then you can haul me off to the to the Greybar Hotel, okay?

"CLICK"

To be continued in the next issue of the Crab Cracker, with even more outrageous examples of my exchanges with phone scammers.

LOCAL ROAMING ARTISTS

The Roaming Artists is a group of 27 local artists who are dedicated to painting on location (en plein air) each summer around Camano, Stanwood & adjacent areas. Whether working outdoors or from field studies in the studio, the Roaming Artists explore & respond to the timeless beauty that surrounds us all from the beaches, to flowers, to barns...paintings that show the individual painter's style and technique in various mediums including watercolor, oil, pen and ink, and acrylics. This local group of artists gathers twice a week at different locations throughout the summer. It has been especially nice this year to be outside and around friends to paint. Over 25 sites are visited and the resulting paintings will be on display at the annual Roaming Artists Art Show, September 4 & 5 at the Camano Island Multipurpose Center. Plein Air (French for "open air") painting became popular in the early 19th century when paint manufacturers made pre-mixed pigments available for the first time and the transportable box easel was developed. Artists could finally take their work in the field with ease...the artist could, as Monet wrote, "...paint the air in which are situated the bridge, the hone, the boat." Original paintings will be on display during this annual Roaming Artists art show. Joy Shefter will be honored this year as the group's featured artist during the two-day show. Joy C. Shefter, Roaming Artists' 2021 featured artist, paints in watercolors and does large scale acrylics which are more modern. Attendees can also purchase raffle tickets to win a watercolor donated by artist Lane Rowell. The event features these framed and unframed paintings, as well as greeting cards, available for purchase. This once-a-year free art show has become a favorite place to view the work of talented new and more experienced artists and also to meet the artists in person. The show will take place from 10:00 AM to 5:00 PM on September 4th and September 5th at the Camano Island Multipurpose Center, (Blue Building) 141 N. East Camano Drive.

CAMANO CHAPEL - 70 YEARS

On August 26, 1951 Evangelist Dr. Billy Graham (pictured above) was in the Seattle area for meetings and agreed to travel to Camano Island to participate with his ministry team of the dedication service for "Church in the Woods" called Camano Chapel. Estimates say there were approximately 3,000 people in attendance that sunny summer day while sitting on homemade pews made out of donated lumber from Hamilton Lumber sitting upon cut tree rounds. Since 1951 Camano Chapel has had 8 senior pastors in 70 years, but for the past combined 52 years God has used two senior pastors (Pastor Bill Wayland and Pastor Kris Kramer) to lead, love, and serve the church family and community. 70 years later Camano Chapel is now reflecting, remembering, and celebrating God's faithfulness. The church has been used to share the good news of the gospel in the lives of people, and be a part of our local community. God has used Camano Chapel to provide help and hope in the name of Jesus Christ for the past seven decades. The Stanwood/Camano/Warm Beach community is invited to join Camano Chapel on Sunday morning, August 29th, for one big outdoor worship service starting at 10:30am, with a big picnic lunch and family-friendly yard games to follow.

JOIN OUR VIRTUAL WALK FOR THE POOR

The Friends of the Poor Walk® is coordinated nationally to raise funds and awareness to support our Friends in Need in each local community. The Society of St. Vincent de Paul recognizes many in our community are doing without. Recent statistics show 10.9% of the population of Stanwood and 6.1% of Camano Island residents are living in poverty. For this and other reasons, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul is reaching out to the community to consider a donation to St. Vincent de Paul during our once-a-year fund-raiser. Because poverty affects individuals of all denominations, we hope the idea of community members walking in solidarity will help grow awareness of the increasing need in our community. This year, we invite you to walk during the week of September 25 through October 1. Make a pledge and invite others to pledge, as we walk to support our ongoing mission of helping our neighbors in need. The walk does not require that you get to a specific place for start time. You can pick where you do it, with whom, and what time you start. With a whole week to accomplish your goal, no excuse. No need to get to any specific location by a start time. With a virtual walk, you pick where you walk, who you walk with, what time you start, and with a whole week to fulfill your goal, no excuse. The walk is virtual. The need is real. All pledges should be mailed to St. Cecilia Catholic church, PO Box 1002, Stanwood WA 98292 and clearly marked SVDP Friends of the Poor Walk.

CLASS OF 2022 YEARBOOK DEADLINES

Seniors - It is time to start planning for your senior year. Senior photos will be due October 8th, 2021. Please schedule your photo shoot with a photographer as early in the summer as possible. Photographers and studios are very busy in the Fall. Grad ads for seniors will be due October 22nd, 2021.

NO COST FOR MEALS THIS YEAR

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will continue reimbursing schools and childcare centers for free meals to all students regardless of their income through the 2021-2022 school year. This means every student may eat breakfast and lunch at school for no cost. No money will be collected for breakfast or lunch for the 2021-2022 school year.

LETTER TO CAMANO CHAPEL'S PASTOR MATT LEE:

"We want to share with you our appreciation for your 16+ years of servanthood to Camano Chapel as a Pastor. You are a wonderful example of Christ's love in action, through serving our youth, families, and congregation well. The junior-high ministry thrived under your leadership because you were willing to become a servant leader. The many years and hundreds of hours spent doing EYP, Jr High camp, mission trips, and SWAT team is a testament to your calling as a Youth Pastor. Having a gospel centered approach to ministry has impacted countless members of Camano Chapel and the surrounding community. Your spiritual gifts have cultivated a group of disciple makers that are using their gifts for Kingdom work. We are grateful that God brought you to our church family. We have seen you grow in your faith and become a great preacher of God's Word, while also watching your family grow and serve among us. We are rejoicing with you for your position as the Senior Pastor of Berean Baptist Church in Marysville. While we are sad that you are leaving our church family, we know that God has called you to become a senior pastor and your new church family will be blessed by you. We love you as our friend and our brother in Christ. Please let us know if you ever need anything." In Christ, The Camano Chapel Elders.

FALL TRAIL MIXER: OKTOBERFEST

October 2nd, 2-5pm at Camp Killoqua. Event by Camp Fire Snohomish County Council and Camp Killoqua. This progressive happy hour will allow you to wander through the trails of Camp Killoqua while enjoying 4 small bite food stations featuring camp takes on some Oktoberfest favorites, and two drink tickets per person! We'll have plenty of covered shelters for socializing, campfires to warm yourselves, and some fun games to play. While not eating, guests will be asked to wear a facemask and maintain physical distance from staff and other event guests not in your party. Purchase tickets (secure. acceptiva.com) by September 25th and sign-up for an arrival time so we are able to stager our visitors to ensure social distancing is maintained. This event is for 21 years and older, id's will be checked for alcohol, no children please.

WHERE IS THE CAMANO VISITOR CENTER?

Our physical Visitor Center has been removed from the IGA parking lot. While we are sad to see the building go - we have new and exciting Virtual Visitor Kiosks ready to install inside Camano Commons Marketplace and Camano Plaza IGA. These interactive screens will be accompanied by a brochure rack for our popular maps and other tourism information. Keep an eye our for installation at both places over the next few weeks. If you have questions we can always be reached at 360-629-7136 or chamber@camanoisland.org.

PLASTIC BAG BAN

During the 2020 legislative session, the Legislature passed a state-wide ban on single-use plastic bags, an effort to reduce plastic pollution, litter, and waste. This ban will also benefit Washington's recycling system: Reducing contamination in the recycling and compost systems; Promoting reuse and recycled content; Building consistency in policy and enforcement across the state; Supporting the recycled paper industry. We collaborated with local governments, retailers, business associations, and non-profits to begin this effort, and have developed a bag ban outreach toolkit that is formatted for accessibility and available in 17 languages. When the bag ban goes into effect on Oct. 1, 2021, anyone may submit an observation of businesses not in compliance with the new requirements using our reporting form. We will use this information to follow up with businesses to ensure their understanding of the new law. Repeated non-compliance may result in penalties.

EVERYDAY GARDEN VARIETY VARMINTS

I'm planting the third succession of beans and peas down in the garden today. This year I built a fence inside the outer fence, a double perimeter for the deer and rabbits that breached the outer barrier last year. I'm considering a moat, possibly a security system, and last resort, my granddad's old 16 gauge shotgun. If I have to channel Elmer Fudd, so be it. For those of you who don't have vegetable gardens and even those who refuse to eat 'rabbit food', you can stop reading right now. I'm not going to pull a Come to Jesus and Jacama on you, but I will tell you a garden is one very easy connection to the earth. To the Land. To what was once, before the spinning jenny and the I-phone, as close to a cosmic umbilical as I can imagine. You know, not counting sex.

A garden is optimism shaded by luck. Bad weather, pests, varmints, blight --- but you plant it and hope for the best. You learn to share with those pesky wabbits, with the crows and the deer, the slugs and the snails, hopefully with the neighbors too. You weed, you water, you pray to the gods of weather. And you curse, you howl, you plant a second time. Or a third. This is the world, the universe, the big roulette wheel, the game of chance and the luck of the draw. You succeed and you fail and mostly it's out of your hands.

Yeah, you can buy potatoes at the Kroger, corn from the vegetable stands on the highway, frozen peas from Costco, fresh tomatoes ... but don't let me go postal on fresh tomatoes, a fruit the agri-assholes have completely ruined. Gardening is farming on the micro-scale. It's mad-dening and it's hard work. But ... I wouldn't stop for anything. Growing some of what we eat is a joy, pure and simple. Well, maybe not so simple. - Jack Archibald - www.skeeterdaddle.net

PEACH SALAD WITH GRILLED CHICKEN AND POPPY SEED DRESSING

Mixed greens topped with sweet peaches, wild blackberries, fresh corn, red onions, toasted pecans, and goat cheese crumbles drizzled with homemade poppy seed dressing. It’s summer on a plate, Enjoy!

CHICKEN: 2 boneless skinless chicken breasts

MARINADE: 6 T. extra virgin olive oil; 4 cloves garlic, minced; 1 tsp. dried thyme; 1/2 tsp. dried oregano; 1 tsp. salt; 1/2 tsp. freshly ground black pepper; 1 1/2 tsp. lemon zest (from 1 lemon)

POPPY SEED DRESSING: 1/3 c. mayonnaise; 1/4 c. milk; 2 T. granulated sugar; 1 T. apple cider vinegar; 1 T. poppy seeds

SALAD: 1 (10 oz.) cont. baby spring mixed greens; 3 peaches or nectarines, sliced; 1 c. fresh picked blackberries; 2 ears fresh corn, husked, kernels cut from cob; 1/2 sm. red onion, thinly sliced; 1/2 c. chopped pecans, toasted; 1 (4 oz.) cont. goat cheese crumbles

DIRECTIONS: CHICKEN: 1. Place chicken in a 1-gallon zipper bag, using a mallet pound the chicken to an even 1/2-inch thickness. 2. MARINADE: In a separate 1-gallon zipper bag, combine all marinade ingredients. Add the chicken breasts to the bag, seal the bag and massage the marinade into the meat until evenly coated. Place the bag in a bowl and refrigerate for at least 4 hours or overnight. 3. Pre-heat an outdoor grill to 425 degrees. Brush the grates with olive oil. 4. Place the chicken on the grill. Grill until cooked through, rotating once halfway through cooking, about 3-4 minutes per side. (Chicken is done when an instant thermometer inserted into the center of the chicken reads 160-165 degrees.) Transfer to a cutting board and let the chicken rest 10-15 minutes before slicing into strips or dicing into cubes. 5. POPPY SEED DRESSING: In a small bowl, whisk together mayonnaise, milk, sugar, apple cider vinegar and poppy seeds; refrigerate until ready to use. 6. SALAD: In a large bowl, gently toss together mixed greens, peaches, blackberries, corn, onion, pecans, and grilled chicken. Transfer salad to a serving bowl or platter. Drizzle with poppy seed dressing and sprinkle with goat cheese crumbles. Serve immediately after adding dressing. Enjoy!

Did You Know?

The Stanwood Area Historical Society asks, "Did You Know?"

Excerpts taken from the "Stanwood Story", written for the Stanwood News by Alice Essex.

The vessel, christened by Mrs. L.H. Kelsey, was officially "U.S. Transport, D.C.L. 1330." Accompanying Mrs. Kelsey on the flag-bedecked christening platform were her two daughters from Seattle, and Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Kelsey, who but a few weeks previously became sole owners of the local yard. Flower girl, Betty Loy Amundson, presented Mrs. Kelsey with a basket of carnations and in keeping with tradition, Kelsey gave his mother-sponsor a diamond-studded wristwatch.

Commenting briefly during the festivities were C.J. Gunderson, local Civil Defense coordinator; Harry Dence, president of Stanwood Commercial Club; Captain McCallum, Chief of the Engineering Division of the U.S.A.T.C. Supply Base; E.H. Thorson, general superintendent of the local plant and Ray Sandberg, who presented the shipyard employees.

William J. Miller, Jr., resident government inspector, lauded the craft's fine workmanship and Kelsey thanked local businessmen, who volunteered to pinch-hit on four-hour night shifts during last minute labor shortage. Special guests for the occasion were representatives and their wives from out-of-town supply houses. A chicken dinner, hosted by the Kelseys' for guests and launching participants, was the grand finale of the evening.

As noted earlier, the plant had been established in Dec. 1942, as the Carl E. Edlund Shipyard, with Edlund, his son, Clarence, and Kelsey as members of the company. The site was the former Stanwood Lumber Co. property on the waterfront. Shortly before launching of the first ocean-going barge, Kelsey bought the Edlund interests, changed the name to Stanwood Shipyards, announced plans for expansion and the awarding of a second government contract.

The third barge was launched in Dec. 1943, at which time Kelsey reported another contract and the addition of the Barbee Shipyard Co., of Seattle, to the local holdings. The following excerpt from a letter to the NEWS by employee Sandberg in Feb. 1944, reflects the spirit of the nation during World War 11...also the attitude of local workers toward the war effort, Sandberg said in part:

"While making a tour of the Barbee Shipyards (owned by the Stanwood Shipyards Co.) I saw the first barge built in Stanwood, loaded to the gunwales ready to be towed west by a tug. It was a great sight... every man, who worked on the barge, should have a feeling of pride to know that he is aiding the war effort and that the hours of toil invested are being repaid by knowing that Stanwood barges are carrying supplies to our fighting forces in the Pacific."

In April 1944, when the fifth barge went into the Stilly, a glowing report of the company's operations was given by Harry Dence, who served as master of ceremonies. In its 16 months of operation, he noted that the plant had chalked up 424,320-man hours and paid upwards of $565, 760 in wages at an average wage of $1.27 per hour. Many more thousand had been spent locally for materials and contracts had totaled in the millions.

At the August launching of the seventh and last barge under contract, the story was far from glowing. Kelsey came forth with the news that operations in Stanwood were to be terminated. As a gesture of appreciation (and perhaps to soften the blow) he invited the employees and townspeople to a goodwill dance, courtesy of the company.

To this unwelcome news, the business community rallied with a joint session of the Stanwood and East Stanwood Commercial Clubs to explore purchase of the yard by the two towns. A surprise was in the future—next time.

THE GREAT DYING

About 250 million years ago acute climate change occurred when huge reserves of coal burned pumping large amounts of carbon into the atmosphere. Today it is known as "The Great Dying" and was probably the closest life on our planet has come to being completely extinguished. About 65 million years ago an external event, an impact of an asteroid, created a planetary firestorm that killed 75% of all life on Earth.

Slower changes occur from predictable variations in Earth's orbit around the Sun. These slow variations can trigger dramatic change: At one time Camano Island was under 2 miles of ice. Lush rain forest once existed in the Arctic. Less dramatic changes can be influenced by the Moon, for example, high tides locally will be higher than normal in the 2030s.

It's not hard to see our climate is changing and it's quantifiable that the change is triggered by warming. It would be easy to argue this as all just normal cyclical variations except the pace of carbon being released into the atmosphere is now higher than even during The Great Dying. I'm afraid I also have some more bad news: Our planet currently, according to its natural cyclic relationship to the Sun, should be cooling. Even during this golden age of temperate weather devoid of major astronomically triggered disasters, every hominid between us and chimps has gone extinct. Neanderthals are often portrayed as rather stupid, but really were not that different from us, in fact the intermingling was extensive enough that we have Neanderthal ancestry in our DNA. Despite that they are gone and we humans became, at one point in the past, what would be called today a critically endangered species on the brink of extinction.

We may have more options than they did in their time, but our cleverness is not enough to survive an attack on two or more fronts. Species become stressed when their environment changes, through disease, or through externally triggered events such as ice ages or asteroid impacts...not to mention our unique ability to create weapons capable of decimating the planet in about an hour. As our ancestors have shown there is no guarantee, even if we do everything right, that we too will not become extinct. We really need to think how much we wish to draw our survival capital down in those areas that are within our control.
