STANWOOD HEARING

Exercise caution when purchasing direct-to-consumer hearing products over the counter (OTC) or online. The Attorney General cautions all consumers to beware of medical scams, including the sale of hearing aids by unlicensed dispensers.

The Do's & Don'ts to consider before purchasing an OTC hearing device:

DO's	DON'Ts
Get a professional hearing test to know your personal hearing needs.	Do not buy hearing aids online or over-the-counter without first consulting a licensed professional.
Learn the options for your personal hearing need and discuss them with a professional.	Do not rely on online hearing screenings to diagnose hearing loss. Seek professional help.
Learn your options and what is safe. Seek the help of a professional.	Do not expect the same quality in an OTC aid that you receive from a hearing healthcare provider.

UPCYCLED FOX

This fantastic fox is made from a cardboard toilet roll tube and two cupcake cases – simply add beads or googly eyes to bring him to life. Takes 30 mins plus drying time

You will need: newspaper, orange paint, paintbrushes, toilet roll tube, 2 white cupcake cases, 3 black beads, glue

What to do: Lay down newspaper to protect the work surface. Paint the toilet roll tube orange and leave to dry. Open both cupcake cases out flat, fold both in half, then a quarter and then in half again. To make the face, open one of the cases back out so that it is in a quarter-fold with a crease down the middle. Glue the inside folded quarters flat together. To make the tail, glue the second case together so you have a thinner cone shape. Paint the two folded cupcake cases orange, leaving the tips unpainted for the tail and nose. Leave to dry, then turn over and paint the undersides. Leave to dry. Once the body is dry, create the ears by pressing the top front and the top back of the tube in towards the center. Glue two beads onto the face for eyes and another for the nose. Stick the fox's face to its body and glue the tail in place at the back, pointy side out.

LEMON VOLCANO

This reaction is full of Vitamin C: CHEMISTRY!

WHAT YOU'LL NEED:

- 2 lemons
- Baking soda
- Craft stick
- Food coloring
- Small bowl
- Baking sheet
- Measuring spoons
- Knife (make sure you have an adult around to help!)

HOW TO DO IT:

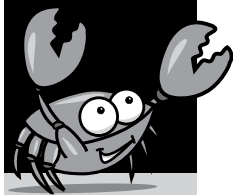

1. With an adult, cut the end off of one lemon so that it can stand up on its own.
2. Next, have an adult help by either cutting this lemon in half, or coring it to create a hole in the lemon. You can also try it both ways if you have enough lemons!
3. Place this lemon on the baking sheet.
4. Use the craft stick to squish the lemon a bit and release some of the juice. This will make the chemical reaction even more exciting!
5. Cut the second lemon in half and squeeze out its juice into a small bowl for an even bigger reaction!
6. Add a few drops of food coloring directly to the sliced or cored lemon.
7. With the measuring spoons, put about a teaspoon of baking soda on the lemon and watch what happens! Keep the reaction going by adding juice from the other lemon and more baking soda!
8. This experiment works because the lemon juice is an acid, and when it reacts with the baking soda it forms carbon dioxide, which causes bubbling! You can tinker with the amount of ingredients to change up your reaction, and even add a little dish soap to make an oozing reaction!

CRYPTO IS A GOOD DESCRIPTION

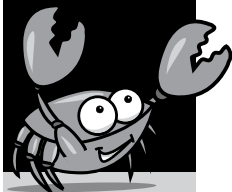

Techno Tom was morosely stirring half a pint of sugar into his coffee, no doubt figuring the sugar blast would quadruple the jolt from the Diner's caffeine. Freddie Fairlane, one table over with the other Flatheads, the vintage car guyz, watched for awhile then moseyed over to sit at Tom's table. "You seem a little down in the mouth, amigo," he said. "Lose your best friend?"

Techno didn't even look up, just kept stirring that coffee he was apparently never going to drink, maybe just let it congeal to a cold pudding. "I didn't lose my best friend, Fred, but I'm losing my shirt ... and maybe my marriage too." Freddie grabbed his plate of half eaten heart attack, chicken fried steak, greasy potatoes, side of four eggs and made himself at home beside Tom. He wolfed down a couple forkfuls, then, mouth crammed with cholesterol, asked him what the hell he was talking about.

"I put most of my retirement funds into bitcoin, that's what I'm talking about. Seemed like a sure bet at the time ... not so much now." Fred swilled his coffee, took another shovel load of breakfast, then asked what was bitcoin. Techno Tom put his head on the table next to his undrunk coffee cup and made a whimpering noise that attracted attention from most of the Flatheads, men who had known defeat themselves at the hands of rusted bolts and impossible to diagnose electrical problems, defeats they mostly kept locked inside their garages or simply expurgated with howls of rage out of hearing from their fellow enthusiasts. Misery may love company but most of us aren't looking for an invitation.

Fred had quit chewing his chicken fried steak. The spectacle of his seating companion head down on the formica table top made eating, even for Freddie, an unhelpful remedy for whatever problem Tom was unable to cope with. He looked back at the table of his automotive pals who were all staring at the strange tableau before them, one that even in the notoriously eclectic Diner seemed a bit out of place during a quiet breakfast. Fred put down his fork and raised an eyebrow to the onlookers before shrugging helplessly. "Any of you guys know what a bitcoin is?" Tom, without lifting his head, quietly groaned.

NAOMI WARK

Upon retirement and moving to Camano Island in 2013, Naomi Wark focused her energy on completing a goal that started more than a decade earlier. After beginning her first novel only to have it sit idle in a computer file for ten years, Naomi joined the Skagit Valley Writer's League. With the support and encouragement from fellow writers, Naomi released her first novel, Wildflowers in Winter, in 2017. She is thrilled to finally have the prequel, Songs of Spring, available as an ebook and paperback online and at local businesses in Stanwood and Camano Island. Songs of Spring is a historical fiction that opens in 1902 with the tense delivery of Edna Mooney and spans the next twenty-four years until the birth of Edna's first child. During this period of extreme progress, numerous historical events occurred, including the Alaska Pacific Yukon Exposition, the sinking of the Titanic, the Great War, and the 1918 Spanish Flu pandemic. Edna and her older sister, Pearl, strive to achieve their dreams as they encounter the limitations faced by women and societal norms and learn to live with their decisions. Excerpts from Songs of Spring have won awards in two separate writing contests. Excerpts from both books can be previewed on Amazon. WHIDBEY AND CAMANO ISLANDS TOURISM WANTS TO HEAR FROM YOU

Tourism contributes to Island County's economy by providing jobs and supporting local businesses ($283 million in travel related spending in 2021*). There is a desire to thoughtfully explore ways that tourism can improve the lives of residents, enrich visitors' experiences, and benefit the natural environment of the islands. Whidbey and Camano Islands Tourism have enrolled key tourism stakeholders and community members to participate in the Transformational Travel Council's Regenerative Places Program, so that we may genuinely improve and benefit our community. Local input is essential to this process. Please complete this brief survey of 13 questions. The survey may be submitted anonymously. It closes on October 31, 2022. Thank you for sharing your perspective, as we will be using this information to help inform the collective values of the islands. Your participation is greatly appreciated. PAY ATTENTION TO THE CORRECT MAIL BOXES

"We have a UPS and a FedEx pickup box in our parking lot. People put USPS in the FedEx box – sometimes they put the UPS in the Fed Ex and vice versa. On Friday, the UPS put the packages that were for USPS on top of the UPS box, because they cannot take USPS – so they sat there all weekend, collecting ash and I'm surprised they didn't get stolen. It happens on a regular basis." – Camano Island Windermere.

THE BOOGIE BIN

In May of 2014, a sick, striped puppy entered our lives and changed the way we saw rescue animals forever. With his endless supply of humor, love, and zest for life, Boogie makes an impact on every life he touches--human and animal alike. He has sparked a drive in us to help the ones that need it most: the animals with no family to call their own.

In January of 2021, we started a project collecting in-kind donations for animal shelters and rescues across Washington State in his honor. Shelters and rescues are always in need of supplies, and many rely solely on donations from the public to keep the animals in their care fed, comfy, and free from boredom. This is where The Boogie Bin Project steps in! Donate some food, treats, blankets, or toys to us! Each month we choose a local rescue or shelter as the beneficiary of the donations we gather, and at the end of the month we deliver everything you've donated directly to them.

The donation process is simple: you have left over pet supplies you no longer need or want, and you drop them at one of our collection bin locations. That's it! The Boogie Bin Brigade does the rest. Whatever one rescue or agency can't use, we find an organization that can.

Thank you for your support, we can't do what we do without you!

VOLUNTEERING / MENTORING AT SHS

CALLING ALL PARENTS/GUARDIANS! Who wants to go back to high school for a couple days a year? We are gauging the interest for a parent volunteer group (no name yet) to be formed at the high school to support our students with positive engagement. This group would be like the Watchdogs groups that are formed at many of our elementary schools but is not exclusively for dads. We want everyone involved who wants to support our students and the hard-working staff at the high school. Our youth depend on us to lead by example! If you are interested, please e-mail your interest to join us for a short kick off meeting (time and date TBD) to tedmccammant@gmail.com by Monday, October 3rd.

BUDDY, CAN YOU SPARE A DIME?

Few people know that when I was young, I was a serious coin collector. From age six until 25, I collected Mercury dimes. Fun fact: The Mercury dime was minted between 1916 and 1945. It was replaced in 1946 by the Roosevelt dime after the death of FDR in April 1945, as a way to honor his legacy.

The current value of Mercury dimes ranges widely. Some of them are worth barely more than their face value. But one exceptionally well-preserved edition of the 1938-S Mercury dime has been assigned a value of $364,000 – or roughly $363,998 more than the current value of my Topps 1963 Major League baseball card of Willie Tasby of the Washington Senators. (He had a bad year that year.)

Several factors influence the market value of a coin: How many were produced, whether they ever entered into circulation, the coin's overall condition, and whether or not they were ever part of MY OWN private collection, in which case they would be considered primarily for their meltdown value.

When I first started collecting, I often asked my mother to take me to the bank where I asked the tellers whether they had any Mercury dimes they could exchange for my Roosevelt dimes. Initially, they were happy to trade with me. It was when I started asking the tellers if they'd trade me their Mercury dimes for my 1963 Willie Tasby baseball card that I started to run into some serious resistance.

By the early 1960s Mercury dimes suddenly became almost impossible to locate – much like my middle school classmates, who, during recess, apparently decided hanging out with a coin-collecting nerd like me might ruin their chances to get girls to go out with them.

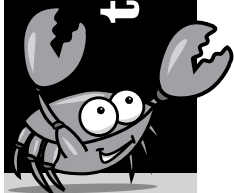

I had one coin that was either a 1917-S (valued, depending on its condition, at between $1,000 and $5,000) or a 1917-D (today worth only 25 cents). It was hard to tell whether it was an "S" or a "D." So, I told everybody it was an S, thinking that might make me seem cool to girls. Fun fact: It did not.

As I got older, I thought about perhaps handing my Mercury dime collection down to one of my kids someday as a precious heirloom. I hid it away in the back of my closet, for safe keeping, right next to my 1963 Willie Tasby baseball card for decades.

Fifty years after I saved my first Mercury dime, at the age of 56, I finally decided to bring my rare coin collection to a reputable coin shop to have it professionally appraised. In my mind I envisioned that our encounter would be like a scene from an episode of Antiques Roadshow.

I could almost hear the life-altering words of the coin appraiser: "Tim, I would say your impressive assemblage represents one of the finest private collections of Mercury dimes I have ever seen. I see you even have the rare 1917-S coin, although at first glance I thought it might have been a 1917-D. I would say, based on the immaculate condition of your coins, conservatively, it has a current value of between $150,000 to $200,000.”

Oh My God! Then I opened my eyes and realized I was still in my car in the parking lot. I entered the store. Over the past 50 years, my modest initial collection had swelled to 75 Mercury dimes, meaning the face value alone was $7.50. It did not take the appraiser long to return with his assessment: “I would say the current value of your collection is around $10.00. I’d be willing to give you $13.00.”

“What about my rare 1917-S coin? Isn’t that worth something?”

“You mean your 1917-D? Yeah. It’s worth about 25 cents, give or take.”

Seriously? I’d been holding onto my collection for over 50 years, and its value had increased by roughly the price of a large Wendy’s Frosty. I was completely deflated. I finally decided to accept the coin store owner’s offer of $13.00 and I said goodbye to the “precious” coin collection I had zealously guarded for the past half century.

I no longer have a single Mercury dime. But I still have my 1963 Willie Tasby baseball card. I’m sure eventually it will be worth a lot of money. Someday. It’s just a matter of time.

ROASTED CORN AND POBLANO CHOWDER

Roasting the corn and peppers in the oven before adding them to the soup adds a wonderful smoky flavor to this chowder, Enjoy!

CHOWDER: 2-3 poblano chiles, stemmed, halved lengthwise & seeded; 1 T. vegetable oil, divided; 6 ears fresh corn on cob, kernels cut off ; Salt and pepper; 4 slices bacon, finely chopped ; 1 sm. yellow onion, finely chopped ; 2 cloves garlic, minced; 7 c. chicken broth; 1 lb. red potatoes, un-peeled, cut into ½-inch chunks; 1/4 c. half-and-half; 2 (6-inch) corn tortillas, torn into 1-inch pieces; 1 T. minced fresh cilantro, plus more for serving; 1 T. lime juice, lime wedges for serving GARNISHES: Crispy bacon crumbles; Chopped cilantro; Lime wedges; Sour cream; Crumbled queso fresco; Corn tortilla strips, optional

DIRECTIONS: 1. Preheat the oven to broil. Position the oven rack 6-inches from the broiler element. Line a rimmed baking sheet with foil. Toss poblanos with 1 teaspoon vegetable oil in a bowl. Arrange poblanos cut side down in a single row on the hot side of the baking sheet. 2. In the same bowl, toss the corn kernels in remaining 2 teaspoons vegetable oil, 1/2 teaspoon of salt and a 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Spread corn in an even layer on the remaining portion of the baking sheet next to the poblanos. Broil until the poblanos are mostly blackened and the corn is well browned about 10-15 minutes, flipping the poblanos and stirring the corn halfway through broiling. 3. Place poblanos in a zipper top plastic bag and let cool for 5 minutes. Remove skins and chop poblanos into 1/2-inch pieces; transfer to a clean bowl and set aside. 4. Meanwhile, cook bacon in a Dutch oven over medium heat until crispy about 5-7 minutes. Using a slotted spoon, transfer bacon to a paper towel -lined plate. Add onions and 1/4 teaspoon salt to the fat in the pot and cook until the onion is softened and beginning to brown about 5-7 minutes. Add garlic and cook until fragrant about 30 seconds. 5. Add broth, potatoes, browned corn, and 1/2 teaspoon salt to the Dutch oven and bring to a simmer, scraping up any brown bits in the pan. Cook at a vigorous simmer until the potatoes are tender about 15-20 minutes, remove from heat and stir in half-and-half. 6. Transfer 2 cups chowder to a blender. Add tortillas, process until smooth about 1 minute. Return pureed chowder to the pot and stir in chopped poblanos. Return to medium heat and bring to a simmer. Stir in cilantro, lime juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. 7. Serve chowder in bowls, passing crumbled bacon, cilantro leaves, lime wedges, sour cream, queso fresco and tortilla strips for garnishing. Serves 6.

Meet your Commissioner

Janet St. Clair

Hello!

For the last four years I've served as your County Commissioner, representing District 3. Before running for office, I was a teacher, social worker and nonprofit director.

I come from a family dedicated to service. My father served in the Navy during WWII and my mother was a teacher. I'm proud to support our active duty military and veterans.

I'd be honored to earn your vote on November 8th.
