ARSENIC & OLD LACE ON THE STANWOOD STAGE

The classic farce, Arsenic and Old Lace will be presented by Stanwood High School. The play begins with Mortimer Brewster, quite happy in his quiet life, ready to announce his engagement to his longtime girlfriend. But his world is turned upside down when he finds out his dear aunts have been poisoning lonely old men, and his maniacal brother, also a murderer, has returned to their house! Mortimer must somehow stop his aunts and brother, protect his fiancé -- all while trying to keep his own sanity. Arsenic and Old Lace is a crazy, classic farce, that many will remember from the 1944 Cary Grant movie. It's a dark comedy filled with suspense, laughs, and elderberry wine. 7:00 pm at the Stanwood High School Performing Arts Center. Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students, sold at the door.

MABANA INSTITOOT OF AESTHETIC ENLARGEMENT

Back in the late 20th Century the South End --- and the entire island, really --- was inundated by hordes of artists. We were like a sprawling refugee camp of painters and potters fleeing their hellish urban existence, so many in such a short time, old timers like myself worried that even the tides would be affected, all the pressure from artistic egos unleashed like a methane tsunami from thawing tundra.

Art, suddenly, was everywhere. Studios sprouted in barns and chicken coops, galleries sprang up in old garages, art tours became yearly events, even the Camano Chamber of Commerce was taken over by brush-wielding artisans bent on bringing culture to the unwashed masses. Sculptures appeared in the parks, murals were painted on buildings, blown glass balls were hidden in shops to entice customers.

Art was everywhere, it seemed. And yet, there was one glaring void. One corner of the once idyllic South End that seemed impervious to the onslaught of this artistic tidal wave. There was no school to train the next generation. We thought maybe, just maybe, the aging artists would slowly die off and eventually, by sheer attrition, the pastoral existence we had once known would return. That dream died the day the Mabana Institoot of Aesthetic Enlargement opened its doors, offering courses in everything from macramé to bronze casting. Some of the artists became instructors --- some even enrolled as students.

Down at the Pilot Lounge we regulars held our heads, we moaned, we cursed, we wailed and we prayed the Institoot would go bankrupt. Why Lord, why us? Why inflict the locust plague on us? What had we done to offend thee?

Two Toke, ever the philosophical one of us, late in the evening of a mournful drinking bout the night of the Institoot's Grand Opening, summed it up. "Boyz," he said, sloshing his 7th or 8th pint onto our table, "boyz," he said again, momentarily searching for the lost thread. "Boyz, you live in paradise and it was only a matter of time."

"A matter of time for what?" Little Jimmy asked after it was obvious TT had slid into some kind of self-induced reverie. Two Toke clawed slowly back to the reality of our sopping littered table, all eyes on him, all ears alert, all of us eager for some hopeful chunk of wisdom.

"To have paradise," he said, "you have to accept its opposite." And with that, he laid his head on the table, cheek to spilled ale, and passed out. The rest of us looked forlornly at this sad tableau. Finally Jerry broke the silence. "I'm gonna drive him home. Somebody want to help me here?" All six of us stood up, albeit wobbly, two under TT's armpits, two grabbing his feet, two moving chairs and holding doors. Like pallbearers we hauled out our compatriot and our hopes. The Institoot still offers quarterly courses. And we still drink at the Pilot Lounge. Although ... in much greater moderation.

Dining Guide

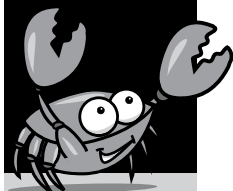

THANKS GIVING

Thanksgiving was celebrated in October 1621. It was organized by Governor William Bradford of Plymouth, Massachusetts, to celebrate the recent immigrants' first successful corn harvest in the New World.

There's no record of turkey being served, for example—there were at least five deer carcasses present, and the event lasted a full three days.

Supplies: Cardstock paper (brown shades), Colorful craft paper, Pencil, Ruler, Scissors, Glue, Googly Eyes

Directions: Cut out the pieces for the turkey. Glue the wings on both sides of the body. Then, glue the wattle and beak on the face. Glue the head with the body. Allow the glue to dry. Meanwhile, fold and join the ends of the papers strips to create teardrop shapes. Fold all the pieces like this for the tail. First, take one piece of the tail and glue it on the middle of the turkey's back. Then, glue the rest of the pieces for the tail around the back. Attach googly eyes to turkey face. Thanksgiving is a big weekend for movie releases, especially flicks the whole family can go out and enjoy together. As of today, the 2013 Disney animated musical Frozen is the No. 1 Thanksgiving release of all time, pulling in $93 million domestically.

AMERICAN BARN HUNT CHAMPIONSHIPS WINNER

Susan Cole of Stanwood competed in Springfield, Missouri at the National Championships for American Barn Hunt with her rat terrier: Meraki-River Ridge's Calamity Awaits Her Foes. 177 dogs were accepted into the competition, and 24 attended from Washington. Calamity was in the top 75 who went into the finals with 2 second placements, and went on to win a first place and third place of the 7 runs in the small dog division (33 dogs). She won over all dog sizes in the Hurdle event, having the fastest times in two runs of a 50 yard dash over small jumps and correctly indicate which of the three tubes at the end had the rat in it.

Christmas Room 2022 will be held on Monday, December 12th from 9:00 – 1:30 in our Worship Center. We work in tandem with His Pantry providing food shopping as well as gift shopping the same day.

A SIMPLE GESTURE SPECIAL SHOPPING LIST

Soft throw blankets (most needed) Ear buds, Small Bluetooth speakers, Gift cards limited to $20 at local eateries – Starbucks, Subway, Gyro Stop, Mammoth Burger, Taco Time, McDonalds, MOD Pizza, Jimmy's Pizza, Socks, Pajamas, Stocking hat. THANKS GIVING

"Jingle Bells," the classic Christmas song written by James Lord Pierpont in 1857, wasn't meant to be about Christmas. Originally titled "One Horse Open Sleigh," the ditty was meant to be sung on Thanksgiving. When it was reprinted in 1859, however, the name was changed to "Jingle Bells, or the One Horse Open Sleigh," and was prescribed for Christmas.

BREAKING UP WITH AN ENGLISH TEACHER

[The following text exchange took place between a female business executive named Roxanne and her boyfriend of four years, Virgil, a high school English teacher.]

Roxanne: Dear Virgil, I gotta tell you something and it's been on my mind for a long time.

Virgil: Good evening, Roxanne. Thank you for your text. By the way, "gotta" is not proper English. I believe you meant to say, "I must" or "I have to." What's up?

Roxanne: We need 2 talk.

Virgil: You errantly used the digit "2" as in one more than one. So, you've lost me. We need "one plus one talk?" That makes no sense. Please clarify.

Roxanne: Oh, for God's sake, Virgil. Okay. Got it.

Virgil: Who's got what? "Got it" is missing a subject. Who has it? A policeman? The Queen of England? My schnauzer? Could you clarify?

Roxanne: Jesus, Virgil. I'm talking about US. We need to talk about US.

Virgil: Capitalizing the letters US only makes sense if you're referring to our country. But even then, technically you should put periods after the letters since it's an abbreviation for United States.

Roxanne: Virgil, focus. For the millionth time, I don't need another syntax lesson.

Virgil: I believe you mean "another grammar" lesson. Syntax is about word order. Your mistake was –

Roxanne: My MISTAKE was taking four freakin' years to tell you what I should have told you four years ago. It's over.

Virgil: That was a poorly constructed sentence, Roxanne. You used the phrase "four years" twice when you only needed to use it once. You should try to be more word-efficient.

Roxanne: Okay, Virgil. How's this for word efficient? GOODBYE!!!!

Virgil: One exclamation point is sufficient to communicate emphasis of thought.

Roxanne: What the F are you talking about now? So, tell me. What's the grammatical error in this next sentence? I HATE YOU!. I wish you would go to hell, you annoying little dweeb.

Virgil: Since you asked, "Hell" should be capitalized since you're referring to a specific place. Had you meant it like "that job was hell", then lower case would be appropriate. It's a common mistake.

Roxanne: Thank you, oh savior of syntax. One more thing. I've been sleeping with your best friend, Todd. For the past year. How do you like them apples?

Virgil: I believe you mean "those apples."

Roxanne: Whatever, dude. Proper word usage is what really matters here. Not the fact that you've been ignoring me for the past 3 years.

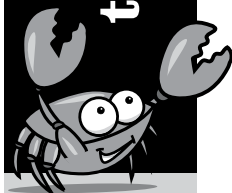

Virgil: The sentence beginning with "not the fact that you've been ignoring me" is a subordinate clause and therefore must be connected to a main clause.

Roxanne: That's your takeaway here, Captain Conjunctive. That it's a subordinate clause?

Virgil: You just did it again. Are you teasing me? You're so adorable when you tease.

Roxanne: For the love of God, Virgil, how can you be so dense? I can't bare your obtuseness any longer.

Virgil: I believe you meant you can't bear it any longer – unless you're naked. Are you naked?

Roxanne: Wow, how'd you guess? Your sexy grammar disciplining has got me all hot and bothered. You're an idiot, Virgil. Can you spot the mistake in this sentence? i never wnt 2 sea yr face agin 4 the wrest of my lyfe!!!!!!

Virgil: Well, to be honest, you made so many mistakes, I don't know where to begin.

Roxanne: No, Virgil. Actually, I made just one mistake – signing up for your stupid Grammar for Adults class four years ago. I H8 U. U R IMPOSSIBLE!!!!

Virgil: Wait a minute, Roxanne. Your many egregious abbreviations aside, are you saying you're breaking up with me?

Roxanne: Wow! How'd you figure it out so quick, Sherlock?

Virgil: Quickly. The word you were looking for is quickly. And who's this Sherlock person?

Roxanne: You really don't get out much, do you? Bye, Virgil.

Virgil: Where are you going?

Roxanne: Would love to stick around for that lecture, but I've got to return to the earth, or is it the Earth? Doesn't matter. I could care less.

Virgil: I think you mean "you COULDN'T care less." Roxanne? Roxanne? Hello? Are you still there?

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

CASA'S PET OF THE WEEK:

LILLY is a sweet 9 year old Persian. Lilly is a quiet gal who can be a bit shy at first, but once she warms up she makes a great lap cat. She would do best in a quiet, adult only home as children and loud noises tend to startle her. Lilly does well with other cats, although she would do best in a dog free home. If Lilly sounds like the gal for you, please stop by the shelter to meet her.

NOAH'S PET OF THE WEEK:

Hello, I am BOB. I am a 30 pound, 2 year old terrier mix. I am so excited to soon have a loving family of my own, maybe even a warm bed and some treats there too. I am doing great with my two doggy roommates here but I would love to meet any dog friends or children before I go home with them.

THANKSGIVING ENCHILADAS

Thanksgiving leftovers never tasted so GOOD!

INGREDIENTS: 1 (14 oz.) can whole cranberry sauce, or 1 3/4 c. home-made cranberry sauce; 1 1/4 c. enchilada sauce; 2 1/2 c. cooked shredded turkey or chicken; 1/2 c. canned black beans, rinsed and drained; 3 scallions, thinly sliced; 1/4 c. chopped fresh cilantro, plus more for garnish; 1/2 tsp. cumin; 1/4 tsp. garlic powder; 1/4 tsp. salt; 1/4 tsp. black pepper; 2 c. shredded Pepper Jack cheese or Monterey Jack cheese; 16 (5-inch) good quality corn tortillas; Sour cream.

DIRECTIONS: 1. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees. Lightly coat a 9x13-inch casserole dish with nonstick cooking spray. 2. In a medium bowl, combine the cranberry sauce and enchilada sauce. Pour a 1/2 cup of the sauce mixture in the bottom of the casserole dish. 3. In a large bowl, combine turkey, beans, scallions, cilantro, cumin, garlic powder, salt, pepper, 1 cup of the cheese and 1/2 cup of the cranberry mixture. 4. Wrap tortillas in a clean dish towel and warm in the microwave to make them pliable. 5. Place 1/4 cup of the filling on each tortilla: roll up and place seam-side down in the casserole dish. Cover with the remaining cranberry sauce mixture and remaining 1 cup of cheese. 6. Cover with foil and bake for 25-30 minutes until the cheese is melted and bubbly. 7. Serve garnished with fresh cilantro and a dollop of sour cream if desired.
