EASTER TRIVIA

Question: What state held the largest Easter egg hunt ever in the United States?

Answer: Florida

FRIDAY, APRIL 7

ARTIST RECEPTION FOR JOHN HADLEY

5 to 7 PM at Beach 1 Gallery. "When I was a youngster in Switzerland I took art classes. In the spring, I crewed on a rowing team. When I came back to Los Angeles, I earned a degree in Architecture and have practiced ever since. During my lifetime, I have enjoyed the outdoors at the beach or the mountains. The whims of nature inspire me, and their elements gave direction to my architectural designs. Five years ago, I became a resident of Camano and began rowing and painting again. Every day I awaken to the clear air on Camano Island, the vibrancy of colors, and the sounds of nature. When I row, I follow the clouds, talk to the seals, think about being alive, and listen. With painting, I only have the constraints of my canvas and my own mind. Brush strokes, colors and compositions give me freedom of expression and enable me to put feelings into my art." - John Hadley. His art will be displayed and for sale the entire month of March. The Gallery is open 7 days a week. We will be serving pop, wine, water & bags of chips for the reception. 1243 Beach Drive, Camano Island. 360-387-1655.

Camano Water Association

Camano Water Association Water System Technician

Starting Salary: $28 (approx.)

Benefits: Medical, Vacation (5 days after one year, 10 after two, then 1 additional per year until max), retirement account

Closing Date: Sunday, April 30th, 2023

Camano Water Association (CWA) is looking to fill the role of Water System Technician. The individual chosen for this position will be under the direct supervision of the Operations Manager, who is responsible for routine operations, systems operations, equipment maintenance, water sampling, and customer service. As such, whether a candidate has prior experience or not, our current Operator will be responsible for deciding the day-to-day scope and workload of the successful candidate. This list of possible work duties is not exhaustive, and any/all tasks considered within the scope and spirit of the position are expected to be undertaken by the successful candidate. The position is a full-time, non-exempt (hourly) employee. Please Note: On-call work is a prerequisite for this position.

While experience and prior certifications in the water field are preferable, they are not a requirement initially. A minimum of one year's experience in a physically demanding job is needed for serious consideration for this role, due to the physical requirements of the position. The role does include on-the-job training, as well as ongoing mandatory certification training outside of the Association itself. Training opportunities will be determined over time depending on the initial skill and abilities of the successful candidate. A final salary determination will be based upon experience in the water business (if any) at hiring.

NO MORE DRIVER'S TEST

Google cars came out with some statistics recently. Driverless cars don't have accidents really ... and the few they do have are cars with drivers running into them. Some of the boyz in the Flatheads, our vintage car club, were flabbergasted. They're old school guyz who revel in memories of souped up engines, backroad drag races, cue ball shifter knobs and dangling dice on the rearview. They love their rods, they love their memories and they go apoplectic to imagine a future of robot automobiles they can sit in the backseat and read a paper. They have fond memories of other uses for that backseat.

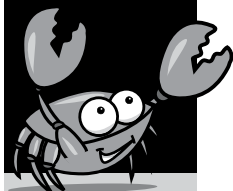

"The Age of the Automobile is coming to an end," I made the mistake of saying to Two Toke Tom at the Diner where it was overheard by half the Flatheads at the breakfast pow-wow where they'd pushed half the tables together to make room for about a dozen car enthusiasts. Their Packards and Chargers and 88's were lined up outside the plate glass like an outdoor Museum for Testosterone, right next to Tom's beater with the cracked windshield and the missing front quarter panel, all gleaming with fresh wax and loving care. I might have been wiser announcing we ought to confiscate guns in an NRA meeting.

Freddie, the head honcho Flathead, jerked his head in the direction of my blasphemy. "What are you drinking, man???" he practically shouted. Brenda spilled coffee on Harry's hand, missing his cup by a quarter mile. "Yeowww!" he hollered in pain. The whole café was now on Alert. "I only mean the day is coming when cars will drive themselves. They don't have accidents, Fred, and if they don't have accidents, guess what the insurance companies are going to demand? You want to drive your big Dodge, fine, but guess what they'll charge your Charger for the privilege?"

"Over my dead fender, Skeeter." Two Toke raised his cup. "Amen, brother Fred, Amen."

"All I'm saying, Fred, is half the folks out there on the road these days aren't driving anyway. They're text messaging, they're talking on the phone, they're wobbling over the center line and they're drifting onto the shoulder. They go from 60 mph to 30 mph. I don't know what all they're doing behind the wheel, but it sure isn't driving. Might be okay with me if they let the computer do that for em so they can pay attention to their smartphone."

Fred snorted and the assembled Flatheads snorted in agreement. Brenda mopped up Harry's table and dried his hand. Harry would live, Two Toke would get a good laugh on me later and the Flatheads would all drive down Memory Lane with rumbling mufflers, KaHoo-ga horns, mohaired upholstery, big fins and whitewall tires like mastodons crossing back over the Bering Strait to a garage somewhere in the Pleistocene.

CALLIGRAPHED EGGS DIY + FREE TEMPLATE

I love the idea of decorating simple and beautiful eggs through calligraphy. But let's be honest, it's difficult to write in a pretty font on a rounded surface. So, this year we had Julie Manwaring make us some templates to apply using tattoo paper. They were easy to make and even easier to clean up.

Material: Tattoo paper, scissors, hard boiled eggs, small bowl, water, paper towel

Step 1: Download the template—yes! It's supposed to be reversed—and print it out onto temporary tattoo paper (we used Silhouette Printable Tattoo Paper from Paper Source.) Step 2: With the print out in hand, closely follow the instructions provided on the tattoo paper packaging for proper application of the adhesive sheet. Step 3: Cut out one tattoo, remove the clear plastic layer, and apply with a very wet paper towel to a hardboiled egg, again referencing the tattoo paper instructions for additional application details. Step 4: Remove the paper backing and voila, a calligraphed egg!

ETCHINGS-N-STONE

Tom Gutierrez lives in the Pacific Northwest where he uses much of our abundant wild bird life (and other animals) as his art subjects. During his artistic journey he has created images using two mediums: Scratch board and Carvings in stone. Working on a board that has been covered with white clay then sprayed entirely with black ink, Tom has created images by scratching the surface with a sewing needle attached to an Exacto knife handle. This type of artistry – as you can imagine –takes many hours or even days to create, and just a bit of patience. Tom believes that stone carving and scratch board art can be two of the most exciting and satisfying experiences for any artist, when they discover and reach the point in the creative process where the image slowly and magically appears out of a black background or stone. With stone, you slowly realize that you have mysteriously been chosen to reveal an image that has been waiting silently in a rock, perhaps some 200 million years! Quite humbling - to say the least. Tom has been creating art for the last 27 years. He began his journey into drawing with pencil sketches, then moved into scratch art, and then tried his hand at stone carving, all of which started at the age of 50 years old! His hope is that his story may be inspirational and possibly open a path for others that may have never recognized a potential hidden ability, or at the least a new perspective of viewing art. Tom has only recently (late 2022) created a website where his artworks can be seen. It is constantly being updated to show more of his art as they become finished. Please visit www.Tomgutierrez.net is a branch of the national AAUW [American Association of University Women] advancing equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy, and research. Our branch is comprised of 54 women from Arlington, Camano Island, Stanwood and surrounding areas. Our local branch was established in 1936 and continues to be a contributing partner to the Stanwood, Camano Island and Arlington communities. 2022 marked our 86th year.

The commitment of our branch is to raise funds for our scholarship program. This year we will award three $10,000 scholarships to university students from our community in their junior or senior year or in a master's program. We will also provide at least seven camper-ships for entering 8th grade girls from Arlington, Stanwood, Camano Island or Lakewood middle school girls to attend the AAUW Tech Trek week-long resident science camp in July. These girls experience living in the dorms of Pacific Lutheran University, hands-on science, field trips, and presentations by women in science during the evening program.

In order to fulfill our scholarship program we must raise funds. Our major fundraiser is our biennial Purses with Purpose Benefit Luncheon and Purse Auction. Our last was held April 30, 2022 at the Camano Center.

Stanwood-Camano AAUW is continually recruiting new members. Our group meets September through May on the second Thursday of each month. In June, we host a final luncheon to honor our scholarship award recipients. Our meetings offer interesting and engaging programs and time to share with colleagues. In addition to meetings, our branch also organizes informal activities for our members and their guests including: Day Trippers (local outings), Book Group, Movie Group and Java Break.

For more information about our branch, please visit www.aauwsc.org or email info@aauwsc.org

EASTER TRIVIA

Question: While the Easter Bunny brings children eggs in the U.S., what sort of critter delivers the goods in Westphalia, Germany?

Answer: A fox

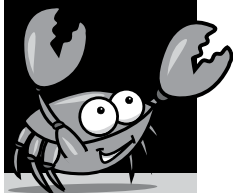

WERE YOU FOOLED?

Now that the April Fool's Day edition is behind us, it's time for us to confess on what was real and what was fake. We always try to create stories that amuse or alarm, or confuse our readers. Funny stories and photos (like the meat factory, "Story Time with Jesus", Yellow Submarine Air BnB, science fair rocket demonstration, "Loch Ness monster", banana farm, hydro races, Bigfoot, slow-drivers' route, "Give the Bird Festival", and the World Religious Heritage Site) were created by me to amuse everyone. Jokes and pranks are not always designed to be funny, however. Some are meant to anger or scare or confuse people. For example, the story of the Navy touch-n-go at the Camano airstrip was a fabrication from author, Jack Archibald. "Cama Con" was written by Scott Chase, describing an event that didn't actually happen. The "Huge Spider" story was written by me to scare people (especially those who are scared of spiders. I am aware that arachnophobia is a real phobia and perhaps I should have been more sensitive). A person contacted us and was upset about the religious heritage site, that I personally don't understand. In fact, I actually intend to send a slightly modified version of that story to the Vatican and actually apply to be such a site. The Stilly Hot Springs story was a statement about Global Warming. Surprisingly, my fake story of Survivor on Camano Island blew up on the internet and is getting lots of exposure through social media and word-of-mouth. News of this famous reality show filming on Camano Island has generated excitement and speculation. We've been contacted by people from all over the United States who heard (believed) the news. In fact, a previous winner of Survivor heard about it. Just yesterday, a co-worker of mine (aside from being the owner/editor of The Crab Cracker, I'm also a full-time manager at an Amazon warehouse in Everett) was talking with me, about random topics. She was excited to report to me, via news from her friend, that Survivor was coming to Washington state. She was shocked to know that I was the person who started that rumor. The challenge of creating an April Fool's Day magazine is to differentiate the fake news from the real news. Firstly, there is a "warning" disclaimer on page 3 of the magazine. Secondly, I generally attempt to insert "clues" in each story to ensure that they are received as fake news. For example, the rocket launch science fair winner was Hugh Mer, a word-play of "humor". Other names within the fake stories were Jo King (joking), Josh Tease (tease), Yu Werefooled, and April Fewle (April Fool). In some stories I insert other clues. One of my fake articles mentioned our Camano Island mayor. Camano Island does not have a mayor. Our infamous April Fool edition is always designed to entertain our readers. It is never our intent to harm or offend anyone. If you were, we apologize. - James Shipley, The Crab Cracker.

PADDLE CRAFT STICKER AVAILABLE

If you see our Island County Sheriff's Office Marine Unit on the water or at an event, please ask for the sticker as we have been handing them out all over Island County for years.

VAPE DANGERS

A general reminder to our parents and guardians of our Stanwood/Camano youth. What may look like your average nicotine/THC vape may be much more dangerous. It is known that these types of devices can sometimes be manipulated and refilled with substances other than nicotine or THC. As with anything our children consume these items can be laced with all kinds of illicit substances, many of which can be harmful or deadly if used by an unsuspecting child. Please have a talk with your children about the dangers of nicotine and substance use. Help us keep our youth, and our schools safe by having these talks with your children. – Stanwood Police Dept.

APRIL BLOOD DRIVES

A new month is upon us which means a new blood drive is just around the corner! Bloodworks NW will be back to the Stanwood Foursquare Church on April 11th & 12th. As of this morning, we have roughly 18 spots left to fill. Signup Link: <https://schedule.blood-works-nw.org/DonorPortal/GroupLanding.aspx?s=876B>.

EASTER TRIVIA

Question: What was the circumference of the world's largest chocolate Easter egg?

Answer: 64 feet,
3.65 inches

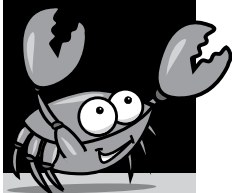

LISTEN, WE NEED TO TALK – ABOUT EASTER!

As rabbit rescuers, this is the season we both love (all that great bunny decor in stores) and loathe (all those baby bunnies abandoned after the festivities). PLEASE, help spread the word – Never give live animals, whatever the species, as gifts. Always do your research and be thoroughly prepared for the needs of any pet you do bring into your home. Don't think of rabbits as starter pets for young children. They're not! Do adopt from a shelter or legitimate rescue. There are already untold millions of rabbits, cats, dogs and more seeking homes; purchasing a pet from a breeder (many of whom place profits above the welfare of their animals) just worsens the problem. For Easter, we encourage you to celebrate by decorating wooden or ceramic eggs, having a hunt for reusable treat-filled eggs, eating vegan chocolate bunnies, enjoying a spring bouquet, teaching children to respect all life, and making a special donation to your favorite rabbit or chicken/duck/turkey rescue. Still want a bunbun for the kiddos? Sure, we can work with you...AFTER Easter: for the week before and the week after the holiday, Bunanza adopts only to homes without pre-teen children. For a Sunday morning goody in a basket, we can provide you with a gift certificate for "ABC – About Bunny Care", entitling you and your kids to three private sessions at Bunanza so you can meet all the rescue rabbits, hear their stories, learn what you need to know to make sure you and a potential bunny or bunnies can be happy together for years to come, and of course, pet and play with some great adoptable bunnos! Then, if you do want to add an adorable family member and the fit is right, we'll send you home with a great bunny (or bunnies), a carrier, and starter supplies of hay and litter. Message us to inquire about ABC gift certificates from Bunanza and to schedule your private bun sessions! – Bunanza Rabbit Rescue.

ISLAND COUNTY BROADBAND ACTION TEAM NEEDS COMMUNITY FEEDBACK

In its effort to bring broadband internet services to underserved areas of Camano and Whidbey islands, the Island County Broadband Action Team is asking for the community's help. To achieve Washington state's goal of having universal broadband internet access by 2024, the county's Broadband Action Team is asking residents to take a Washington State 1-minute speed survey. Taking this simple survey will help to pinpoint areas of Island County where better internet service is needed. An additional way residents can help in the effort to bring better internet to Island County is through FCC Mapping. This is where residents can see options for internet in their locations and challenge the data provided to the FCC if it doesn't match personal experience. Click on the FCC site link and enter your address in the box to see who is reporting business or residential internet service at your location. If you believe the information is incorrect, you may challenge the data by clicking on the "Location Challenge" or "Availability Challenge" button. By taking the speed survey and providing mapping information, Island County residents can help the Broadband Action Team to obtain grant funding for open access networks that will better serve the community. In 2019, the Broadband Action Team was formed to provide broadband services to underserved areas within Island County. The objective is to close the digital divide, increasing opportunities for education, health and workforce development and to provide broadband accessibility to residents, students, government services, business entities, schools, libraries, health centers, and first responders. Since the launch of that effort, a study of broadband internet was completed identifying critically underserved and unserved areas in Island County. That study helped bring funding into Island County for construction of open access networks in South and Central Whidbey and a recent grant submittal on Camano Island. For more information, email to broadband@islandcountywa.gov at the Stanwood-Camano Y During National Stress Awareness Month. In recognition of National Stress Awareness Month, the YMCA of Snohomish County is inviting the community to Destress and Reset at one of its six locations. Countless studies show that physical activity and social connection relieve stress, tension, anxiety and depression. "Stress in life is inevitable, so how you handle it is critical to your health," said Gael Gebow, Association Director of Healthy Living & Membership Advancement. "The Y provides opportunities for physical activity and connection, two components that help combat stress, as well as other health challenges." The Y offers a full menu of options for regular physical activity for all ages, supporting whole body health and wellness. From group exercise classes to pickleball, youth sports to swimming lessons, there is something for everyone. National Stress Awareness Month has been recognized in April to bring attention to the negative impact of stress. While not all stress is bad, long-term stress can have harmful effects on physical and mental health. By increasing awareness around how to deal with stress in a positive way, the Y is promoting a healthier community. According to the American Journal of Lifestyle Medicine, social support and feeling connected can help people decrease depressive symptoms, improve overall mental health, and maintain physical health. "I'm a huge proponent of the Y for so many reasons," said Gebow. "There are few places where you can improve health and wellness, make new friends, and find a vibrant, uplifting community." To learn more about YMCA membership, please visit ymca-snoco.org/join. During the month of April, there is a $0 Join Fee for new members.

DESTRESS AND RESET

WELCOME TO CRICKET. IT'S A LOT LIKE BASEBALL, ONLY MORE BORING.

ESPN recently announced it's now broadcasting coverage of cricket. No, I'm not talking about televising small insects chewing through leaves – although granted, if you ask me, that sounds like a more appealing TV-viewing option. I'm talking about the sport of cricket. If you're someone who finds bowling on TV too exciting, then cricket could be just your cup of tea, so to speak.

I'm not exactly sure why ESPN decided to start covering cricket. Perhaps ESPN's International-Sports-Nobody-Gives-a-Rat's-Ass-About Channel wasn't able to get the programming rights for Equestrian Dressage. Or perhaps it came down to making a difficult choice between televising cricket versus broadcasting five hours of dead air.

Cricket is a very old game. Cricket is a lot like baseball – just slower-paced and without gloves or bases or David Ortiz Bobble Head Night or any coherent explanation for what is going on out there. Like baseball, it has a pitcher (which they call a bowler) and a batter (called a batsman). And like baseball, the main objective for most fans watching the game is to get as drunk as possible in order to keep their mind off the fact that the game in front of them is mind-numbingly dull.

Sadly, most Americans have never even seen a single game of cricket. So, let me explain briefly how the sport works. The object of the game is simple: score more runs than the opposing team. To do so, the team's batsman must leg out to the other end of the pitch and back and, of course, avoid letting the bowler strike the wicket causing the bails atop the stumps to fall.

The batsman ideally wants to hit the ball between the mid-off and the mid-on. A well struck ball might even make it past the long-off. Experienced batsmen wait patiently for the bowler to throw a belter or perhaps a full toss, which he can often successfully hit into a strong grubber, which, as you can imagine, is almost impossible to plumb. With me so far?

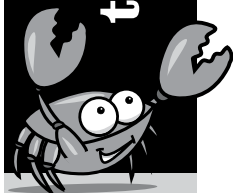

Two of the most important fielding positions in your standard ring field are the gully and the leg square because..... blah blah blah... This is killing me. I'm sure by now your eyes have completely glazed over, so it really doesn't matter what I write in this space, does it? Hey, did I ever deposit that check at the bank? And I wonder what that rattling sound is when I start the car. I guess I should probably get back to the point of this piece. It looks like you're about to wake up from your nap.

As best as I can surmise, there appear to be approximately 27 fielding positions in cricket, with names like gully, square leg, and mid-wicket. I have no idea what any of these positions does. My guess is their primary function is to take turns ordering tea and scones. There are a few common misconceptions about cricket. For example:

Myth: It's only played by stuffy, rich white Englishmen clad in white V-neck sweaters. Reality: They sometimes wear beige or cream-colored V-neck sweaters and sometimes also don a snappy cap featuring the coat of arms of the House of Gloucestershire or perhaps Kent.

Myth: A cricket match is insufferably long – typically lasting seven days. Reality: It only feels like that long while you're watching it. In fact, the average match is typically over in less than three days. It only lasts up to seven if they go into sudden death overtime.

For the newcomer to this great sport, let me offer a few suggestions to help you enjoy watching cricket: 1: Get a comfy spot on the couch and pour yourself a spot of tea. Bake some crumpets while you're at it. 2: Skim a copy of Basic Cricket Rules for Beginners. I suggest the abridged 178-page version. 3: Inject 48 ounces of Red Bull directly into your veins. 4: After about 20 minutes, to avoid falling asleep, change over to the Fly Fishing Channel.

Cricket is a great sport, once you get in the right frame of mind, which usually only requires about three fifths of scotch. But if cricket is a bit too fast-paced for your viewing preference, switch over to ESPN-47 for their newest programming enticement: 24/7 coverage of chess. This weekend they're showing a Chess Master Marathon, featuring wall-to-wall coverage of classic chess moves. Personally, I can't wait till the segment on how to use the Two Knights Variation to outmaneuver the Hungarian Defense. Talk about spellbinding television.

CAROLEE'S CARROT CAKE WITH CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

Recipe from my "Other Mother" Carolee Prater. This cake is so AMAZING! It always receives rave reviews!! It's the perfect cake for your Easter celebration, Enjoy!

CARROT CAKE: 2 c. granulated sugar; 4 lg. eggs; 1 c. vegetable oil; 2 c. all-purpose flour; 2 tsp. baking soda; 1 tsp. salt; 2 tsp. ground cinnamon; 2 tsp. vanilla extract; 3 c. shredded carrots; 1 c. nuts, chopped; 1/2 c. raisins

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING: 1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese, room temperature; 1/2 c. butter, softened; 1 lb. confectioners' sugar; Fresh lemon juice as needed

DIRECTIONS: 1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 9x13x2-inch cake pan and set aside. 2. CARROT CAKE: In a large bowl, beat together the sugar, eggs, and oil. Add the flour, soda, salt, cinnamon, and vanilla, beat until combined. Stir in the carrots, nuts, and raisins. 3. Pour the batter into the prepared pan and bake for 35-45 minutes. Let cool and frost with cream cheese frosting. 4. CREAM CHEESE FROSTING: In a large bowl, beat together the softened cream cheese, butter, and confectioners' sugar. If the frosting is too stiff, add lemon juice until spreading consistency is achieved. DUSTY'S NOTES: Pictured above: I made a 3-tier cake instead of a 9x13-inch cake. I divided the cake batter into 3 greased round cake pans and baked until a wooden toothpick inserted into the center of each cake came out clean. I doubled the frosting and decorated the top with "carrots" and the sides with chopped pecans, Enjoy!
