"SEA LEVEL RISE IN PUGET SOUND"

For Earth Day, Dr. Ian Miller of WA Sea Grant presents an informative and interactive talk on the climate-driven sea level rise in Puget Sound. Dwellers on Washington's seismically active, highly exposed shores face a daunting range of natural and human-induced hazards. Some are continual and inexorable, such as climate-driven sea level rise. Some are commonplace phenomena, such as winter storms, seasonal flooding, and bluff erosion. And some are rare but cataclysmic events: major earthquakes and tsunamis. Registration required. 5 pm at Camano Library. HUMAN TRAFFICKING: WASHINGTON STATE UNDER A MICROSCOPE with Velma Veloria. 6pm Online event. Human Trafficking is one of the fastest growing criminal industries in the world. Former State Representative Velma Veloria has worked since the mid-1990s to understand, hinder, and reduce human trafficking. In 2003, then Representative Veloria sponsored the historic House Bill 1175, which led Washington to set the stage for the local and national anti-trafficking movement by becoming the first State in the nation to criminalize human trafficking. In this event, Velma will share about her labors in anti-human trafficking and the state of this terrible form of exploitation today. Registration is required. Camano Water Association Water System Technician

Starting Salary: $28 (approx.)

Benefits: Medical, Vacation (5 days after one year, 10 after two, then 1 additional per year until max), retirement account

Closing Date: Sunday, April 30th, 2023

Camano Water Association (CWA) is looking to fill the role of Water System Technician. The individual chosen for this position will be under the direct supervision of the Operations Manager, who is responsible for routine operations, systems operations, equipment maintenance, water sampling, and customer service. As such, whether a candidate has prior experience or not, our current Operator will be responsible for deciding the day-to-day scope and workload of the successful candidate. This list of possible work duties is not exhaustive, and any/all tasks considered within the scope and spirit of the position are expected to be undertaken by the successful candidate. The position is a full-time, non-exempt (hourly) employee. Please Note: On-call work is a prerequisite for this position.

While experience and prior certifications in the water field are preferable, they are not a requirement initially. A minimum of one year's experience in a physically demanding job is needed for serious consideration for this role, due to the physical requirements of the position. The role does include on-the-job training, as well as ongoing mandatory certification training outside of the Association itself. Training opportunities will be determined over time depending on the initial skill and abilities of the successful candidate. A final salary determination will be based upon experience in the water business (if any) at hiring.

DEBBIE DIMITRE PORTRAYS "BERTHA KNIGHT LANDES", FIRST WOMAN MAYOR OF SEATTLE

7- 8:30 PM. Back by popular demand! Come and see one of the greatest storytellers. Debbie Dimitre will captivate you while she portrays the daring story of Mrs. Bertha Knight Landes, who in 1926 became not only Seattle's first woman mayor, but the first woman mayor of any major metropolitan city in the United States! Debbie Dimitre's transformation into the characters she portrays is truly amazing! We have been honored to have Debbie perform many other important women of our time and it always amazes us how stellar her performances are. Tickets are $15 each and can be purchased on our website at camanoschoolhouse.org (Upcoming Events). We are located at 993 Orchid Rd, Camano Island (just off Chapman Dr.).

YOUR TREES AND OUR CHANGING ENVIRONMENT

1pm at the Camano Center, 606 Arrowhead Rd. Would you like to know more about Pacific Northwest trees and some of the current challenges to health some may be undergoing? Are you aware of a change in a favorite tree? Please join us to learn more about our shade giving friends within the surrounding landscape. You will hear possible ways to supplement health of different, native tree species and hopefully come out of the talk with a better understanding of tree needs and desires, especially when normal symptoms of stress are seen. A question-and-answer period follows a brief presentation. Please be aware there may be frank discussion as we look creatively towards a sustainable, treed future. Sal Noeldner is an ISA Board Certified Master Arborist TRAQ (with Puget Sound Tree Care LLC) who lives and works locally. He loves his wife, cats, and kids.

GRANDPARENTING FOR DUMMIES

My parents, when us little sprouts were growing up, never made much of a fuss over us. If we got good grades, they nodded approvingly. And if we didn't, they told us to buckle down and smarten up, school wasn't some game. They never came to our sports events to watch their star kids play and we were glad they didn't because, well, to be honest, we weren't stars. We were just your basic kids, vanilla, ordinary, okay.

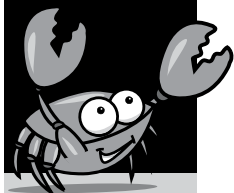

When they became grandparents, however, things changed. Their grandkids, my god, they were Einsteins, they were football stars, they were just all around Wows. My friends who have grandkids have those same kids, all of them the smartest, best looking, most talented brats you ever had the privilege to hear bragged about. I don't know, maybe if I had kids, they'd be superheroes too. But I didn't and I bet they wouldn't be if I did.

When I look back at my childhood (okay, the early years, not the present years), I drifted through sandlot baseball games, marbles, some fights, some homemade soap box derby races, all the stuff we hoodlums did back in the halcyon days of Eisenhower's America. I didn't think I had to be a genius. Or a basketball star. Or a movie actor. My folks didn't push us munchkins out into a competitive universe with a prescription for failure by convincing us we were God's gift to the free world. We were encouraged to try stuff, everything from track and field to chess to debate clubs, but they didn't come down and play soccer mom and get into fights with the coach or the parents of our opponents. They'd ask how it went and if we got our butts kicked, they said better luck next time. These weren't life and death competitions.

I worry that we're trying too hard now. Sure, we'd all like to think that the fruit that fell near the tree is special, the sweetest, the tastiest, the fastest growing, the most flowers. But I suspect we just set the kids up for disappointment. Ballet. Dropped out. Lacrosse. Never really liked it. Cheerleader. Couldn't do a head stand. Choir. Had a tin ear. Academics. Got a C+. Life. Just normal.

My folks accepted normal. So did we. What they wanted for us was happiness. It's not a bad wish. In their own hands-off way, they taught us how to get there.

Kid's Korner

EARTH DAY

The flag, which features an image of Earth as viewed from space, was designed by environmental advocate John McConnell in 1968.

NO MESS PAINTING IN A BAG EARTH CRAFT

If you are looking for a quick and easy Earth Day craft for kids then this mess free Earth craft is perfect!

To create our No Mess Earth Day Painting, you will need: white paper plates; large plastic zip bags (Brand name seems to be the most durable and yes, we reuse these to be earth friendly! Just wash out and hang upside down to dry!); washable green and blue paint

I dumped out a bit of green and blue paint on each kid's plate then placed the plates inside the bags and sealed them. Both our five year old and our two year old loved smooshing the paint around to create their Earth. This was fantastic fine motor practice for them. I loved how I could have both kids simultaneously painting in our living room without worrying about a mess! Once the whole plate was covered in paint I carefully removed them from the bag to let them air dry.

STUDIO TOUR GALLERY SHOW

This year during the CAA Studio Tour, the Camano Firehouse on Orchid Road will burst from the seams with all the art from the Stanwood Camano Arts Guild in a brand-new Gallery show! In 'Tours' past, visitors could find this same group of artists showing their work at the Guided Gallery in Stanwood, but this year is a little different. While our Gallery closed at the end of last year, that didn't stop this group of dedicated artists from finding other ways to share their art with our local community. In fact, with this bigger venue, we are able to showcase many more of our artists than ever before! The old location in downtown Stanwood was able to house about 18 local artists' works, but the Firehouse will have over 30+ artists in residence for both weekends of the 2023 Studio Tour! 30 years ago this year, the Stanwood Camano Arts Guild was founded to encourage and support local artists, provide mentorship and scholarship to new artists and to connect our artists with the local community. We are honored to continue this tradition this year alongside the Camano Art Association during their annual Studio Tour. Similar to years past, 'the Guild' will again highlight several Featured Artists. These Featured Artists are those very talented member artists whose craftsmanship we find to be especially skilled, unique and completely lovely; and this year is no exception! Photographer Jo Jones captures local landscapes, flowers, and animals in stunning detail. Oil Painter Resha Hanson's happy graphic art inspired landscapes, animals and food designs are full of detail and color. Trillium Tinworks is a sister collaboration whose vintage tinware earring designs are always charming, beautiful and unique. Watercolorist Artist Sharon Snelling's gorgeous work has been recently recognized in The Northwest Watercolor Society's annual membership exhibition, Waterworks Online. Stop #12 on the 2023 CAA Studio Tour, the Stanwood Camano Arts Guild will be located at 993 Orchid Rd, just off Chapman Road and next to the historic Schoolhouse on Camano Island. This location is also considered an Easy Access Location with no steps/stairs and lots of wheelchair access and parking. The Firehouse Show will be open for both Mother's Day Weekend: May 12-14th, 10am-5pm and the Encore Weekend, Sat-Sun 10am-5pm.

CAMANO FIT

After wrapping up my work at The Picnic Pantry, I am excited to start gearing up for an active spring ahead in my new personal training business. I've been passionate about fitness my entire life and I'm so excited to now have the time to focus on working with others and their fitness goals. I have been certified as a personal trainer by a scientific and well respected school, NASM. I have taken courses which allow me to specialize in senior fitness and have also become a certified SAIL instructor, teaching fitness classes designed to prevent falls among aging adults. I have truly enjoyed learning and will continue to do so in order to be the best instructor I can be.

Here is what I have planned in the coming months:

1. I will be teaching 8 SAIL (fall prevention fitness classes) at The Camano Senior Center by mid-March. 6 classes are currently being offered. Call the Camano Center to add your name to the waitlist.
 2. Personal fitness training now available in your home, my home gym or outdoors. Prices start at $50 per hour for personalized fitness training.
 3. Group classes beginning late March for mature adults with mid-range fitness abilities. Think something less than bootcamp and more than chair fitness. More info coming soon.
 4. Outdoor group classes offered for Trail Fitness and Fitness in the Fields once the weather improves. More info coming as spring approaches, but these are going to be FUN!
- Stay tuned and please share my posts with those you think may want to know more about my services. I am excited about sharing my future endeavors and look forward to working with you soon on your fitness journey. Please message me if you would like more information about personal training or any of the other fitness opportunities mentioned.

Let's get FIT for life!

EARTH DAY

People of all ages can participate in Earth Day by doing even the smallest of things, like taking out your recycling or getting outside instead of using electronics inside. We can also do our part to make a difference by attending a march, planting a tree, cleaning up trash outside or anything that helps protect and preserve our planet.

FOUR (OF MANY) WAYS TO SUPPORT EARTH DAY:

1. Save energy in support of Earth Day. Simple actions like carpooling, using transit, turning off lights when not in use, and switching to energy-efficient appliances, if you can, are all good ways to make a difference.
2. Plastic pollution is a major environmental issue, but we can all take steps to reduce our plastic use. Bring your own reusable bags, water bottles, coffee cups, and cutlery when you're out and about.
3. By buying locally sourced produce, you reduce the amount of energy required to transport food long distances. Plus, you'll be supporting your community and getting fresh, healthy food.
4. Get outside and volunteer! Studies show that being outside in nature is relaxing and reduces stress. Sign up for one of the many volunteer opportunities around Snohomish County: <https://snohomishcountywa.gov/earthday>

MCGLINCHY CAMANO CLIMB BIKE RIDE

Sunday, April 30. Ride 15 to 103 miles, then celebrate with appetizers at SAAL Brewing. Event hosted by / benefits: B.I.K.E.S. Club of Snohomish County and Stanwood Camano Kiwanis. Bike local /Drive friendly. More info: bikesclub.org/mcclinchy.

2ND ANNUAL SHOP LOCAL WIN LOCAL SPRING EVENT!

The Camano Island Chamber of Commerce is excited to host the 2nd Annual Shop Local Win Local SPRING EVENT! And this Spring it is a PASSPORT event (no filling out of tickets needed!). The event will take place starting on May 12th and ending on May 31st. How the Event Works: For the Spring Shop Local Win Local event we will be using an EASY PASSPORT system. For every $20 you spend in a participating businesses you get a stamp on your passport. Passports will be available at all participating businesses or you can print one yourself (coming soon.) Each passport will have a total of 10 squares (representing $200 total spent in a local business) – once the passport is completed we will have central drop off locations and will collect the passports to draw for some GREAT PRIZES in early June. You can complete as many passports as you would like between May 12th and the 31st. Completed passports can be handed into any participating business. Are you a Business interested in participating? Registration is due no later than May 1st (<https://camanoisland.org/event/shop-local-win-local-spring-2023/>). All completed passports will be collected on June 1st. Prizes will be drawn on June 5th and winners will be notified by phone or email.

WHAT TO DO WITH ALL MY KITCHEN SCRAPS

Let's transform food waste. Fruits and veggies have the highest waste-age rate of any food products. A simple way to recycle food scraps is to produce your own compost. In your household, you can compost your food waste in a soil environment where lots of oxygen is available. The fungi and bacteria can break down the products into compost and CO2. Three easy ways to recycle food waste are as follows: 1. Bury your kitchen food scraps (excluding meats and dairy). Dig a hole about 1 foot deep, bury the contents, and cover with soil about 8" deep. It disappears quickly. 2. Food Digester - purchase a metal garbage can, drill holes on sides and bottom, and bury it. The worms will find their way into the container. This is an excellent choice for a limited-space property. Visit this website for complete information: <https://tilthalliance.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/02/Food-Digester-Feb09FINAL.pdf>. 3. Worm Bin - purchase or go online to make a bin. The worms break down the food efficiently and create rich, dark soil. Again this is perfect for limited space. Visit this website: <https://tilthalliance.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/06/GH-building-plan-Wood-Worm-Bin-April-2021.pdf>. There are so many benefits to recycling food waste. Composting decreases the demand for landfill space and decreases our reliance of synthetic fertilizers. Each year tons of uneaten food ends up the the landfill, where it breaks down in an anerobic environment, releasing harmful methane By keeping the food out of the landfill, you lower production of this potent greenhouse gas. And by composing, you reverse soil depletion. Nothing is better than soil improvement. Source: Franni Herrgott, Waste Wise Volunteer, Waste Wise - Island County, WSU Extension.

PHILANTHROPIST BREAKFAST AWARDS GO TO...

Thanks to all who came out to celebrate the 17th Annual Philanthropist of the Year Awards! We are grateful for this community's generous support of the Stanwood-Camano Area Foundation's mission, and so proud to honor some wonderful local philanthropists. Our guest speaker, Dr. Kafiya Arte, reminded us that anyone can be a philanthropist, as we all have something to give. Artist Juanita Hagberg (Juanita Hagberg Watercolors) presented Dr. Arte with a lovely painting featuring English Boom. Once again, the wonderful students at Lincoln Hill High School volunteered their time to serve at the breakfast. They bring such joy to the event! The Heritage Bank Organization Making a Difference Award was presented to: TAPPED Camano. TAPPED has supported events for many local organizations, including the RE/MAX Community Grant Chest, Soap Box Derby, youth sports, and the Stanwood Camano Arts Advocacy Commission. Besides having great food, they exemplify what it means to be part of a community. The Floyd & Delores Jones Spirit of Philanthropy Award was presented to: Myra Reinhardt. Myra has given back to her community for more than two decades, as someone skilled at connecting people and causes. She serves on the board of the Stanwood Camano Food Bank, coordinates volunteers for the Soap Box Derby, manages participants in the Stanwood Camano Fair Parade, helped build the playground at Freedom Park, and partners with the Making Life Work collaboration. The Erika Sigmon Pay It Forward Award was presented to: Tom Eisenberg. Tom has been a crucial part of the development and success of Camano Island Parks, including Cama Beach State Park and Barnum Point. He is currently the president of Friends of Camano Island Parks, leading work parties, writing articles for their newsletter, and doing trail work for all eight Island County properties and our two state parks. His dedicates his time to making Camano Island enjoyable for all. Congratulations to all! -- Natalie Hagglund, Program Manager Stanwood-Camano Area Foundation. Photo by Ian Gleadle.

WANT TO BE A FRIEND?

Almost 500 animals were helped by Camano Animal Shelter Association (CASA) last year. CASA was able to do this thanks to many volunteers and the community. Volunteers help the staff and animals at the shelter, but there are other ways that you can volunteer to help CASA. Since CASA relies primarily on contributions to fund their budget, it is important to have fundraisers and to reach out to the community to explain the role CASA plays. The Friends of CASA, a group of animal lovers, was formed to fill these needs. Friends volunteers contribute their time and talents at various events including: Free Microchip Clinic, Spring Market, Pet Food Drive, Dog Wash and pet photos with Santa. These are labor-intensive, but really enjoyable events. The Friends participate in local activities such as: the 55+ Community Resource Fair, Twin City Idlers, and the Stanwood Farmer's Market spreading the word about CASA and how individuals can support our local shelter. If you are new to the community or find that you have some time to help, consider coming to a Friends meeting to learn more. Many hands make light work. Friends of CASA meetings take place the second Thursday of the month at 3 pm at the Camano Multipurpose Center next door to the CASA Shelter. Our doors are open to everyone. If you want more information, email friends@camanoanimalshelter.org or call 360-387-1902.

Local Stories and Poetry

MIRACLE IN THE WOODS

"On a cloudy day my husband and I decided to go trout fishing in a local lake. After a few hours we pulled ashore and had a picnic and then cleaned our fish. My husband did the cleaning and I usually watched or rinsed them after he cleaned them. I was standing on the shore of the lake, and noticed a black beetle like bug coming out of the water and then several more coming out of the lake. Curious to see what they were doing and where they were going I followed them a short distance to a shrub. They climbed up the shrub and ended up on leaves of this shrub or bush whatever you might call it. All of a sudden this black beetle like bug moved ever so slightly and it looked like he was crawling right out of his black shell of a body. This black beetle was no more there was a new body, an absolute see through body lay on the leaf. It soon spread its wings and started to have some beautiful coloring light pink but still was clear in color. What now existed was a beautiful dragon fly instead of a black beetle. I yelled at my husband to come and see what I had witnessed, it gave me goose pimples to show him and let him see what I was so excited about. Needless to say I continued to watch this unseen for the most part miracle. It gave me such a feeling of importance that I was able to witness this event, and sharing this experience to those of you that might read this and have you watch for this process that goes unnoticed and yet is such a beautiful experience." – Sandy Lindell

Grad Night is an annual all-night and all-inclusive party sponsored by parent groups across the US that allows seniors to celebrate together their accomplishments and make great memories with classmates. More than "just a party," Grad Night is a commitment by parents and the community to conduct a great, once in a lifetime celebration that is alcohol and drug free on a night which is statistically one of the most dangerous nights of our children's lives.

CASA'S PET OF THE WEEK:

CHIPOTLE was brought to CASA as a stray and is now looking for his forever home. Chipotle is a talkative guy, who loves chatting with people. He can be a bit spicy when meeting new people, but warms up well once he gets to know you. He enjoys being pet and sitting with people/ He would do well with other cats, although it is unknown how he does with dogs.

NOAH'S PET OF THE WEEK:

Hi I am EVA! I am a sweet quiet young lady. I have had a tough start to my life and can't wait to find a family that is excited to help me come out of my shell. I would love a home that is able to keep me indoor only! I have lived with both dogs and cats before but I would do best in a home with no other cats. With a slow introduction I could do okay with a dog.

MY SLIDING DOORS MOMENT

A Sliding Doors moment refers to a situation in which seemingly inconsequential moments nonetheless alter the trajectory of future events and a person's destiny. The term entered our lexicon thanks to the 1998 movie, Sliding Doors, in which the film alternates between two storylines, showing two very different paths the central character's life will take depending on whether she catches a train or just barely misses it (as the doors slide closed in front of her, hence the title).

My greatest Sliding Doors moment happened in December 1982. I was living in Columbus, having just recently completed my graduate MBA program at Ohio State. I had no job prospects lined up. I flew to Albany, NY, my hometown, for the holidays to visit my mom and sister. While there, I stopped by my father's law office to see some friends (my dad had passed away several years prior, but one of his partners continued the practice).

Just as I was leaving, heading for the elevator, a well-dressed older man was about to enter the office next doors. One of the people in my father's law office named Hazel introduced me to this man. She casually shared that I was a recent MBA graduate and was looking for work. I exchanged banal pleasantries with this stranger, shook hands, and moments later, I got on the elevator, never giving our fleeting visit a second thought.

I flew home to Columbus to resume my flailing job search. The next day, I received a call from Hazel. "Tim, you're never going to believe it, but remember that man I introduced you to in the hallway as you were waiting for the elevator? He wants to interview you for a job!"

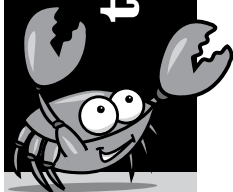

hallway. That random stranger turned out to be the president of Knight Ridder Broadcasting, one of the largest chains of radio and TV stations in the country. But why would he want to interview me for a job? I was unemployed and had no relevant work experience.

It turns out that he was looking to hire a full-time advertising sales rep for the local Albany Knight Ridder television station. He had no idea that I was not living in Albany. But I was not about to tell him that and blow this opportunity. So, I flew back to Albany two days later for the interview.

During our interview, he had to take a phone call from one of his managers. The man on the other end of the line turned out to be someone named Al Gillen. After the call was over, the man explained that this was the same Al Gillen who had been a client of my father's many years ago when Al Gillen had been the president of a TV station in Flint, Michigan. (My father as an attorney represented several TV and radio stations.)

By now, in December 1982. Mr. Gillen was the president of Viewtron, a Knight Ridder subsidiary which was on the cusp of becoming the bleeding-edge forerunner to America Online (AOL) and a pioneer in online information technology that would eventually pave the way for the Internet.

View from the Bleachers

I turned down the Executive's job offer to sell advertising for his Albany-based TV station. But I sent a letter to Al Gillen, asking for an interview for a position – heck, ANY position at Viewtron.

Mr. Gillen passed my resume on to one of his frontline managers. I flew down to Miami Beach, where Viewtron was headquartered. I had the interview and two weeks later, I received a job offer as an account executive. Two months later I drove to Miami, with my pet rabbit Boose and my parakeet Bob in the back seat. An exhausting (not to mention smelly) 18-hour, 1,200 mile journey.

A week or so into my new job, I was sitting in the lunchroom. Across the table was an attractive redheaded woman with a vaguely foreign accent. I could not place it. She turned out to be from Canada. Little did I know at that moment that three years later I would ask this person to be my wife.

On that December afternoon in 1982 in Albany, had I left that office just 30 seconds sooner or just 30 seconds later, I never would have crossed paths with that executive in the hallway. I would never have been sitting in his office at the precise moment he received that call from the president of Viewtron. And I never would have found myself sitting across the table in that Miami Beach lunchroom from my future wife.

CHICKEN MILANESE

Tender chicken cutlets coated with seasoned breadcrumbs, pan fried until golden brown and crispy, then topped with a light lemony arugula salad, Enjoy!

SALAD: 2 c. arugula; 1/4 c. red onion thinly sliced; 1/2 c. cherry tomatoes halved; 1 T. lemon juice; 1 T. olive oil; 2 T. shaved parmesan cheese; Kosher salt and pepper to taste

CHICKEN: 1 1/4 lbs. boneless skinless chicken cutlets or breasts, cut in half lengthwise; 1/2 c. all-purpose flour; Kosher salt and pepper to taste; 2 T. milk; 3 lg. eggs; 1 c. Italian style breadcrumbs; 1/4 c. panko breadcrumbs; 1/4 c. olive oil; 1 T. fresh parsley chopped

DIRECTIONS: 1. SALAD: In a large bowl, toss the arugula, red onion, cherry tomatoes, and shaved parmesan cheese together; cover and place in the refrigerator. Just before serving, combine the lemon juice and olive oil in a small bowl. Drizzle over the salad and season with salt and pepper. 2. CHICKEN: Use chicken cutlets OR chicken breasts cut in half lengthwise. Place each piece of chicken in between two sheets of plastic wrap. Use the flat end of a meat mallet or a heavy pan to pound the chicken thin. Repeat the process with the remaining pieces of chicken. 3. Pour the flour into a shallow pie dish, season generously with salt and pepper; set aside. 4. Pour the milk and eggs into a shallow pie dish, whisk to combine; set aside. 5. Pour the Italian breadcrumbs and panko breadcrumbs into a shallow pie dish, stir to combine; set aside. 6. Dip the chicken cutlets into the flour, then the egg mixture, then the breadcrumbs; repeat. 7. In a large skillet, heat the olive oil over medium high heat. Add the chicken cutlets in a single layer. Cook for 4 minutes per side, or until golden brown, crispy, and cooked through. Transfer to a serving plate and sprinkle with parsley. 8. Arrange the arugula salad either on top of or next to the chicken cutlets and serve immediately. Serves 4.
