LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS YEAR'S CAMANO ISLAND STUDIO TOUR'S COVER ART AND ARTIST, BETTY DOROTIK

About the artist: Visitors will be pleased to learn that the artist's South end island home and beautiful garden will be open for viewer's enjoyment during this year's tour. One of the most popular tour stops over the years, Betty's return to open her home studio will be a promise kept, and "well worth the wait" to many of her clients and tour visitors. The Black Capped Chickadees featured in the chosen painting are frequent visitors to the bird feeders, hanging around her Camano home and garden. One right outside her kitchen window allows her to watch Chickadees up close. She attracts them with their favorite food, the sunflower seed. Inspired by the nature surrounding her, Betty paints mostly in the winter, after her garden has been put to bed and days are short. She loves winter for that reason but also likes winter naps and staying home. Summers, she is busy in her garden almost daily or browsing nurseries with her garden club, checking out plant sales, bringing home one more must have plant. Betty works in several mediums including Botanical Illustration, Colored Pencil, Pen and Ink, Acrylic and most often Watercolor. Recently she's been adding fabric collaged to a painting that correlates with a bird. She hasn't sewn anything in a while but loves working with fabric again. It all happened by accident. She loves to tell the story. A visit to a John James Audubon art exhibition at the Seattle Art Museum, many years ago, captured her heart and she decided then and there that she wanted to paint birds. Audubon's exquisite works continue to inspire her work today and drives her desire to capture life like designs of nature's feathered friends. Betty's watercolor palette is not limited. For this painting it may have included several different palettes in a slow and detailed 2 week process. Working a little each day, the painting came together with the last step being the background wash with a sprinkling of table salt to attain the desired texture. It was a fun one to paint. She will be at Tour stop #3.

More of her work can be seen on her website at www.bettydorotik.com.

Customer review: "My Husband and I tried Primal Barbeque. If you haven't tried them yet I highly recommend doing so! I got the Banh Mi Bowl with Pulled Chicken and 1/2 rice, 1/2 greens. It was huge, fresh, light, refreshing, and quite healthy. Worth $14! I have IBD, IBS, and Gerd so having an insanely delicious option I can enjoy pain free at a Bbq place is surprising and much appreciated. My Husband had the Bbq Pulled Pork Sandwich which must've been good by the non-stop grin on his face. He said it was amazing. Great size for $10! Whether you love Bbq or you are like me and have some dietary issues this is a great place to try out! The customer service absolutely matched the phenomenal food." - Sarah LeMaster (Facebook post).

MEMORIAL DAY:

The World War I poem "In Flanders Fields," by John McCrea, inspired the Memorial Day custom of wearing red artificial poppies. In 1915, a Georgia teacher and volunteer war worker named Moina Michael began a campaign to make the poppy a symbol of tribute to veterans and for "keeping the faith with all who died."

HOW TO MAKE A WILLOW NATURE CROWN

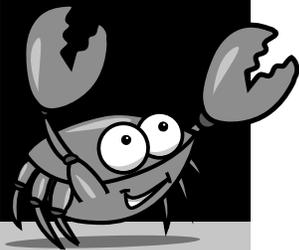

Nature crowns are magical things. Weaving branches, flowers, leaves and little bits of nature into a crown, gives children a wonderful opportunity to connect with nature, develop fine motor skills and engage in imaginative outdoor play.

Step 1: Gather a couple weeping willow branches and other bits of nature. Gather your supplies: A few weeping willow branches; Other bits of nature (flowers, leaves, berries, feathers); Scissors. You will only need one or two weeping willow branches for a willow crown. Try looking for branches that have fallen on the ground. If there aren't any, gently harvest a couple branches from the tree. No weeping willows? If there are no weeping willows in your area a good alternative is grape vines or other bendy branches. Step 2: Measure your child's head. Once you've gathered weeping willow branches and other bits of nature, take one long willow branch and wrap it around your child's head to measure how big the crown should be. Older children can easily do this step on their own and can even help younger children out. It's helpful to measure the crown a little on a loose side if you plan on weaving lots of flowers or other bits of nature into the crown. Step 3: Weave a circlet out of the willow branch. Now your child has figured out how big the crown needs to be, weave or wrap the willow branch around the circle to make a willow circlet. Little hand may need a help with this step. Step 4: Decorate the willow crown with flowers and other bits of nature. Now it's time to decorate the willow crown! Weave flowers and other bits of nature into the circlet but tucking in stems into the willow crown. Some children prefer a willow crown that's unadorned and that's wonderful too. Use scissors to trim away any long stems or bits that are poking out in funny directions. Step 5: Wear your willow nature crown!

MEMORIAL DAY:

It's legally required to observe a National Moment of Remembrance at 3 p.m. local time to remember and honor the fallen.

MEMORIAL DAY NECKLACE

Materials: String or thin yarn; Scissors; Scotch tape; Blue pony beads; Red straws (We used some red striped paper straws we had on hand). Beads and small pieces of straw are choking hazards. Never leave your child unattended with these materials.

Directions: 1. Cut your red straws into one inch pieces and set them out with some blue pony beads. 2. Cut a piece of string long enough to fit over your child's head when tied. (Be sure to leave a little extra for tying the finished necklace together.). 3. Tie a pony bead to one end of the string. This will keep the beads and straws from slipping off while your child is stringing. On the other end of the string, wrap a piece of scotch tape. Making the end of the string sturdy with tape will help your child thread more easily. 4. Begin threading you beads and straw pieces onto the string. You can create any pattern you'd like! We started out alternating between one bead and one straw piece. We also made some by alternating between 5 beads and one straw piece. 5. When you're happy with your creation, tie the string together to create your necklace. 6. Cut off the ends with the tape and attached pony bead. You're done!

ART BUBBLE

Some of the boyz down at the Marina got to talking about that Ma Day Studio Art Tour that's been building steam since before the turn of the century, hauling traffic in for 25 years and now has expanded not just to 3 days instead of the original 2, but 2 weekends instead of 1. Before long, Cap'n Jack worried, it'll become the Mother's Day to Father's Day Art Tour, an entire month of traffic backed up from the South End Diner to the Stanwoodopolis freeway exit, all those art lovers and their U-Hauls for carrying back their purchases to Bellevue, Seattle and beyond. They remember when the Tulip Festival was just a small bulb in the imagination of the growers before cars eventually outnumbered the flowers. And it makes em nervous.

It should! The South End Economic Development Council holds secret meetings at ReFlux Realty, scheming to sell properties to art aficionados who, in turn, will become artists themselves in the primordial paint soup of the South End, buy easels and brushes, learn raku, break glass and build stained glass panels, sculpt auto wreckage and ultimately double, triple, who knows, the size of the Tour. It's a self-replicating Beast. And when they all begin to starve through overpopulation, they'll still need to pay those mortgages on their dream studios. The only other 'jobs' here, of course, are real estate agents. So the vicious circle completes itself. More artists, more art, more wannabees, more starvation, more real estate agents, more sales, prices rise, properties subdivide, underwater mortgages swell and so the bubble becomes bigger than the egos of the artists who planned this Tour back in the 90's.

Some of the Marina layabouts wanted to stop this in its tracks before there was no turning back. Keep the missuz from going studio to studio Mother's Day weekend. Course, the Tour was planned from the Get-Go to be their default escape from marital duties. Let Ma go traipsing through the art while they'd watch some ballgames. And now, 25 years later, they're only starting to realize the true price of their mistake. Too late, guyz!! Way too late now!

WINNERS' WATERMEDIA ARTWORK TRANSCENDS TECHNIQUE TO EVOKE MEMORIES AND STORIES

NWWS 2024 Waterworks Online Membership Exhibition now to June 30. Northwest Watercolor Society (NWWS) held its annual Waterworks Online Membership Exhibition awards reception. Using the criteria of texture, color and technique, juror Laurie Goldstein-Warren awarded 16 prizes in the 75 watermedia artworks chosen. The top 3 had the expertise plus their art did more than that. An emotion or story transcended technique. Everyone is invited to view these fine art paintings at their leisure and on any electronic device at www.nwws.org <https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=http-3A__www.nwws.org now through June 30. Plus, it's FREE! It was an emotionally trying time for Elaine Daily-Birnbaum when she painted What Goes Around Comes Around. "Elaine uses texture and other elements with great expertise. The artist's marks here and there, the beautiful muted color mixture and the touches of turquoise throughout make you want to take a closer look," Goldstein-Warren said awarding 1st prize of $1,000. "I knew at first glance this painting would be in the top 5," Goldstein-Warren spoke of r. mike nichols' Connection. "This painting intrigues me on many levels. How nature cares for us and the ingenious integration of animals. Techniquely so beautiful." Nichols received 2nd place of $750. "This painting brings up great memories of trips with my family. It always seemed to rain," a nostalgic Goldstein-Warren stated. "On the Road Again-Happy Highway by Gayle McDaniel is skillfully rendered – the automobiles and especially the AirStream trailer - and the sky colors. Everything is done so well as though you're traveling down this road." McDaniel was awarded 3rd place of $500. This was the first exhibition NWWS's updated media criteria guidelines allowed artists to incorporate formerly ineligible media up to 10% while maintaining the watermedia focus. "Some artists brilliantly explored the endless boundaries of traditional watercolor while others saw where mixed media would lead," commented Deborah Roskopf, Acting NWWS President. "Watermedia is now so widely known, recognized, practiced and championed that our focus can turn to recognizing artists and artworks that transcend the media. Enjoy the show," encourages Chair David Orrin Smith. Viewers who see a painting that takes them somewhere, ignites a memory or transcends the ordinary, can buy the artwork by contacting NWWS Treasurer Shirley Jordan at shirleylee@hotmail.com. Artists receive 75% of the sales price. For more information on NWWS, its exhibitions, workshops, membership and all the society offers, visit www.nwws.org. IT'S HWY 532 ROAD CLEANUP AGAIN

The Left side coming onto the Island is complete with 36 bags of trash being picked up; thank you to all of our Helpers! The Right side is scheduled for Sunday, June 9. Let's make our beautiful Island shine for the Summer. The Baha'is of Camano Island have been picking up trash along the roadside on Hwy 532 for over 10 years - from the Spare room to the bridge on both sides of the Hwy. The next trash pick up will take place June 9 at 1:00 p.m. Our numbers are small and the Baha'i members and friends who take part in this endeavor can surely use community help. If you are willing to donate a few hours on Sunday, June 9 to make our roadways cleaner and a welcoming reflection of our beautiful Island, please contact: bahaisofcamanoisland@gmail.com Thank you...

Local Stories and Poetry

MEMORIAL DAY:

In 1864, women from Boalsburg, Pa., put flowers on the graves of their dead from the just-fought Battle of Gettysburg.

DECORATION DAY

by Evaleen Stein

See the soldiers, little ones!
Hark the drummers' beat!
See them with their flags and guns
Marching down the street!

Tattered flags from out the wars,
Let us follow these
To the little stripes and stars
Twinkling through the trees.

Watch them waving through the grass
Where the heroes sleep!
Thither gently let us pass
On this day we keep.

Let us bring our blossoms, too,
All our gardens grow;
Lilacs honey-sweet with dew,
And the lilies' snow.

Every posy of the May,
Every bloomy stem,
Every bud that breaks to-day
Gather now for them.

Lay the lilies o'er them thus,
Lovingly, for so
Down they laid their lives for us,
Long and long ago.

Heap above them bud and bough;
Softly, ere we cease,
God, we pray Thee, gently now
Fold them in Thy peace!

MEMORIAL DAY:

It was originally called Decoration Day. To honor the deceased, soldiers would decorate graves of their fallen comrades with flowers, flags and wreaths. Hence Decoration Day. Although Memorial Day became its official title in the 1880s, the holiday wouldn't legally become Memorial Day until 1967.

"Great recipes
begin in Mama's
Kitchen!"

Visit me at: www.CookingMamas.com

1. PINEAPPLE BOATS: Cut the pineapples in half lengthwise using a large sharp knife. Start at the center of the pineapple and cut through to the bottom. Turn the pineapple around and cut from the center to the top and through the leaves. 2. Using a small paring knife cut a 1-inch border around each pineapple (do not cut through the fruit). Cut down each side of the core (do not cut through the fruit). Using a spoon, scoop out flesh and transfer to a cutting board and roughly chop, place in a bowl until ready to use. Discard the core. Set pineapples aside until ready to fill. 3. MANGO SALSA: In a large bowl, stir together mango, avocado, corn, red onion, jalapeño, lime juice, parsley, salt, pepper, and a drizzle of olive oil, until well combined. Refrigerate until ready to serve. 4. GRILLED SALMON: Preheat oven to 425 degrees. 5. Rinse salmon under cold water and pat dry with paper towels. Remove all pin bones with pliers or tweezers. Drizzle with olive oil and season with Dan's Sweet & Spicy Rub OR your favorite dry rub. Cut into fillets and place on a foil-lined baking sheet. 6. Bake for 12-15 minutes or until fish flakes easily and is still moist. (Do not over-cook). Alternately: Preheat an outdoor grill on medium-high heat. 7. Cut a piece of heavy-duty foil long and wide enough to fit the salmon; position foil on a large baking sheet. Place salmon flesh side up, on top of the foil. Fold edges around salmon. Season as directed. 8. Grill salmon for 15-20 minutes (depending on thickness of your fillet) with the lid closed or until salmon flakes easily. Carefully remove fish to a baking sheet, loosely cover to keep warm. 9. PINEAPPLE RICE: Heat olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add cooked rice and pineapple with juice to the skillet. Cook until heated through, stirring occasionally. Stir in cilantro. 10. CAJUN SHRIMP: Thread 4 raw shrimp onto four wooden skewers. Season shrimp on both sides with rub. 11. In a large skillet, heat olive oil, butter, garlic, and white wine if using over medium- heat. Add shrimp skewers; cook 2-3 minutes per side. Remove to a plate and loosely cover to keep warm. Alternately: Cook shrimp skewers on a well-oiled outdoor grill over medium heat 2-3 minutes per side. 12. TO ASSEMBLE: Fill pineapple boats with rice. Top with Grilled Salmon, Mango Salsa and Cajun Shrimp. Serve with a side of Yoshida's teriyaki sauce, Enjoy!

MR. ABOVE AVERAGE

Of the first ten numbers in our counting system (if you don't count zero) 7 is my favorite number. When I was a kid and more superstitious than I am now, 7 was my Lucky Number. Many great athletes wore that number: Mickey Mantle, "Pistol" Pete Maravich, soccer legend Cristiano Ronaldo, not to mention Tony McElhenny of the Binghamton (NY) Rumble Ponies minor league baseball team. Tony played short stop for one season before the Rumble Ponies released him – which is why I should have followed my own advice "not to mention" him.

There are seven days of the week, Seven Wonders of the World, Seven Colors of the Rainbow, and Seven Harry Potter books. My point is that in many ways, my life on a 1-to-10 scale has also been like the number 7. Not a perfect 10, but far from a 1 or 2. So many aspects about my life, my experiences, and my capabilities could be ranked as a 7, in other words, Above Average.

You can call me Mr. Above Average – because in most things, that's where I tend to land – unless it's knowing how to build or fix ANYTHING on my own. Then I'm an absolute zero. I love sports of all kinds: tennis, racquetball, pickleball, golf, you name it. How good am I? I'm slightly above average in almost all of these sports, about a 7. People who excel at sports love to play me because they are all but assured of winning and feeling better about their athletic prowess afterwards.

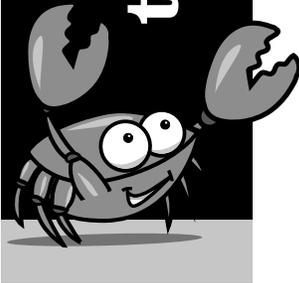

It's been this way most of my adult life – except when it came to the joys and struggles of parenting – in which case I routinely felt like a ping pong ball bouncing back and forth from a joyful 10 to an exasperated 2 (or a lower number during their teenage years). Parenting is an extreme sport.

I'll admit I'm no 10 in the looks department. In my heyday, nobody ever compared me to Brad Pitt or Paul Newman. Although once someone said I looked like I could be John Lithgow's brother for some reason. (I was never sure whether that was a compliment or an insult.) As for my wife, I'd have to say in terms of the 1-to-10 scale of physical perfection, she is probably a.. um...Perfect 10! (Every once in a while, she reads my column in the Crab Cracker, so why take chances?)

I have come to terms with the fact that I don't really excel at most things in life. (That said, I can microwave the perfect 10 frosted cinnamon pop tart, but I'm not sure that's worth bragging about.) I envy people with remarkable talents, like my wife's incredible skill as a portrait artist. Many of my closest friends have exceptional skills like my friend Jerry who built his own home. It seems that most people who live here on Camano Island are extremely artistically gifted. That's why I've unfriended most of them on Facebook.

I have long ago decided that for most things in my life good enough is, well, good enough – except when it comes to pizza, in which case, good enough simply won't do. When I have a serious pizza craving, I refuse to cut corners. (I'm talking to you, Dominos.)

I don't feel bad that I can't afford the fanciest new car. I don't beat myself up that I lack the ability to create stunning works of art like my life partner or play the piano like a prodigy. I'm content to live an above average life, take an above average hike in the woods, relax on the couch patting our above average cats, and watching an above average detective series on Netflix. And a couple times a week, I will go to the local pickleball courts to lose several games to older players who are much more above average than I am.

As I looked over this week's column, I have to say, it's not one of my best. But it's not one of my worst. I'd say it's above average. And that's okay with me.
