We're Foolin' Around...

"Welcome to our 14th annual infamous April Fool's Edition! Some of the content within these pages is fictional, and some is not. Some photos you see inside are real...and some are not. Some of the facts inside this book are not actually facts and the real facts are hidden among the fake. Don't always believe what you see or read, especially in THIS edition. If what you read seems too absurd, then it probably is. If something offends you, please don't call us...it's just some April Foolery...we do not intend to harm anyone." – James Shipley, The Crab Cracker.

SAVE CAMA BEACH CABINS

Do you miss having the cabins open and seeing visitors excited about the park, Camano Island, and Stanwood? Does your business miss the income from tourists? Does your family miss the fun educational events at the park? There is a new group forming to reopen the cabins.

Save Cama Beach Cabins group is asking the Washington State Legislature for funding to repair the septic and water systems so the cabins can be used again. A website with more information will be available soon. They need your help to contact the Governor and your State Legislators to urge their support for this effort so the Cama Beach cabins can be reopened for all of us.

Governor's office: 360-902-4111
Representative Clyde Shavers: 360-786-7884
Representative Dave Paul: 360-786-7914
Senator Ron Muzzall: 360-786-7618

Thank you for your help! Watch the Crab Cracker and/or go to our website for more info.

THE BIG DIG

Some of you commuters that use State Route 230 through the gridlock that Stanwoodopolis has become in recent years will be comforted to know that the city, the county and the state all feel your pain. For some years planners and engineers have debated the best course of action regarding a proposed bypass to ease that congestion. City fathers, rightfully so, are concerned that downtown businesses would suffer if we islanders were detoured away from the floodplain stores and over to farmlands to the north. And so not only has there been gridlocked traffic but planning has been at an impasse as well. What to do, what to do?

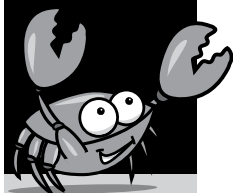

All manner of remedies have been proposed over the years, everything from that alternate route to the north through the snow-goosed farmfields and back to the bridge onto the island, to an elevated highway over the present one with one way traffic going east beneath and one way going west above. The bridge advocates argue that the elevated highway would provide magnificent viewing to the river, the mountains and the Sound. At least going west. Admittedly the lower shadowed highway would at least afford drivers the view they enjoy now of sewage lagoons and the old Twin City barrier wall.

Lately an alternative route has been proposed, heretofore not reported in the Stanwoodopolis Gazette but seems to be a possible solution to the logjam of competing proposals. A tunnel. An underground bypass beneath the city, starting east of Haggens and re-entering beyond the bridge to the west. The cost, of course, would be extravagant and in this era of government downsizing by the Musketeers of DOGE, possibly beyond reach for the city and county, even coupled with state and federal funding. But serendipitously in a beach walk today around the Head I ran into a civil engineer and his wife who works designing roads, bridges and other projects. In the course of general howdy do's, nice weather and local gossip, we happened to fall into talk about how congested island traffic has become going off island and especially through town.

My newly met friend mentioned how he'd been involved in a new plan for that very problem. On the QT, he also mentioned, but since he had barely met me, how could he know that QT is not in my vocabulary, not when I'm the cub reporter for the Crab Cracker. Well, one rumor led to another, but... I have it on reliable inside word that the Tunnel has the inside track for our traffic solution. Or maybe the underground track. He acknowledged that the expense would be considerable. And yet, this was a fix for decades to come, the cost amortized over a lifetime.

I don't know about you fellow commuters, but a subterranean tunnel to bypass Stanwoodopolis definitely works for me. With the 500 units on schedule to clog the intersection of the high school, Haggens and all that uptown commercial traffic, plus the soon-to-be-built Uff-Da Tower Housing Complex on the site of the Viking Village demolition coming soon, you bet I'm planning to write my legislators. Maybe a few of you others could do the same. The future is in our hands. Bypass Stanwoodopolis! What other choice do we have?

Kid's Korner

DID YOU KNOW?

The exact origin of April Fool's Day is unknown, but it is believed to have started in France in the 16th century.

FAUX FISH STICKS

For the fish sticks, place a couple of handfuls of cornflakes in a ziplock bag and crush them with a rolling pin. Cover 2 sugar wafer cookies with peanut butter, then toss them in the cornflake crumbs to coat. For the peas, tear off and roll small pieces of the taffy candy into balls. If the taffy is too stiff to work with, microwave it for about 6 seconds. For the ketchup, use a fork to stir a few teaspoons of the jam until it's smooth.

DID YOU KNOW?

In medieval times, April Fool's Day was known as "Hilaria," a day of games and pranks.

DIY "SPONGE" CAKE APRIL FOOLS PRANK

Materials: Large yellow sponges, Triangle template, Sharpie, Scissors, Hot glue gun, Cardboard, Vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry frosting

1. Trace or draw a triangle onto your sponge. I got two layers of cake out of one sponge.
2. Cut out the triangles and set aside.
3. With your cardboard, cut out one triangle per slice of cake that's the same size as the sponge piece.
4. Hot glue the slice of cake together with the cardboard in the middle.
5. Cover the top and short end of the sponge with frosting. And make sure to cover the cardboard strip as well.
6. Decorate it how you would with a normal slice of cake, with sprinkles and piped frosting and serve it to your April Fool's Day victim!

FLORA RAMIREZ-BUSTAMANTE

"I don't believe in objects" is a series of paintings that explores the modernist canon of still life. These paintings recreate domestic objects within a lyrical and semi-abstract context focused on the relationships between the objects that recursively appear in different dialogues. With this change of focus, the artist exposes the inner dialogue that she establishes with those objects, enhancing their emotional and poetic value, and transcending the domestic and decorative point of view. My artwork is a metaphor of nostalgia, and a reflection of the conversations I keep in my mind. I want to explore the materiality of these metaphors utilizing any subjects, materials and techniques that are at my hand."

Flora Ramirez-Bustamante is a Spanish-born artist based in Stanwood. Trained as a linguist and having never taken any formal art classes, Ramirez-Bustamante develops a personal approach to work with diverse materials and explores different styles with a primary commitment to spontaneity versus perfection. She received her BA in Spanish Linguistics from the Universidad Autónoma of Madrid, Spain, and her PhD on General Linguistics and Spanish Grammar from the same university years later.

CAMANO ISLAND LAUNCHES LIGHTHOUSE TOURS

In a bold and somewhat confusing move, Camano Island has officially announced "The Grand Camano Lighthouse Tour"—a scenic adventure allowing visitors to experience the rich maritime history of... a lighthouse that does not exist. Eager participants who sign up for the tour can expect: A guided walk to a location where a lighthouse should be; Dramatic storytelling about the "lost lighthouse of Camano," which, as it turns out, was never actually built; A complimentary flashlight, so guests can "make their own lighthouse" by shining it into the distance; Visit the gift shop, which sells tiny model lighthouses from other places. Tour guide Ed Bednarczek insists that just because there's no lighthouse doesn't mean the tour isn't worth it. Local reactions have been mixed, with some excited about the tour and others confused about the lack of an actual lighthouse. "This is either genius or complete nonsense," said Camano resident Barbara Higgins. "But I already bought my tickets, so we'll see." Meanwhile, as ticket sales become regular, Ed is considering building a real lighthouse—just to make the tour slightly more realistic. Until then, bring a flashlight and a good sense of humor.

CEDARHOME DECLARES CITYHOOD

Cedarhome will officially secede from Stanwood and create its own town in 2026. The move, announced via a Facebook post and a handwritten flyer taped to the Cedarhome Market door, marks a new chapter for the once-overlooked community, which has long considered itself "definitely separate from Stanwood, no matter what Google Maps says." Mayor-by-default, A. Muse has planned the city for years claiming "we have more population than Stanwood and Camano Island combined and we want our own voice." Upon hearing of Cedarhome's declaration of cityhood, Stanwood city officials reacted with surprising indifference. "Wait... weren't they already acting like their own town?" Honestly, this changes nothing for us. I mean, they still have to use our post office." As a newly established city, Cedarhomewill introduce several groundbreaking policies, including: Ban on Roundabouts, City-Wide Flannel Fridays, and a Cedarhome Border Tax – Anyone driving in from Stanwood must pay a toll of exactly one Mountain Dew or equivalent snack. While cityhood is an exciting new chapter, Cedarhome still faces some logistical challenges, including: Deciding where City Hall should go (current frontrunner: Cedarhome Market) and figuring out if they need a police force or if one guy on an ATV is enough.

NEW BUD HUT TO OPEN ON CAMANO ISLAND - BUT IT'S NOT WHAT YOU THINK

A new business recently opened on the south end of Camano, called Bud Hut, but it is not to be confused with the cannabis store by the same name. This Bud Hut, taking over the old Tyee Store, is designed for buds - the friends type, not the plant type. Neighbors and friends are invited to meet and join in conversation with a cup of coffee or tea or play games. On Monday nights, they will host "buddy" movies for men, titled "Man-day Night Movies", starting out with the 1995 movie, "Bad Boys." On Wednesday nights, they will host buddy movies for women called "Female Flicks", starting with "Thelma and Louise." For more info, contact Laura Randall at doesthismakemybudlookbig@aprilfool.com.

Electricians and welders have completed five new designs for next year: National Spaghetti Day, Lost Sock Memorial Day, Alien Abduction Day, World Emoji Day, and Koningsdag.

SURVIVOR - CAMANO ISLAND

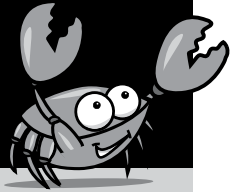

The upcoming season of Survivor that was filmed here on Camano Island this past year, has finished filming and completed editing and post-production. It is scheduled to air this Summer. One of the show's most infamous and popular challenges is the "delicacy eating challenge." In this challenge, castaways must eat a variety of native, usually gross foods, such as live beetle larvae, or a tarantula smoothie, or a fermented egg. This season, being located on Camano Island, the challenge featured Camano Island and Stanwood "delicacies." Survivor contestant, Robyn Greshaw stated in a press release that she failed the challenge when she was forced to eat lutfisk.

REKDAL EXAM

Rekdal Road, one of Camano's most infamous stretches of pavement, has officially failed its annual exam. Local users of that road were not surprised. Beth Miller said, "I wanted to give it the finger myself."

"UFO CAPITAL OF THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST"

Camano Island State Park was recently recognized by The Salish Supernatural Society as "UFO Capital of the Pacific Northwest," claiming that its wide-open beaches and quiet backroads make it an ideal landing zone for extraterrestrial visitors. There have been several reported UFO sightings over the years. Notably: April 26, 2018: A report described a yellow, diamond-shaped craft hovering at an estimated elevation of 5,000 feet over Camano Island. The object suddenly departed in the direction of Whidbey Island. (seattlepi.com). July 19, 2013: A couple observed an unidentified white light moving across the sky, making sudden, inexplicable maneuvers (southwhidbeyrecord.com). December 2013: Mysterious orange lights/orbs. May 2021, campers at Camano Island State Park reported observing a series of lights moving steadily across the night sky. (reddit.com). To commemorate their new title, local businesses are fully embracing the theme, rebranding themselves to attract tourists....and...of course... aliens. For example, Elger Bay Store will be selling UFO merchandise. Washington State Parks will sell a t-shirt that reads "PARK HERE", incorporating the park logo and a landing spaceship. Elger Bay Elementary School announced plans to build a UFO Landing Pad behind the playground, though it was later revealed that this was just the principal's attempt to repave the teacher parking lot.

DOG POOP TRACED TO DOG OWNERS

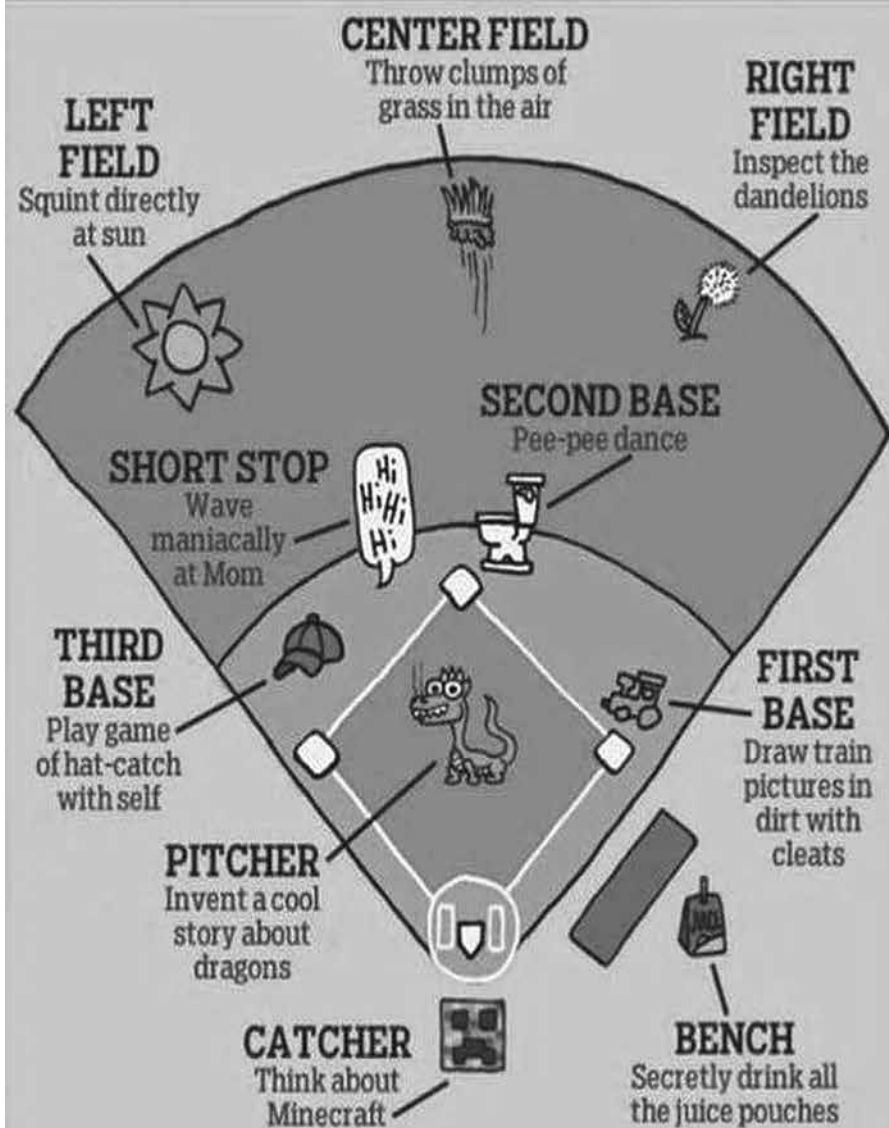

In what can only be described as a crime against clean sidewalks, Stanwood recently took dog poop investigations to the next level—by using forensic science to track unclaimed droppings back to the guilty dog owner. Despite multiple warnings, neighborhood meetings, and the distribution of thousands of free poop bags, people still refused to pick up after their dogs. The town's sidewalks and parks had become a minefield of mystery droppings, and something had to be done. Bea Foold, a local veterinarian, explained, "Dog DNA is like a fingerprint. If we had a registry of dog DNA, we could match poop samples to their owners." Starting April 1, all dog owners in Snohomish County must register their dog's "Doodie DNA". Failure to comply will result in canine confiscation.

LION ENTHUSIASTS MISTAKENLY CRASH LOCAL PRIDE FESTIVAL

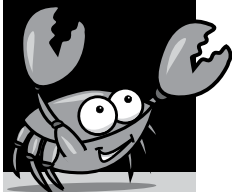

What was supposed to be a joyous and colorful celebration of love and inclusivity at Warm Beach last month took an unexpectedly wild turn when a group of lion enthusiasts accidentally crashed the Warm Beach Pride Festival. The misunderstanding began when the Northwest Big Cat Appreciation Society (NBCAS)—a small but passionate group of lion lovers and amateur wildlife fans—mistook "Pride Festival" for a gathering of actual lion prides. "We just assumed it was a convention for people who love lions," said Karla Matzke. "We thought we'd meet other folks who share our passion for mane grooming, powerful roars, and the majestic spirit of the African savanna." Armed with lion-themed T-shirts, plush toys, and at least one full-body lion mascot suit, the group enthusiastically stormed the festival. The mix-up became clear when one of the lion enthusiasts asked, "So when do we get to see the actual lions?" They were informed by event staff that this was a festival celebrating LGBTQ+ pride, not lion prides. Despite the initial mix-up, the lion lovers quickly embraced the festival's actual theme and decided to stick around. After the event, both the Pride Festival organizers and NBCAS members agreed that perhaps next year, they should just combine forces. "We're thinking of calling it the 'Pride Pride' Festival—A Celebration of Love, Inclusion, and Also Lions," said event coordinator Bill Randall. "It'll be the first Pride event where you can wear either rainbow body glitter or a full mane—and no one will question it."

MY Y WEEK RAISES OVER $42,500 FOR THE 2025 YMCA COMMUNITY CAMPAIGN

The YMCA of Snohomish County wrapped up My Y Week, exceeding expectations and surpassing its $40,000 fundraising goal by bringing in over $42,500 in financial support. Throughout My Y Week, community partners donated $1 for every member check-in from March 2 – 8, 2025, generating excitement and participation for the 2025 Community Campaign. These partners support the Y because they recognize the importance of strong community partnerships in promoting health and well-being. Their contributions help ensure that everyone, regardless of financial circumstances, has access to the programs and resources they need to thrive. The 2025 Community Campaign aims to raise $1.6 million to provide equitable access to all YMCA programs, including swimming lessons, youth sports, and child care. Last year, the Y granted $2.5 million in financial assistance and funds raised this year will help close the gap. With three weeks remaining in this year's Community Campaign, the Y hopes the energy and excitement generated during My Y Week will inspire even more individuals to give. To learn more about the 2025 Community Campaign, please visit ymca-snoco.org/give.

EGG SHORTAGE SOLUTION FOR EASTER

Due to the shortage of eggs and resulting high prices, many parents are concerned about how that will affect their ability to have enough eggs to dye for Easter Sunday. Enter the "Madrona Ladies Egg Society", a civic minded group of women on the west side of Camano. Scouring local Next Door and Facebook groups on the internet and searching for "Eggs for Sale" signs at the ends of gravel roads and driveways, the ladies have been buying and storing large quantities of eggs to distribute to deserving families on the day before Easter. Follow the Community Information section of the Crab Cracker for location and times.

CAMANO ISLAND OPENS FIRST-EVER CAT PARK

Move over, dog parks—Camano Island has officially launched the first-ever dedicated cat park, a fenced-in paradise where local felines can roam, climb, and judge humans in peace. However, what was supposed to be a wholesome gathering of friendly neighborhood kitties quickly descended into absolute madness. The grand opening of “Purr-adise Cat Park” was intended to be a stress-free social event, featuring: A state-of-the-art climbing wall for ambitious felines; A giant sunbathing bed for maximum relaxation; A special “bird-watching zone” for premium entertainment; A tunnel system for dramatic chase sequences. The event began peacefully, with cautious feline visitors sniffing their surroundings and staring judgmentally at their owners. But then—disaster struck. As more cats arrived, the carefully planned activities quickly unraveled: An intense turf war broke out in the climbing area, with a particularly grumpy tabby claiming the highest platform and swatting at all challengers. Several cats immediately escaped, despite the eight-foot-high fence. Owners quickly realized they had no control. Attempts to call their cats back were met with blank stares. Desperate owners tried every trick in the book to restore order: Shaking treat bags and dangling toys were ignored. Many owners left the park empty-handed, with cuts, gashes, and scratches over all parts of their bodies and their clothes shredded. Eventually, volunteers had to lure the cats back into their carriers using a trail of shredded rotisserie chicken. Even then, several felines vanished into the bushes, deciding to live in the wild forever. Despite the absolute catastrophe of the first day, local officials insist the park “just needs some fine-tuning.” Possible improvements include: Separate zones for “social cats” and “leave me alone forever” cats and a dedicated “First Aid Area” for humans who realize that their cats will leave only when THEY want to leave.

FLOATING COFFEE STAND

Kirkpatrick is the owner of two Camano Island Coffee stands. For the past year, she has been looking for a new location. Unable to find one, she decided to CREATE one. Now open, “The Drifting Bean” is Saratoga Passage’s first-ever floating coffee stand, catering to boaters and kayakers. It is a cozy little wooden shack on a barge just off Beach 2 in the Country Club area of Camano Island, complete with a top-of-the-line espresso machine, a stash of homemade scones, and a small sign reading “Out Of Coffee? We’ll Make You MOOR.”

SHS ASTRONOMY CLASS TAKES THE SUN FOR STUDY

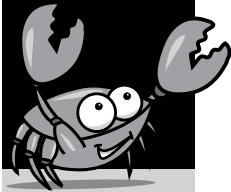

Stanwood High School students, with the assistance of science teacher, Jo King, transported the sun on March 8 to Classroom #4, checking on its health, performance, and general temperament. The results, while mostly expected, included a few alarming surprises. Temperature: Still way too hot. Mood: Unstable, slightly irritable. Likelihood of random solar flare tantrum: Extremely high. “Every year, we run a full diagnostic on the Sun just to make sure it hasn’t decided to explode unexpectedly. So far, so good,” said Mr. King. Biggest concern: Avoid staring directly at the Sun, the sun says that’s rude.

SONS OF BELLEVUE

Following the arrival in the Stanwood area of Scandinavian immigrants in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century, social clubs were formed to assist them and make them feel more at home. One such group that still has a strong presence in the area is the Sons of Norway in Stanwood. With more recent arrivals of retirees from places such as California, Seattle, and east of Lake Washington, similar groups and associations have formed to help those unaccustomed to our rural environment and small-town atmosphere. One recently formed group is the Sons of Bellevue, aka the SOBs. With their ladies’ auxiliary the Daughters of Issaquah, and the Kids of Kirkland for the younger set, the newer groups also celebrate their traditions in an appropriate manner. Rather than feasting on the traditional Scandinavian fare of lutefisk, the SOBs enjoy their own delicacy of sushi, available at several restaurants and stores in the region. This raw fish is often accompanied by dim sum and washed down with bottles of wine from Woodinville or local craft brews. And unlike lutefisk, the only thing that has anything to do with the word “pickle” is the rousing game played afterwards on the former tennis courts near Camano’s Administration Building. A new building is planned to be built in 2026 next to the Stanwood Amtrak station to serve the SOBs. “The T-Mobile Sons of Bellevue” building will be a modern, glass skyscraper, decorated by Chihuly glass and local vegetation from Bellevue botanical Garden, and each floor will be adorned with various products supplied by Bellevue Square and Kirkland boutiques. Additionally, there will be a coffee/juice bar, a Brazilian steakhouse, a 100-seat Imax theater, and ten salons. Next on the horizon: look for new groups and associations formed by emigres from Los Angeles and San Diego, with some variation of the word SoCal in their names.

LOCAL MAN TRAINS SERVICE DOG TO DRIVE - CHAOS ENSUES

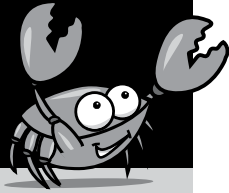

In what experts are calling "both inspiring and deeply concerning," a local man has attempted to train his service dog to drive a car. The "experiment" was conducted by Norm Wilson, who, despite being legally blind, insists that his dog, Biscuit, is more than capable of operating a vehicle. "HE'S A GOOD BOY. HE CAN HANDLE IT," Mason, who has relied on Biscuit as his service dog for years, claims that modern driving technology should allow trained animals to "take the wheel" safely. "Cars practically drive themselves these days. If people can trust Teslas, why not trust a dog?" Eyewitnesses at a Stanwood parking lot described pure chaos as Biscuit made his debut behind the wheel. Attempt #1: Biscuit successfully started the car but got distracted by his own reflection in the rearview mirror. Attempt #2: Biscuit nearly pulled it off—until he spotted a squirrel, at which point all driving instincts vanished. Local officers arrived at the scene to find Biscuit wagging his tail proudly, having managed to park illegally, very close to, of course, a fire hydrant.

TWIN CITY FOODS SOLD TO AMUSEMENTS NW LLC

The Canadian Meatless Factory vacated the old Twin City Foods location and will soon be replaced with a water park attraction. Thanks to the hard efforts of the city mayor and city organizations, Stanwood will be home to Washington's newest theme park, "Twin City Tidal Waves". The new park, scheduled for construction this Spring, will include a water slide park with twelve different attractions and a food court. One portion of the space will include a "parents" spa that will include body treatments from natural resources, including mud treatments from Ovenell Pond. The cost of the project is $2.43 billion. Much of that money will come from a 500% coffee tax and monies generated from the Camano Island Bingo weekly fundraisers.

CAMANO BIKE RIDE HAS LONG HISTORY

Bike riders can circle Camano Island in the McClinchy Camano Classic Century on Sunday, April 27. The annual event offers scenic and challenging route options of 103, 65, 50, 35 or 15 miles. Fresh food stops and lots of hills are included. Century riders pass through three counties! The first McClinchy Mile was hosted by B.I.K.E.S. Club of Snohomish County on Oct. 3 1982 out of Monroe. It was named after an early club member Stuart McClinchy who died too young. Camano Island and the Stanwood Camano Kiwanis became part of McClinchy in 2019. Prior to that, the Kiwanis had hosted the Camano Climb Bike Ride for more than 25 years. The Stanwood Camano Amateur Radio Club assists with communications during McClinchy, and Arlington VeloSport (formerly of Stanwood) provides mechanical support. McClinchy riders finish their day with gourmet tacos at SAAL Brewing in Stanwood. Any extra rest stop food after the event is donated to the Stanwood Food Bank. McClinchy is a major fundraiser for both B.I.K.E.S. and Kiwanis. B.I.K.E.S. gives grants for local bike-related causes such as the nonprofit Sharing Wheels Community Bike Shop and helmets to go with bikes for low income kids. The Kiwanis use event proceeds for a high school scholarship program. The first 200 registrants will receive a ride souvenir. Price increases $10 on April 1. VIKING VILLAGE DEVELOPMENT

After a heated City Hall meeting last month, city officials have abandoned the original plan for Viking Village condos and shopping, and instead is planning an "actual" viking village. Inspired by Leavenworth, WA, which was once a logging town that redesigned itself to the Bavarian village tourist attraction after the logging boom ended, Stanwood hopes that Viking Village will do the same to revitalize Stanwood. According to city hall council member, Gene Crookston, the village will allow you access to explore the lives, work, and influence of the Vikings, as you to wander through authentic houses and immerse yourself in a living, breathing Viking community. Photo: artist rendering of Viking Village, Stanwood.

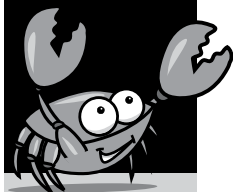

LOCAL SCHOOLS INTRODUCE ALLIGATOR EGGS

The current egg shortage and price spikes are primarily due to a widespread outbreak of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI), also known as bird flu, which has led to the culling of millions of egg-laying hens, severely impacting the supply. Due to the high cost and health risks of bird eggs, the local school district held an emergency meeting to find alternatives to chicken eggs and voted to create egg dishes from alligator eggs instead. Sno-Co Director of Schools, April Fewl said, "Alligators are not affected by the Bird Flu, therefore, their eggs are completely safe. We've already made arrangements with The Reptile Man in Monroe, WA to supply us with eggs year-round." The students, however, are not embracing the new eggs. "These eggs taste... swampy," said Noah Dgoke. Kit Ting commented the flavor after eating a breakfast burrito, "It started as sausage, then became bacon, then... was that a hint of fish?" In response to growing community concerns, only one school within the district will continue implementing the egg substitution pilot program. Which school? The district refused comment.

Library 10th Anniversary

A weekly announcement about the beginnings of the Camano Island Library.

10 years CAMANO ISLAND LIBRARY

CONTINUING THE STORY OF BECOMING THE CAMANO ISLAND LIBRARY...

Passing the Bond, Part 1

In 2011, a Political Action Committee (PAC), Citizens for a Camano Library, was formed to promote a bond issue for a permanent library facility on Camano. A survey done in October of that year showed that more than 70% of those surveyed favored a permanent library on the island. However, the survey also indicated that the slow pace of economic recovery made the timing unfavorable for running the bond issue in April, 2012.

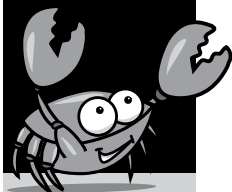

In January of 2013, a reconstituted PAC, Citizens for a Camano Library Steering Committee, began planning to place two measures on the August 6 ballot. One measure, requiring a simple majority to pass, would create a taxing district of just Camano Island. A second measure, requiring a 60% majority to pass, would fund the actual library building. Both measures would need to pass for the library to become a reality.

In May of 2013 the Sno-Isle Libraries Board of Trustees took an unprecedented measure and voted to provide temporary financing for the purchase of The Islanders restaurant at Terry's Corner when that property went into foreclosure. If the August ballot measures were approved, this would become the site of a permanent Camano Island Library.

On August 6, 2013, following months of campaigning and phone calls, the voters passed the first ballot measure to create the taxing district by a supermajority of 60.88%. However, the second ballot measure to issue the capital bonds for construction of the library received only 58.71% of the votes – short of the required 60%. The measure was just 78 votes short of passage...

COSMIC BROWNIES

These Cosmic Brownies are absolutely out of this world!

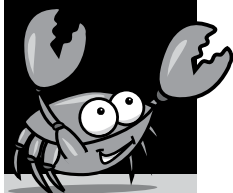

BROWNIES: 1 1/2 c. salted butter, partially melted; 1 3/4 c. brown sugar; 3/4 c. granulated sugar; 5 lg. eggs; 2 T. corn syrup; 1 T. vanilla extract; 3 c. all-purpose flour; 1 1/4 c. Dutch processed cocoa powder; 1 T. cornstarch; 1 tsp. salt; 1 tsp. baking soda

FUDGE FROSTING: 1/2 c. salted butter, softened; 3 oz. cream cheese, room temperature; 3/4 c. Dutch processed cocoa powder; 3 c. confectioners' sugar; 2 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract; Milk as needed to thin; Candy coated chocolate chips (Amazon)

DIRECTIONS: 1. BROWNIES: Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Line a 9x13-inch baking pan with parchment paper. 2. In the bowl of a stand mixer or in a large bowl with an electric hand mixer, cream together the partially melted butter, brown sugar, and granulated sugar for a full 5 minutes on the highest speed. The mixture will be extremely light in color and very fluffy. 3. Add the eggs, corn syrup and vanilla. Beat again on the highest speed for an additional 5 minutes. 4. Add the flour, cocoa powder, cornstarch, salt, and soda to the bowl. Beat until everything is just combined. Using a spatula, fold the mixture by hand a few times to make sure that everything is well combined. 5. Transfer the brownie batter to the prepared 9x13 pan. Spread the mixture until it is smooth and even. 6. Bake for 25-30 minutes. The brownies will rise significantly, the edges will begin to crack a little. Test the center of the brownies with a toothpick, if a few moist crumbs come up on the toothpick they are ready to come out of the oven. 7. Immediately upon taking the brownies out of the oven, drop the pan onto a cutting board a few times to let the excess air out of the center of the brownies. This will cause the brownies to deflate and give us that extra fudgy texture. While the brownies are cooling, make the frosting. 8. FUDGE FROSTING: In a large bowl, cream together the butter and cream cheese until smooth scraping the sides of the bowl as needed. Add in the cocoa powder and a teaspoon or two of milk to help bring the mixture together. Beat on the lowest speed, to avoid adding extra air to the frosting. 9. Next, add in the confectioners' sugar, again adding a little bit of milk, as needed to bring the mixture together while mixing on the lowest speed. 10. Add the vanilla and mix until combined. The frosting should be thick, creamy, and dark in color. 11. Scoop dollops of the frosting onto the top of the brownies. The heat from the brownies will slightly melt the frosting making it easier to spread. Spread the frosting evenly over the brownies. 12. Return the brownies to the warm (but off) oven for 3-5 minutes to melt the frosting onto the brownies (this will help get that silky smooth appearance on top of the frosting). 13. Immediately sprinkle the candy-coated chocolate chips on top of the frosting. Allow the brownies to cool completely in the pan before cutting.

NEW YORKERS HARASSED BY SUSPICIOUS FOREIGNER ATTEMPTING TO SAY HELLO

Anchorman: Good evening and Welcome to Eye Witness News. I'm Sonny Vabich. This just in: A sixty-three-year-old Midwestern man visiting New York City for the first time has been accused of terrorizing New Yorkers on their way to work. From several eye witness accounts, this man, who claims his name is Earl Pickens, has been spotted approaching people minding their own business and saying unsettling things to them like, "Hello" and "Nice weather we're having today, eh?"

Believed to be a wheat farmer from Nebraska, Mr. Pickens has been seen walking up to complete strangers in several parts of Manhattan, suspiciously asking for directions to places like the Empire State Building and even the Statue of Liberty. In just a matter of hours Pickens has left several New Yorkers traumatized by his repeated attempts to interact with them in a friendly, cheerful manner. We turn to our reporter on the scene, Woody Dewitt. Woody, what can you tell us about this latest incident that's putting so many New Yorkers on edge?

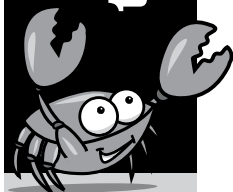

Reporter Woody Dewitt: Thanks, Sonny. Based on security footage, we've determined that Pickens arrived at Penn Station in the heart of Manhattan at approximately 8:57am at the peak of the morning commute. He had boarded the AirTrain rail line from Newark International Airport earlier that morning. He had already attempted to say hi to several airline passengers at the Newark Airport baggage claim – even offering to assist one person in retrieving their luggage from the carousel. But he was quickly told, "Get away from me, you creep," after which Pickens reportedly quietly left the scene, uttering words to the effect of "I am so sorry. I apologize. Please have a nice day."

One anxious commuter at Penn Station recalled seeing a tall man later identified as Pickens accosting their co-worker, saying, and I quote, "Pardon me, ma'am. Do you know which way to Times Square?" unquote. He left several worried commuters here unsure why a man they did not know was talking to them, not to mention smiling. [Cut to a local eye witness.]

Local eye witness: He made direct eye contact with me. His face was no more than three feet from mine. And then he said, completely unprovoked by me, mind you, "Good morning." I was speechless. I thought perhaps he was on drugs and might try to hit me up for money. I was terrified. But something in his tone suggested that this might be a greeting. Thankfully, there was several police officers nearby, so they intervened to rescue me from a situation that could have turned bad, although, now that I think about it, probably not.

Reporter Woody Dewitt: While Pickens was standing in line at a Dunkin' Donuts, a SWAT team of six New York City police officers quickly identified him and took him into custody to await further questioning. However, he was released a few hours later when it was determined by the Manhattan District Attorney's office that friendliness towards strangers is not currently considered to be a crime in New York. Outside the station, Pickens issued a brief statement. [Cut to Mr. Pickens reading from a written statement.]

Earl Pickens: Where I come from in Nebraska, it is okay to greet strangers and tell them to have a nice day. I did not know that such behavior is not tolerated here in New York City. I deeply apologize to anyone I may have offended or to whom I may have caused emotional distress. I did not mean to cause anyone to panic when I carelessly uttered words like "Nice day, eh?" and "Thank you." Would it be okay for me to go now?

Anchorman Sonny Vabich: Woody, what should New Yorkers do if they find themselves approached by an out-of-towner, from, say, Iowa or Minnesota?

Reporter Woody Dewitt: Police recommend you avoid making eye contact and putting your headphones on and keeping your head down. You have no idea what nice sentiment they may attempt to verbalize with you or one of your family members. And failing that, if someone you don't recognize confronts you, say, to ask for directions to the Bubba Gump Shrimp company or otherwise tries to engage you, the best advice is to tell them in a fractured, foreign accent, "No speak-a-duh-Engleese." Then walk briskly towards the nearest Starbucks.

Anchorman Sonny Vabich: Sounds like smart advice. Thanks, Woody. And after a quick commercial break, what should you do if an elderly lady with a foreign accent attempts to sit next to you on the subway? More on that next.
