

Dear Children's needs,

Haven't seen you in a while!

We miss you a lot honestly many children need you. Where are you? When are you coming?

There are a lot of things going on right now and the next generation children really need your help. Hunger is a very serious problem that many children have to deal with especially in countries which people are suffering from poverty. Also there are kids that don't know about their roots and where they came from this leads to bullying due to the fact they are different from the other kids.

So many kids isolate themselves which also leads to depression we will try our best raising awareness about the children's needs using education and media. We will also volunteer to directly help solve the problem concluding we hope all of our deeds will help you come back sooner

Best wishes,

Children who need you
