Ballpark playground -Photos provided

The new playground at the Shoals Ballpark is now complete. The install crew finished up the installation that started on December 20. The new playground is for preschool children 2-5 years of age. The playground will be completely fenced in and is located behind the main bleachers at the big field. The play set system offers two climbing panels, two slides and more. A caterpillar crawl tube and ADA adaptive swings complete the new playground all in red, white and blue. A canopy sunshade spans over the top of the play set system. The playground is just one part of the $140,000 Phase II Revitalization Grant made possible by the Martin County Community Foundation with support from Lilly Endowment Inc. through its $100,000 leadership grant from Lilly Endowments Giving Indiana Funds for Tomorrow (GIFT) VII Initiative.

Attorney General invites Hoosiers to visit IndianaUnclaimed.gov to kick off 2023

After ringing in the new year, Attorney General Todd Rokita invites Hoosiers to visit IndianaUnclaimed.gov to see if they have some extra money waiting for them to have their money returned," Attorney turned in unclaimed property in 2021 General Rokita said. "My office is committed to serving the people of Indiana and protecting their individual liberty. Getting unclaimed property back in the hands of its rightful owner is crucial."

Kettle Campaign raises $5,000

$5,000 was donated to Salvation Army to help the people of Martin County during the recent Red Kettle Campaign conducted in Loogootee and Shoals.

The following churches and organizations rang bells at IGA: Redemption Christian Church, Loogootee Methodist Church, Martin County Junior Leaders, New Beginnings Church, Loogootee School, St. John's Lutheran Church. Redeeming Grace CWM, and St. John's Catholic Church. Kettles were placed at the following businesses to collect money: Dollar General in Loogootee and Shoals, R.J's, Marathon, Bauer Family Coffee Shop, Corner Cafe, and Stoll's Lakeview Restaurant.

A big thank you to all who made this Red Kettle Campaign a success.

With the new year rolling in, let's celebrate together with newly discovered cash.

In 2022, Attorney General Rokita's office returned over $62 million in unclaimed property to its rightful owners. "Our hardworking Hoosiers deserve This is in addition to the $48 million re-

Tri Kappa offers several scholarships

The state organization of Tri Kappa will award a variety of scholarships to college students throughout Indiana in the spring. Tri Kappa has provided scholarship awards since 1914, recognizing students on the local, province, and state levels. Chapters, provinces and the state organization combined gave more than $1.5 million in 2021 to honor academic achievement.

Scholarship chair Samantha Nelson, of Loogootee-Shoals Delta Tau Chapter, is currently seeking applicants for the following:

Twelve+ $1,000 Academic Scholar-

To apply students must be currently enrolled in a baccalaureate or graduate program, be listed on the transcript as at least a sophomore (refers to credit hours completed) or be in second year of a community or junior college and transferring to a four-year program. Criteria used by the Tri Kappa selection committee are academic achievement, strong goals and extracurricular and work experiences.

Two $1,000 Key/Vocational Scholar-

Key scholarships are directed to those students who have no previous degree beyond high school and have had a lapse in their education for at least five years. Those students enrolled in an accredited school offering an associate or baccalaureate degree who have completed one semester may apply.

Vocational applicants should be students who will be enrolled in a post-high school accredited vocational, technical or trade certification program this fall.

Criteria used by the Tri Kappa selection committee for these two scholarships are academic achievement, strong goals and community and work experiences.

Three+ $1,000 Fine Arts Scholarships

Students majoring in art, dance, drama or music are eligible. To apply, students must be currently enrolled in an accredited baccalaureate or graduate degree program, be listed on the transcript as at least a sophomore (refers to credit hours completed).

One $1,000 Twanette Nutter Fleming Music Award

Applicants for this award must be enrolled in a fully accredited course of study leading to a degree to teach music in a private, public or parochial school. They must be listed on the transcript as at least a sophomore (refers to credit hours completed).

Scholarship chair Samantha Nelson stated, "Our area boasts numerous college students who are talented and would qualify for these scholarships. We are hopeful that we can identify those students so we may begin the process of submitting an application for State Tri Kappa scholarships.'

Students wishing to apply for any of these scholarships are encouraged to contact Samantha at 812-296-1395 or bscenin@hotmail.com.

The state scholarship committee will meet in early spring to select the recipi-

In addition to the state scholarships, the Loogootee-Shoals Delta Tau Chapter of Tri Kappa also provides two local scholarships in the amount of $500 each; one to a graduating Loogootee High School student and one to a graduating Shoals High School student. Proof of college enrollment for the 2023-2024 Fall Semester is required. Applications for those High School Scholarships can be obtained from your local High School Counselor or by contacting Samantha Nelson (812) 296-1395 or by email at bscenin@hot-tomorrow by evading it today. -Abraham

It's been a very busy time at the Town of Shoals putting together money so we can update our wastewater infrastructure.

In late November, we had a pre-bond closing meeting. Most people would say what's that mean?'! Well, it's like when you take out a mortgage on your home, and everybody gets together and makes sure the paperwork is in order. The big difference here is we have several organizations involved in order to generate the money for the project - the Indiana State Revolving Loan Fund, Ice Miller bond lawyers out of Indianapolis, our financial consultant, our town clerk-treasurer, and our deputy clerk-treasurer for the town. Also, myself your councilman, town attorney, our Southern Indiana Development Corporation representative, and the Indiana Finance Authority. That's a lot of checks and balances to match and make sure everybody has their i's dotted and t's crossed. We've been working four years to get to this point.

So, what does that mean for the Town of Shoals?

This means we can move forward with the much-needed updates to our wastewater system. We had an outstanding loan (at a higher interest rate with the USDA) the town borrowed over 19 years ago, $690,000 toward our wastewater system that is due in 2042. This money was used for testing to show problems and not for updates or improvements. We took the remaining balance of that loan ($522,000) and combined it with the amount we're borrowing for this project and were able to come in at a lower interest rate, and a better bond deal. Your council pursued and was awarded $852,000 in grant money that does not have to be paid back. Because we went through the state to borrow this money, we were able to capitalize on their ability to borrow money at a low interest rate. This is because the State of Indiana has an excellent credit rating, and we paid a lot down with grants that your town aggressively went after. Just

You cannot escape the responsibility of like when you get a loan for your home, the better credit rating you have and the more you put down, the lower your payments will be. The following numbers I am giving out are approximate numbers. It makes it easier to understand the overall picture. Four years ago, the project cost was estimated at 1.5 million dollars. This was all before the word COVID was ever herd of! Then it went to 1.9 million dollars and kept rising. Your council and clerk-treasurer went to work applying and searching for ways to fund the wastewater update program. Then everything went in very slow motion due to COVID. Yet we pushed forward. The bottom line, four years later the projected cost is now 2.4 million dollars plus the $522,000 we now owe, brings project costs to 2.9 million dollars. I could go on and on! The bottom line is COVID's massive labor and material shortages, also IF we can even get the special materials required.

The Town of Shoals combines the old loan with the USDA and the new amount to do the project. The timing of this was before interest went up the grant money, also using the State of Indiana borrowing power along with your town clerk-treasurer and town council has saved the town of Shoals utility customers in excess of over 2 million additional dollars we would have had to pay back on this 35-year loan. The easy way to do this would to have had cost estimates and went to a bank to borrow the money! Yes, we could have done that. Costing an excess of 2 million dollars more. Ok that's a lot of numbers!

So, what does that mean to the Town of Shoals utility customer?

We have to pay that 35-year loan back from collecting wastewater processing bills. Our basic wastewater rate will go

A very true statement is the rate COULD have gone up MULTIPLE X's 10 if the town was not smart with your money!

Please, if it does not come off a fiveinch roll do not put it in your toilet bowl! Shop Shoals Toy's NAPA parts store.

PURE COUNTRY By Dan Gregory

Originally published January 1, 2009

There is something about changing out the calendar at the end of the previous year and the beginning of the New Year that may mean more than just having the new dates. If most old calendars are like ours, they have places, times and other relevant information scattered throughout the months. They serve as a diary of sorts without many details beyond where and when. In flipping through the previous year's calendars, we can sort of capture the highs and maybe a few lows of the year just passed. A birthday here and there, meetings of all types, maybe that vacation or two make up most of the scribbling on our calendars. Barb and I both have our own little abbreviations we use on the calendar, which mostly serve only to confuse the other. There are just a few days with nothing written on them at all.... signs of a not quite completely hectic and busy life I suppose or things that come up at the last minute, so no real need to record them on a calendar.

Barb and I have three calendars we use, with the master calendar being on the side of our kitchen refrigerator, next to the phone and our back door. The others are in our home office and then the one I use on the farm. I haven't quite mastered using the one on my cell phone yet, and so far, a "blackberry" is still a thing my mom makes an occasional cobbler with and grows behind her garage. For now, I would prefer to keep it that way. I have added a day planner back into my group of calendars, after abandoning one for a year following my departure from the Community Foundation. With a new role as a County Commissioner, the day planner is once again back in my lineup as my mobile calendar.

My favorite calendar is the one that Tri-Kappa puts out with many birthdays and anniversaries listed of people in our community. I usually check it sometime during the week and try and make mental notes of who we know that is celebrating a special day. Also, the calendar has many local business sponsors, and it points out one of the great advantages of living in a small community such as ours, as there really are not too many services that can't be accessed locally, and it is nice to see all of the entrepreneurs that exist in our small community as well as personally know most of the owners or operators.

We posted the new 2009 calendars this morning, and as would be expected it is almost totally blank. It is guaranteed to begin having more places, times and notes scribbled in before the day is over as we start a brand-New Year once again. While what will be written on it by this time next year is best left to the unknown, it too will have a small share of our recorded history and memories.

Happy New Year to all!

DCS releases 2021 fatality report

The Indiana Department of Child Services investigated 271 child deaths in 2021 and determined 60 were a result of abuse and neglect. The Annual Report of Child Abuse and Neglect Fatalities in Indiana details the circumstances leading to each fatality and highlights the risk factors that put children in danger.

"The death of any child is a great loss for the families and communities," DCS Director Terry Stigdon said. "We need to be able to learn from this report and make meaningful and lasting change to increase awareness of the risk factors that lead to these tragedies."

Improper sleeping arrangements, including co-sleeping, remain a leading contributor to infant fatalities. Other common risk factors listed in the report were substance abuse, failure to supervise a child (especially near a body of water) and driving while intoxicated.

DCS is legally required to review all child fatalities that fit under the following circumstances:

For children under 3 years of age: the death is sudden, unexpected or unexplained, or involves allegations of abuse and neglect.

For children age 3 or older: the death involves allegations of abuse or neglect.

The full report can be found here.

FARMING & OUTDOORS

MARTIN COUNTY JOURNAL

A new year has arrived, and most gardeners are looking forward to spring. These cold winter days are a great time for planning. Of course, that means looking through the various seed and nursery catalogues, looking for the seeds and plants that one wants to order for the spring. In coming weeks, I will be writing about some of the award-winning varieties for 2023, but do not let the lure of the new varieties sway your choices too much. The tried-and-true favorites still deserve space in your vegetable and ornamental gardens.

It is also a wonderful time to consider changes to your hardscape. With the bareness of winter, it is easier to see where adjustments are needed. It is obvious now where a garden could benefit from adding height or depth. It is also easy to see the pathways through a garden now and decide if changes to be made. A different paving surface can make a lot of difference during these bare months. In summer, when plants spill over the paths, those pathway materials are not seen as much. You will also see where more winter interest is needed. If there is nothing worth viewing in your garden, make plans to add some structures or plants that will improve that status in future years. A strategically placed evergreen can make a huge difference in winter curb appeal and general garden interest. Of course, I heartily recommend winterberry for adding interest during the winter. The stems covered with berries really made a garden pop. Like all hollies, winterberries are dioecious and must have a male plant for the female plants to set berries. Happily, I have found that one male plant planted in an out-of-the-way location will pollinate several females and it will pollinate females of different cultivars. That allows me to have different colors in the gardens. They also will provide food for the birds during the winter.

That brings to mind one of my favorite winter garden activities—feeding and watching the birds. The price of bird seed has increased a lot since last year, so I may have to ration the seeds a little more this winter. Feeding the birds is more for bringing the birds to my garden than contributing to the survival of the birds.

While they will come to feeders, if there are enough wild areas around, the birds will find food for survival. Do not feel obligated to feed the birds but doing so will provide a lot of entertainment. For that reason, I am repeating an appeal I made a few years ago in this column. Check with the people in charge of nursing homes, group homes and senior citizen apartments to see if they allow bird feeders. If they do, get people to help buy feeders to place outside the windows of each unit, or at least outside the common areas. Volunteer to fill the feeders a couple of times a week. Add a heated birdbath to really draw in the birds. The avian activity will entertain the residents

Finally, this is a good time to increase your education on garden issues. With the availability of the internet and the collection of good books in public libraries, you should be able to find information about almost any topic. There are many free webinars, and you may assemble a group to share the cost of a program that requires fees. Learn something new every day. Spring is coming when you can put the new knowledge to work.

Farmer sentiment rebounds at year end on stronger 2022 income

BY KAMI GOODWIN

Purdue University News Service

Following a two-month decline and a year of weak sentiment, the Purdue University/CME Group Ag Economy Barometer closed out the year on a more positive note, rallying 24 points in December to a reading of 126. U.S. farmers were more optimistic about both their current situation and expectations for the future. The Current Conditions Index jumped 37 points to a reading of 135, while the Future Expectations Index increased 18 points to a reading of 122. The Ag Economy Barometer is calculated each month from 400 U.S. agricultural producers' responses to a telephone survey. This month's survey was conducted Dec. 5-9.

"The improvement in current sentiment was motivated by producers' stronger perception of current financial conditions on their farms and could be attributed to producers taking time to estimate their farms' 2022 income following the completion of the fall harvest," said James Mintert, the barometer's principal investigator and director of Purdue University's Center for Commercial Agriculture.

The Farm Financial Performance Index climbed 18 points to a reading of 109 in December. Notably, this was the only time in 2022 that the index was above 100. The turnaround was driven by a sharp increase in the percentage of producers who expect better performance than last year, which jumped from 23% to 35% of respondents, and is consistent with USDA's forecast for strong net farm income in 2022.

The Farm Capital Investment Index climbed 9 points this month to 40, the highest reading for the index since February; yet, it remains 9 points lower than a year earlier. Among the nearly three-quarters of respondents who said it was a bad time for large investments, the most commonly cited reason was high prices for farm machinery and new construction (41%), followed by rising interest rates (28%).

Despite the improvement in farmers' perceptions of their financial situations, both the short- and long-term farmland value indices continued to drift lower in December. The short-term index fell 5 points to 124, while the long-term index declined 4 points to 140. When examined over the course of the last year, it's clear that sentiment among producers about farmland values has shifted. For example, compared to a year ago, the percentage of respondents who expect to see farmland values decline in the upcoming year increased from 6% to 15%, while the percentage expecting to see values rise declined from 59% to 39%. Among producers who expect farmland values to rise over the next 5 years, just over threefourths of them said that a combination of nonfarm investor demand and inflation are the main reasons they expect to see values rise.

Looking to the year ahead, the December survey asked producers to compare their expectations for their farm's financial performance in 2023 to 2022. Producers indicated they expect lower financial performance in 2023 and cited rising costs and narrowing margins as key reasons. Concerns about costs continue to be top of mind for producers. Nearly half (47%) of crop producers said they expect farmland cash rental rates in 2023 to rise above the previous year. Other top concerns for 2023 include higher input costs (45% of respondents), rising interest rates (22% of respondents) and lower crop or livestock prices (13% of respondents).
