Danielle Murphy hired as new county community corrections director

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

The Martin County Commissioners approved hiring Danielle Murphy as the new director of Martin County Community Corrections, at their meeting Tuesday night, April 20. Commissioner Aaron Summers voted against hiring Murphy noting that it was nothing against her personally.

Community Corrections Advisory Board President Noel Harty said that they received 12 applications for the position. The advisory board narrowed that down to five candidates to offer interviews to and then two candidates for a second interview. Harty said Murphy was the best choice, as was the consensus of the advisory board. Murphy currently works as matron at the Martin County Sheriff's Department. She will give her notice and start the director job in mid-May.

Clerk Gerald Montgomery requested permission to get bids for remodeling the clerk's office. He said he would like to replace the carpet and trim and tear down the wallpaper and paint. The commissioners approved.

Council Members Barb McFeaters, Adam Greene and Sherri Bowling talked to the commissioners about hiring a financial advisor for the county. The three council members were part of a committee to interview firms. Bowling said three companies were contacted for interviews and after doing research, they recommend hiring FSG Corporation. The financial advisors will help go through each budget in the county to maximize savings. Greene said the company also showed interest in helping the county lower taxes which was a big plus for him. The cost for the different areas FSG will be working on is not to exceed $30,000.

Greg Guerrettaz, with FSG, said he is looking forward to working with the county. He said they try to recoup the county's cost for hiring them, in savings. He said the goal now is to work on getting the county sustainable for the next three years.

Racquel Hanks, the manager of USG, approached the commissioners about a phone call she received from the sheriff (See 'COMMISSIONERS' on page 2)

County receives $250,000 to help businesses affected by COVID

Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch and the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs on Monday announced that an additional 80 Hoosier communities will receive more than $18.6 million in federal grant funding through OCRA's COVID-19 Response Grant Program. Martin County was awarded $250,000 to assist local businesses throughout the county by providing financial assistance to businesses that have been negatively affected by the COVID-19 pandemic.

"This grant program has already provided support to more than 600,000 Hoosiers across our state," Crouch said. "This round we expanded the COVID-19 Response Grant Program so we can continue helping Hoosiers, their families and their businesses recover from the pandemic."

In April of 2020, OCRA began addressing COVID-19 impact on Indiana communities. Last year, 112 grants were awarded to 96 communities, totaling more than $20.9 million.

"Based on additional research and community feedback, OCRA was able to open this round to municipalities of all sizes and expanded eligible activities," said Denny Spinner, Executive Director of OCRA. "With a focus on assisting small businesses, expanding food bank and pantry services, and providing essential mental health services, these grants will impact Hoosiers and communities that are on the road to recovery."

COMMISSIONERS

telling them to halt all trucks on county roads due to complaints. She said they are working on removing tons of water coming into their facility before they have to stop operations. In the next week or two, they will have very large pieces of equipment being brought in for drilling along with dozens of gravel trucks. She said they have been working with the highway department and trying to stay within the roads' weight limits.

Commissioner Paul George asked if USG will pay for repairs for damage done on Mill Road. Hanks asked to see photos of the damage. She said they are willing to pay for repairs if they are actually the ones who caused it. She said USG trucks are not the only heavy vehicles travelling the roadway and noted she has seen log trucks as well.

Discussion ensued on how to help USG get their water situation under control and also avoiding damage to the county roadways. It was suggested that when the drilling equipment is scheduled to come in that the sheriff's department be notified so they can stop traffic. Commissioner George said they would always prefer trucks to use the gravel roads over the paved ones. Hanks said they can try the gravel routes, but they are trying to avoid bridges as the trucks far exceed the bridge weight limits. She said again they have no issue with repairing the roads if their trucks are causing the damage.

Commissioner Cody Roush said he understands their dilemma and they don't want to hold up the progress however they have to protect the county roads.

Hanks said she understands and will stay in touch with the highway superintendent to coordinate the incoming equipment.

County Attorney Dave Lett told the commissioners that in order to approve an ordinance to fine property owners who don't clean up their property, they need to hire a part-time building inspector. He said the person would be required to inspect, take photos and document each complaint. Once that person is in place, the commissioners can start issuing letters to property owners in violation. If the property owner fails to clean up the property within the timeframe given, the county will hire someone to clean it up and bill the property owner. If unpaid, a lien will be filed on the property. Commissioner Roush asked if the person could be a volunteer. Attorney Lett said he thinks the person needs to be compensated in some way as a part-time county employee. Roush asked if they could ask a current full-time county worker and just pay them a little more. Lett said he didn't see an issue with that. Attorney Lett said they can work on finding someone for the position. Roush replied that he has someone in mind.

More Neat Stuff

SIX LITTLE STORIES WITH LOTS OF MEANING

1. Once all villagers decided to pray for rain. On the day of prayer, all the people gathered, but only one boy came with an umbrella. That is faith.

2. When you throw babies in the air, they laugh because they know you will catch them. That is trust.

3. Every night we go to bed without any assurance of being alive the next morning, but still we set alarms to wake up. That is hope.

4. We plan big things for tomorrow in spite of zero knowledge of the future. That is confidence.

5. We see the world suffering, but still, we get married and have children. That is love.

6. On an old man's shirt was written a sentence, "I am not 80 years old; I am sweet 16 with 64 years of experience." That is attitude.

Have a happy day and live your life like these six stories. Remember – good friends are the rare jewels of life, difficult to find and impossible to replace!

THOUGHTS

*I started a new diet yesterday. Thank God it's over.

*I do five sit-ups each morning. It may not sound like much, but there's only so many times you can hit the snooze button.

*Does it bother you that 2021 is pronounced 2020 won?

*I used to be a people person, but people ruined that for me.

*I thought the dryer made my clothes shrink. Turns out it was the refrigerator.

*My emotional support animal is a chicken: four-piece, with a biscuit.

*I swear my fridge just said, "What the heck do you want now?"

*Some days I amaze myself. Other days I put the laundry in the oven.

*Dear Winter, I'm breaking up with you. I think it's time I start seeing other seasons. Summer is hotter than you.

Some artists of the 50s are revising their hits with new lyrics to accommodate baby boomers. Here's a few:

1. Herman's Hermits – Mrs. Brown, you've got a lovely walker.

2. The Bee Gees – How can you mend a broken hip?

3. Bobby Darin – Splish, Splash, I was having a flash.

4. Ringo Starr – I'll get by with the help from Depends.

5. The Commodores – Once, twice, three times to the bathroom.

6. Marvin Gaye – Heard it from the Grape Nuts.

7. Leo Sayer – You make me feel like napping.

11. Helen Reddy – I am woman, hear me snore.

12. Abba – Denture Queen.

In the Garden

By Ralph Purkhiser,
Purdue University Master Gardener

I am now in holiday preparation mode. Before every holiday, there is a time of planning the celebration and assembling all of the things needed to ensure the celebration is a success. This up-coming holiday is one of my personal favorites. It does not carry the sacred bearing of Christmas and Easter, but this holiday is important to me and should be celebrated by everyone. It is a good reason for people to gather together. It is a holiday to promote civic responsibility.

Friday, April 30 is Arbor Day. It is far more than just a celebration of trees. The Druids worshipped trees, but one does not have to be a Druid to celebrate Arbor Day. You do not have to be a tree-hugger to celebrate Arbor Day.

Arbor Day is, more than anything, a day to remember the importance of trees in our world. Trees are essential to for many reasons. Trees provide food in the form of fruits and nuts. Trees provide building materials, paper and fuel. Trees are responsible for cleaning the air and producing oxygen for us to breath. Trees provide shade that can save us a lot of money in cooling bills. Trees help hold the soil and prevent erosion. Trees provide homes for a wide variety of wildlife and trees are one of the greatest sources of beauty in this world. We certainly need trees.

In recent years, it seems that trees have had a tough time. Irresponsible harvesting practices, especially in the tropical rain forests, have resulted in many ecological problems. Wildfires, especially in some of the western states, have charred thousands of acres of forest land. Diseases have attacked several species of trees and invasive insects, such as the emerald ash borer, have destroyed trees in much of the eastern United States.

To counter all of the devastation, it is important to plant trees. That is the reason we need to prepare for the up-coming holiday. In light of the cicada swarm expected next month, I plan to purchase and plant a new evergreen tree in my landscape. The cicadas will damage young trees, but they usually leave evergreens alone. I used to purchase small trees. There are good reason to plant seedlings and young specimens. They cost less, so it allows one to plant more trees for the money. Also, smaller trees adapt to transplanting better than more mature trees. However, at my age, I try to purchase the largest tree I can afford. It may take thirty years for a tree to mature and that would put me over 90. Starting with a larger tree will give me better odds of seeing it mature.

I also will be selecting and preparing a site. It is very important to know the mature size of a tree and to plant it in an area where it will have room to grow. The site also needs to meet the needs of the particular tree chosen. That will take some research and may require a soil test. Soil type, pH and moisture are important factors in ensuring the success of a transplant.

Digging the hole for the new tree is also an important part of the plan. The hole should be at least twice as wide as the root ball. Do not make the hole too deep. The flare of the tree should be slightly above the soil level. Often, potted nursery stock is planted with the flare below the soil level, but this should be corrected at planting time. I also like to use a root stimulating transplant fertilizer to help the tree adapt to its new environment. Place the tree in the hole and carefully work the soil in around the roots. Water it in thoroughly to help the soil settle into place. Finally, use an organic mulch to hold down the weeds and help control the moisture level. Do not mound the mulch up on the tree trunk. In fact, it is best to keep a two-inch wide band around the base of the tree unmulched. Extending the mulch to the trunk may give rodents cover and result in their damaging the tree.

Join me in planting a tree on Arbor Day. If you do not have a place to plant a tree, consider donating a tree to a park or to a reforestation program in the wildfire areas. We need trees. Happy Arbor Day!

Planting season is here; stay alert on rural roads this spring

Spring weather is here and farmers are beginning to plant their crops across the state's 15 million acres of farmland. The Indiana State Department of Agriculture and several state agencies are reminding Hoosier motorists to be alert, be courteous and be patient when they encounter farm equipment on Indiana's rural roads.

"Planting season is a crucial time for our Hoosier farmers, they have a lot of ground to cover in a short amount of time," said Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch, Secretary of Agriculture. "I want to encourage all motorists to stay alert and be cautious while driving on rural roads this spring and to make room for large farm equipment, so our roads remain safe for everyone."

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, in 2018 farm equipment vehicles were involved in 98 crashes across the U.S., with two farm equipment vehicles being involved in fatal crashes in Indiana.

Bruce Kettler, director of the Indiana State Department of Agriculture, encourages motorists to share the road with farmers.

"Each year, fatal accidents unfortunately occur on Indiana's roads as large farm equipment moves from field to field," Kettler said. "I want to remind all Hoosiers that farm equipment typically travels around 25 miles per hour or less, so please remain alert, slow down and share the road when approaching farm machinery."

While the term "farm equipment" encompasses a wide range of vehicles, the most common types motorists will encounter during planting season include sprayers, tractors pulling planters or tillage equipment, and large trucks hauling agricultural products. These vehicles are wide, sometimes taking up most of the road, and often travel at speeds no greater than 25 mph.

The following list includes several safety tips for motorists approaching large farm equipment:

-Farmers will pull over when they are able to let motorists pass, but it may take time for them to get to a safe place to do

Glendale to host weed wrangle May 15

Join the Daviess-Martin Cooperative Invasive Species Management Area (CISMA) and the DNR for a weed wrangle on Saturday, May 15 at Glendale Fish & Wildlife Area (FWA).

Invasive plants such as amur honeysuckle bush threaten FWAs by choking out Indiana's native vegetation and degrading wildlife habitat. During this event, volunteers will learn how to identify and remove amur honeysuckle and other invasive plants while helping to improve habitat quality.

The weed wrangle will take place from 10 a.m. to noon ET. Volunteers will meet at the Maintenance Shop just north of the Glendale FWA office on 600 South. Please bring sturdy shoes, work gloves, water, and a face mask. Masks will be needed when volunteers are gathered together and may be removed while working. Hand tools will be provided for pulling and cutting shrubs, but volunteers may also bring their own loppers or hand saws.

Advance registration is encouraged for this event. To register, see bit.ly/3dJSfdo, or contact Glendale FWA at 812-674-0168 or GlendaleFWA@dnr.IN.gov.

For more information on invasive species in Daviess and Martin counties, follow the Daviess-Martin CISMA on Facebook, or email daviessmartin.cisma@gmail.com.

For more information about Glendale FWA, see on.IN.gov/glendalefwa.

-Be patient. Farm equipment is wide, sometimes taking up most of the road.

-Be careful when passing. Do not pass in a designated "No Passing Zone" or within 100 feet of any intersection, railroad grade crossing, bridge, elevation structure or tunnel.

-Do not try to pass slow-moving farm equipment on the left without ensuring that the farmer driving is not planning a left turn. It may appear that the driver is pulling over to allow a pass when the farmer is actually preparing to turn. You will drive right into its path, endangering yourself and the farmer.

-Avoid tailgating, as some farm equipment might have to make sudden stops along the road.

-Allow plenty of time to get to a destination, be aware of alternate routes and avoid distractions.

"Springtime in Indiana means crisp cool mornings and farm machinery of all sizes operating on and crossing county and state roads as they move from field to field," said Indiana State Police Superintendent Doug Carter. "For the safety of both motorists and farmers, we ask for everyone to be attentive, patient and cautious when driving in rural Indiana during the active planting season."

For a list of safety tips, click here or visit isda.in.gov. The following organizations will be working together to share this important safety message during planting season: Hoosier Ag Today, Indiana Department of Homeland Security, Indiana Department of Transportation and Indiana State Police.

Celebrate National Volunteer Week with DNR

Every year more than 10,000 volunteers across the state contribute countless hours on Indiana Department of Natural Resources properties.

During National Volunteer Week, April 18-24, the DNR will thank and recognize those volunteers for caring for Indiana's natural and cultural resources and salute their accomplishments on the Facebook pages of the divisions of State Parks, Fish & Wildlife, Forestry, and Nature Preserves. Hoosiers can connect with Indiana's natural and cultural heritage and the DNR volunteer community by donating their time and talents at their favorite DNR property.

Indiana State Police Partners with DEA for 20th Drug Take Back Day

On Saturday, April 24, 2021 the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) is sponsoring the 20th nationwide "Prescription Drug Take Back" initiative. The "Take Back" initiative seeks to prevent prescription drug abuse and theft through proper disposal of prescription drugs.

Collection sites will be set up nationwide for expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs which will be properly disposed of without threat to the environment. This program is for liquid and pill medications. Vaping pens without batteries and vaping cartridges will also be taken. Needles, new or used, WILL NOT be accepted for disposal. This service is free and anonymous with no questions asked.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet.

In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines—flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash—pose both potential safety and health hazards.

Once again, the Indiana State Police is pleased to partner with the DEA, and as in the past, unwanted medications may be dropped off at any Indiana State Police Post, except the Toll Road Post. The event will be on Saturday, April 24, 2021 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

To locate the state police post closest to your home or business, visit www.in.gov/isp/2382.htm. To find other locations in Indiana or across the U.S. that are participating in the Drug Take Back initiative, visit www.deadiversion.usdoj.gov/drug\_disposal/takeback/index.html.

The Drug Take Back events are the safe, popular and responsible way for the public to legally dispose of prescription drugs with no questions asked.

Making A Difference

By Curt Johnson
MCCF Director

-- TYPES OF FOUNDATIONS --

You've probably heard about foundations of one sort or another on the news or in the newspapers. Some seem to be owned or ran by a person or family, some by a company, some are called a community foundation (like the MCCF), and some are called charities. So, what's the difference? Now it's time to step back and see what makes a community foundation different from other foundations.

-- COMMUNITY FOUNDATIONS --

To start with, a community foundation has four roles:

- it serves as a builder and caretaker of permanent endowment funds;
- it is a service provider to donors;
- it is a grantmaker; and
- it serves as a convener, catalyst, and collaborator within the community.

Characteristics of a community foundation like ours are that it is a tax-exempt, nonprofit, philanthropic institution with a long-term goal of building permanent endowments for the benefit of its county. And a distinguishing factor is that our support comes from the general public, unlike our "cousins", the private foundations, whose financial base most likely comes from a single source.

-- PRIVATE FOUNDATIONS --

Like our community foundation, a private foundation also has a charitable purpose. However, a single family, business, political or other limited group is its financial source and also controls it. The private foundations have board members who typically serve for long terms, sometimes for life, and usually receive some pay or compensation for their services.

Conversely, the MCCF Board members serve three-year terms with a maximum of two consecutive terms. This protects the community from an undue influence from a particular person and ensures a broad county representation. Also, our board members are all volunteers and receive no compensation, except for the satisfaction of knowing they are making a difference in our county.

-- PUBLIC CHARITIES --

So how is the MCCF different from other public charities? Most of them provide direct and specific services to the community, such as feeding the hungry, providing shelter, or developing educational programs or growth opportunities. They are what people tend to think of when they use the term "nonprofits." When donors make gifts to these organizations, they are usually making a gift to help the organization perform a specific service.

-- BACK TO US --

On the other hand, a community foundation is primarily a grantmaker and not a direct service provider. So rather than focus on servicing a particular community need, a community foundation serves donors and the broad needs of the community. Even if the MCCF does provide some direct services (such as nonprofit capacity building or other public interest), it is usually not the primary focus of our mission.

A public charity, as does our community foundation, must have at least one-third of its income from contributions from a diverse group of donors. However, our community foundation generally seeks support through individual gifts in the form of substantial lifetime gifts or bequests (discussed in previous columns) or continuing gifts from committed donors, rather than the small annual gifts that most other public charities target.

-- OUR PHILOSOPHIES --

So, to expand on the four community roles identified at the beginning of this column, four common community foundation philosophies are:

- building and managing permanent endowments funds to meet broad community needs;
- providing a central philanthropic vehicle for donors to meet their interests;
- making broad-based grants to other nonprofit organizations; and
- providing community leadership including leveraging resources and convening organizations to solve problems.

We are here to serve you and together we can serve our community.
