Commissioners discuss highway work, COVID funding, courthouse opening

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT

Martin County Journal Publisher

The Martin County Commissioners met Tuesday night, May 19. Highway Superintendent Leo Padgett reported that his employees have been working to get gravel in at cemeteries for Memorial Day weekend. He also told the commissioners that they have had to use the grader quite a bit after Sunday night rains as there were several washed out roads. They have completed mowing in Perry and Mitcheltree townships and are half done with Center and Rutherford townships. Padgett said that the culvert, right off the highway on Butler Bridge Road, has failed. He said they tried to save it, but it has collapsed and the water has already done some damage to a resident's driveway. He told the commissioners that the cost to replace the culvert will be $4,432. The commissioners told Padgett to go ahead with the repairs.

was okay to clean up brush behind the Shoals Fire Station, at their request. Commissioners Kevin Boyd and Aaron Summers both said the fire department has done a lot for the county and they were fine with doing this for them.

Commissioner Paul George requested that Andy Ringwald, with civil defense, stay on top of the FEMA virtual meetings to ensure the county can get funding when it is offered. Ringwald said that there are two grants currently available, a FEMA grant that comes with a 25 percent match and the CARES funding that requires no match. Ringwald said the FEMA matching money can be in-kind, meaning labor can be counted as the match. He noted that the FEMA funds require projects to cost a minimum of $3,300 and lost revenue can not be part of any application. Auditor Bobbie Abel said the county qualifies for up to $332,000 with the CARES funding which Padgett asked the commissioners if it would be reimbursement for any purchases made. She also noted that the Town of Shoals qualifies for up to $25,000.

> Public Health Nurse Julia Albright said the health department received a shipment of thin facemasks that can be used at the courthouse. She suggested letting the public know that they need to bring their own masks however some will be available at the courthouse if they are needed. She also told the commissioners that any organizations in need of masks, gloves or hand sanitizer, can contact the health department.

> Dena Held, Purdue Extension Educator, said that no decision has been made on what to do about this year's 4-H fair however it has already been decided that there will be a virtual option regardless.

> Jameson Hibbs, director of West Boggs Park, said he needed to clear up rumors about camping. Hibbs said that according to the governor's guidelines, camping

Republican Commissioner candidates answer questions for voters

Only two races in this year's Martin County Primary Election are contested, and both are on the Republican ballot. They are for Martin County Commissioner Districts 1 and 3. The candidates were sent questions to answer and their responses are below. If a candidate did not respond to the questions, it is noted as "chose not to respond" next to their name. The Primary Election will be held Tuesday, June 2. See page one for more information about the Primary Election.

Kevin Boyd: Chose not to respond.

Cody Roush: I have been married to Michelle for 20 years. We have three children. Kaley will be a senior this year at Shoals and the twins, Collin and Ellie, will be freshman. I currently work for White Stallion Energy in Montgomery as a heavy equipment operator but previously worked for Peabody Energy for 19 years with 10 of it as a supervisor. We have had a family business on Main Street in Shoals for 103 years which my great grandfather started as a clothing store.

currently have White River Marine and Main Street Laundry for the past 13 years.

Martin County Journal: The issue of the wheel tax comes up every couple years and has been voted down each time by the county council. It was recently mentioned again. What are your thoughts on the county implementing a wheel tax?

Kevin Boyd: Chose not to respond

Cody Roush: I am for the wheel tax as long as it is appropriated for the right things. I believe that it can be managed and tracked to reassure the public of its use. Our bridges and roads need these funds to do the improvements that we need to help our county out.

Martin County Journal: Fixing the county's roads and bridges has been an issue for years. There is never enough funding. What solutions do you have to fix the road/bridge repair problem?

Kevin Boyd: Chose not to respond

Cody Roush: (See last response.)

Martin County Journal: What would be your number one priority as commissioner?

Kevin Boyd: Chose not to respond.

Cody Roush: I am wanting to help this community grow and flourish. If we can improve the beauty of the county, more people will want to live here, which in turn means more tax base.

Martin County Journal: This question is not intended to be negative toward your opponent but what do you have to offer as a commissioner that would make you the better choice? Why should voters choose you?

Kevin Boyd: Chose not to respond.

Cody Roush: With my supervisor experience from the coal industry and being a business owner for 13 years, I feel I can offer a good business sense, with great management skills, and with a good-hearted moral compass.

Martin County Journal: Is there anything else you would like to say to the voters?

Kevin Boyd: Chose not to respond. Cody Roush: I would appreciate your vote on June 2. Thank you.

COMMISSIONER CANDIDATES

Martin County Journal: Tell us about yourself (Background, schooling, family, jobs, volunteer work, etc.)

Jon Richer: My name is Jon Richer and I was born and raised in Martin County. Immediately after graduating from Loogootee High School, I served in the United States Marine Corps and in 2009-2010 I served in Operation Enduring Freedom in the Hellman Province of Afghanistan as a Combat Engineer. I married my wife, Megan, in 2008 and we have four children, Jack, Harry, Adeline and Charlotte. We moved back to Martin County in June of 2011 where we own a farming operation with my father, Dale and brother, Caleb. I currently serve on the board of the Martin County SWCD, and am also serving my second three-year term on the Martin-Daviess County Committee for the Farm Service Agency located in Washington, Indiana.

Aaron "Moose" Summers: My name is Aaron Summers, most people know me my Moose. I'm the son of Richard and Nancy Summers. I have two beautiful daughters and an awesome granddaughter. I am employed locally in the auto parts business. I attended VU for two years.

Martin County Journal: The issue of the wheel tax comes up every couple years and has been voted down each time by the county council. It was recently mentioned again. What are your thoughts on the county implementing a wheel tax?

Jon Richer: The county wheel tax seems to be a very valuable solution to the lack of funding that the county has had to deal with over the last several decades. When you look around Martin County and you see the dilapidated infrastructure from bridges needing immediate repair. county roads that were once black top going back to gravel, and gravel roads not being properly maintained; it is not from the lack of effort or ability of our maintenance workers, but it is a direct result of the lack of funding from a small tax base within the county. We are one of the very few counties that has not implemented a county wheel tax in the state of Indiana. I, for one, find it very frustrating that surrounding counties are paving most of their major roads and side streets where our beloved Martin County can't even put new gravel down country roads. It is time that we as a community look at the county wheel tax; not as a tax, but as an investment. We cannot expect the youth of our county to want to return to their "home" if they don't see the leaders of Martin County reinvesting back into our community.

Aaron "Moose" Summers: I am verv open to the wheel tax, it has to improve the roads, and it would have to be very minimal cost to the taxpavers. And I think the farmers and people such should be allowed consideration, as far as the number of vehicles. I think it could be capped at a number.

Martin County Journal: Fixing the county's roads and bridges has been an issue for years. There is never enough funding. What solutions do you have to fix the road/bridge repair problem?

Jon Richer: One of the major solu-

AARON SUMMERS areas. We need to prioritize the ability to secure grants from both federal and state funding. I want to also encourage economic development growth within the county in order to bring in new tax revenue. From Main Street, all the way to Crane Naval Base; I believe there is great potential of securing new businesses and encouraging them to partner with Martin County.

Aaron "Moose" Summers: That's a tough one. We pay some very good companies to study this issue and fix it. We don't get the money a lot of other counties do. At the end of the day, as far as the roads go, something isn't working, and since I've been on as commissioner, I'm very open to making things work.

Martin County Journal: What would be your number one priority as commissioner?

Jon Richer: My number one priority if I am elected commissioner will be the citizens of our county. Individuals of Martin County deserve a commissioner that is willing to hear their concerns, prioritize their needs and respect their opinions.

Aaron "Moose" Summers: My number one priority as commissioner is keeping our youth here. We want them to come back and work and reside in Martin County. We want people from other counties to want to be here. We need to be proud of our county, spend money locally. And the bridges and roads have to be fixed, we have to provide these guys the assets to do it.

Martin County Journal: This question is not intended to be negative toward your opponent but what do you have to offer as a commissioner that would make you the better choice? Why should voters choose you?

Jon Richer: As a United States Marine that has served our country, I do hope to now have the great honor to serve the people of Martin County. I will be a fair and just commissioner, taking each concern from every citizen seriously and with utmost respect. I hope to bring a fresh perspective and vision to the table that our county desperately needs. Martin County has the potential to see great things happen over the next decade and I am up for the task at hand. It's time to make Martin County great again! If anyone has any questions or concerns, please reach out to me on my cell phone 812-709-0971.

Aaron "Moose" Summers: My opponent is a very good person. In my opinion, I deal with the local public every single day, I see everything that goes on in the county, and hear our concerns. In private small business, you learn to be very frugal, and make the best decisions for your boss. Smart decisions, decisions that better your company, in this case your COUNTY

Martin County Journal: Is there anything else you would like to say to the voters?

Jon Richer: (No answer to this question provided.)

Aaron "Moose" Summers: I appreciate everyone that has encouraged me, and I appreciate our residents in Martin County. I would really appreciate your vote come June 2, thank you!

"Pandemic EBT" program to give money to Hoosier families

The Indiana Family and Social Services Administration announced today that families whose children receive free or reduced-cost meals at school will receive "Pandemic Electronic Benefit Transfer" benefits beginning this week. These benefits are intended to reimburse the families of about 600,000 Hoosier children for the cost of meals that their children were unable to receive due to COVID-19-related school closures.

Families who do not currently receive SNAP will receive an electronic benefits transfer card in the mail by the end of May, along with instructions on how to activate and use their card. Families do not have to apply for Pandemic EBT, also called "P-EBT." The P-EBT card works like a bank debit card and can be used at any store in the United States that accepts SNAP, but cannot be used for cash withdrawals at ATM machines. FSSA worked with the Indiana Department of Education to identify these families based upon their child already receiving free and reduced-cost meals at school.

Families who already receive SNAP benefits will have the additional benefits applied to their SNAP accounts on their Hoosier Works EBT card by the end of

For P-EBT, each household will receive an amount equal to the value of the daily allotment for breakfast and lunch multiplied by the average number of school days missed since school was cancelled. Families will receive this amount for each eligible child in the household for the number of days the child was eligible for free and reduced lunch. The value of the school meals per day is equal to the federal reimbursement rate for breakfast and lunch at the free rate, which is $5.70, as specified by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Indiana Department of Education calculated an average of 56 missed days of school through the end of the school year (including spring break) for Indiana students, counting all weekdays from March 13, 2020, through May 29, 2020. The first date was the day following Governor Eric Holcomb's executive order closing schools for the remainder of the 2019-2020 school year. The second date represents the average last day of school for schools in this school year.

This weekend we celebrate Memorial Day. It is a time when people across America pause to reflect on the supreme sacrifice made by American soldiers who have died in service to our nation. It is a particularly meaningful holiday for those who have loved ones who died in mili-

-- MEMORIAL DAY --

Memorial Day has its origins back to May 5, 1868 when General John A. Logan called for a nationwide day of remembrance on May 30, 1868. The day's purpose was to decorate the graves of their comrades who died in defense of their country as a result of the Civil War. At that time it was called Decoration Day. It has only been within the last 50 years or so that the day was officially recognized by our government as Memorial

-- MEMORIALS --

To memorialize a loved one is an important part of any family's, and their friends', grieving process. Memorials are a way that families can remember and pay tribute to loved ones who have passed on. Memorials allow a person to be remembered for years to come.

A memorial tells the family that while their loved one may be gone, his or her memory and spirit lives on. They will be forever tied together in the circle of life, that the loved one's life mattered and will continue to matter. Their acts of goodness, kindness and courage will never be forgotten. A memorial is a way to remember a loved one forever.

-- GIFTS TO CHARITIES --

There are several ways to remember our loved ones, some of which are headstones or grave markers, memorialization urns, statues, plants, flag cases, acts of kindness, writing a heartfelt letter to the family, or a donation to a charity.

When making a donation as a memorial or tribute to a loved one, you need to be sure that it is made to a charity that honors that person. In obituaries you will often see the phrase "in lieu of flowers, memorial contributions/donations may be made to...". This identifies where to make your donation as a memorial. If you do, you need to do this in a timely fashion (within 10 days after the funeral), so that the family can include you when writing thank you notes.

If a charitable organization was not specified, then choose one that may have been a favorite charity of the deceased, or perhaps a medical research organization if they passed on from an illness.

-- MCCF FUNDS --

The Martin County Community Foundation has several funds that will let your memorial donation, and the spirit of your loved one, live on forever. The MCCF funds will always be used for future assistance to our local community needs, whether they be for a cemetery, a library, church or other charitable organization, certain areas of interest, or a variety of scholarships.

And if you are not sure which specific fund or need to donate toward, the MCCF has several unrestricted funds that have the flexibility to address the emerging and changing needs in our community, today and tomorrow.

-- WITH MORE NOW --

And if you want that memorial to have even more impact, the MCCF has a matching grant opportunity in place at this time. With this grant, the MCCF can match $2 for every $1 donated to an unrestricted fund and 50¢ for each $1 donated to any other fund type. The matching grant is available on a first-come, first-served basis while the grant funds are available.

-- MORE INFORMATION --

If you would like to find out what funds are available to let the memory of your loved one live on forever, please contact Curt Johnson, MCCF Director, at 812-295-1022 or mccf@cfpartner.org.

~LETTER TO THE EDITOR~

'Let us pray for President Trump and our leaders'

To the editor of the Martin County Journal,

Because of the vicious attacks by the liberal media along with Democrats and pro-abortion forces in America, we are asking everyone to consider praying each day for our president and his administration. We ask you to do this so the president and his administration can continue to govern this great nation and withstand the verbal abuse that is coming his way from the liberal media and the Democrats.

These people are trying to do everything they can to bring down this administration. They will stop at nothing to discredit the president. It does not matter what President Trump says or does, they will oppose him at every decision. From the first day President Trump took office, the Democrats were looking for ways to impeach or remove him from office anyway they could. So, this is no surprise as to what he is going through. Therefore, it should not surprise us to see them using the current crisis to accomplish their agenda. That is why it is so important that we pray for the president everyday so the president can withstand the various assaults on his presidency.

President Trump has battled the liberal media and the democrats from the time he started running for president and the liberal media tries every day to twist the news or use any event to make the president look bad or reflect back on his administration. The liberal media has stooped to a new low while trying to discredit this president.

The liberal reporters no longer report the news objectively but instead they are reporting it as it fits their political agenda in order to discredit the president in any way possible. It seems the liberal media has lost all creditability as the liberal pundits on CNN, MSNBC, CBS, ABC and NBC no longer hide their hate and discontent for our president and they use every newscast to slant the news to their political bias and to their liberal point of view. Even local TV stations are now following in this trend. If the major affiliates can do it, we can too.

Yes, the president does strike back and you cannot blame him. In spite of how unfair the coverage has been towards this president he has been able to get his message out to the American people by way of Twitter and this has frustrated the liberal pundits. We can truly understand why much of the liberal print media is in financial trouble.

In spite of the bombardment, the president and his administration continue to work for our country to make this a better place for all Americans. While our economy struggles to recover from the Covid-19 pandemic, the liberal media and the Democrat Party have weaponized the virus as a tool to bring down the president and his administration. The impeachment process did not work, so the virus became their next best hope heading towards November. Applying these types of political attacks is not in the best interest for our country, when so many are struggling to recover.

Let us continue with our prayers for President Trump. Please take time each day to lift up our president and all our elected officials in prayer. Let us pray for those who are using this turn of events in our country for political gain so they can put aside their political agenda and put the best interest of our country first.

Keep wildlife wild this spring

This is the time of the year when you may start to notice nests and dens occupied by young wildlife around your home. If you do, help keep wildlife wild by remembering the following if you encounter a young animal alone:

-Adult animals rarely abandon their young. Parents often leave young unattended for long periods of time to gather food and may only return a few times a day. A nest or den without a parent present does not necessarily mean that the young have been abandoned.

-Do not hover to see if a parent has come back to its young. An adult animal will not return if people or pets are close to the nest or den. Give the young space and only check back periodically. If you can't tell if a parent has checked on a nest, place straw or grass over the nest and return later to see if it has been to abandon their young; however, handling young wildlife and disturbance of a nest can alert predators to the young animal's presence. Young may also carry disease or parasites they can transfer to people or pets and are capable of biting or scratching.

Rescuing young wildlife is legal, keeping them is not. Rescued wildlife must be given to a permitted wildlife rehabilitator within 24 hours. For a list of wildlife rehabilitators or more information on orphaned and injured wildlife, visit: on.IN.

DNR seeks volunteer paddlers for wildlife monitoring their wildlife observations while paddling Indiana waterways from June 1 to July 31.

Paddling is a great way to enjoy Indiana's natural beauty, observe wildlife, and connect with nature, and DNR is hoping to collect more information about the wildlife that frequents Indiana's waterways. Hoosiers who paddle can collect information that will help Indiana manage wildlife for future generations.

The Indiana Paddlecraft Wildlife Index compiles wildlife observations from people who use canoes, kayaks, or oth- Paddlecraftindex.

The DNR is asking paddlers to report er non-motorized paddlecraft around the Hoosier state. Volunteer paddlers can help by signing up to complete paddling trip postcards documenting the wildlife they observe while on the water.

The collected information will allow wildlife managers to estimate changes in key wildlife populations over time. With paddlers' help, DNR may also gain insight into new locations where these species live.

Those interested can learn more or sign up to volunteer by visiting on.IN.gov/

Video shows how to maximize safety during outdoor fun

A new DNR video shows safety guidelines related to COVID-19 to follow during visits to DNR's public lands. These guidelines include things like visiting parks and public lands close to home, wearing a mask and bringing hand sanitizer with you, washing your hands frequently, avoiding crowded parking lots and not parking on the grass, and practicing social distancing and "carry-in, carry-out" with your trash and other items you bring with you.

The video is on the DNR Youtube site at https://youtu.be/2zWiGGGCm2c, and will be posted on DNR social media sites over the next few days.

The video features Indiana State Park staff, and even a bald eagle, the resident educational ambassador that travels the state for programs with the team from Hardy Lake's Dwight Chamberlain Raptor Center.

Shooting ranges reopening

Starting the week of May 18, most DNR Division of Fish & Wildlife-owned shooting ranges began to reopen.

All facilities will be following CO-VID-19 social distancing and cleaning requirements. Restrictions will reduce the number of recreational shooters on the shooting ranges at a given time.

All FWA shooting ranges, except the one at Willow Slough FWA, will reopen starting the week of May 18. Shooting range hours differ between ranges. Check open days and hours before visiting. Willow Slough FWA's range will remain closed until further notice.

Shooting range hours and information can be found at wildlife.IN.gov/3648. htm.

Keep up with related information at on.IN.gov/dnrcovid19, on social media, and at property gates and bulletin boards.

Last week, we discussed the many names a single plant may acquire. Plants are called different things in different places, and that does not mean that one is right and another wrong. It is for that reason that the method of naming plants by Latin binomials was invented, but even that system is far from perfect, as plants sometimes get re-assigned when more is learned about them.

During the Middle Ages, a system known as the Doctrine of Signatures was used to name some plants. According to this doctrine, plants resemble the body part for which they are a treatment. The common garden plant known as lungwort has spotted, fuzzy leaves which resemble diseased lungs. Even the Latin name, pulmonaria, echoes that resemblance. Similarly, the aquatic plant bladderwort was thought to resemble the bladder, and therefore must be able to treat bladder diseases. The "wort" on many plant names is actually from an old English word for "plant". Most generally, plants given that moniker were thought to be medicinal plants.

Another old word often attached to plants is "bane". Plants which were banes were believed to drive away something. Therefore, fleabane was thought to keep fleas out of the garden. One would plant dogbane to discourage dogs from entering a garden. I have several of these bane plants at Sandhill Gardens. While some people consider daisy fleabane a weed, I leave some growing, especially in some of the wilder parts of the garden. My mother was fond of daisy fleabane, especially those that have flowers with pink petals, and I think of her when I see those little daisies in the garden. Still, the fleabane does not seem to work here. There are still fleas hanging around and I have to give Buddy a monthly treatment to keep the fleas off of him. Dogbane does not deter dogs from the garden either. However, I am happy to report that at least one of the bane plants I grow seems to be working. I have some leopard bane growing in a garden bed and since planting it, I have not seen a single leopard in the garden. Come to think of it, I never saw one before planting it either.

This week, garden work was hindered by periods of rain. I was itching to get some of the bedding plants in the garden beds, but I resisted the temptation and scratched my planting itch with pots. I have slowly begun moving houseplants outside for the summer. It is a good time to assess to see what plants need new pots. I am afraid that I waste a lot of time just trying to pick the perfect pot for each and every plant. Then comes the placement. Some plants will go around the fountain off my patio, but others will be placed throughout the garden as accent plants. The foliage of the daffodils and other spring ephemerals is dying down and placing pots in those spots helps prevent digging up bulbs while keeping the garden interesting. My biggest challenge is placing my growing succulent collection. Contrary to conventional belief, not all succulents want to be in direct sun, but they do need to be placed where they will have good drainage. I would like to build a special display, but for now, they are going to have to sit on an old bench.

I have been busy potting up both houseplants and garden plants for my annual plant exchange. Gardeners are welcome to bring plants to exchange on Saturday, May 23 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. We will, of course, practice social distancing and if you have symptoms, please do not come. In past years, people have brought garden art, tools and even clothing to exchange for plants. Plant exchanges are a great way to meet others who share a love of gardening and a great way to increase your plant palette. Sandhill Gardens is located north of Prospect at 3061 N. County Road 810 W. (Sandhill Road), West Baden Springs.

cannot restart until Sunday, May 24. He is hoping that changes to Friday, May 22, so campers can have all of Memorial Day weekend however if the governor does not bump it back to Friday, they will have a lot of cancellations to take care of. He said that if the governor's order remains, camping will resume at the park starting at 7 a.m. on Sunday, May 24 and 8 a.m. at Glendale. Hibbs said they will be increasing cleaning of bathrooms, the playground, etc. once the park reopens. The activity center will be closed inside but outside activities are planned. The beach will also be open with social distancing in place.

Commissioner Aaron Summers asked Hibbs if the park has taken a huge loss due to COVID. Hibbs replied that he hasn't looked at the numbers yet and doesn't want to until after Memorial Day weekend. "I don't want to look at it and get depressed," he said. He did note however that as of the end of April, the park had only had a five percent decrease in revenue from the previous year adding that if Memorial Day weekend doesn't happen, he fears the hit will be very large.

The commissioners decided to change the dates the courthouse is closed due to the postponing of the Catfish Festival. The courthouse will be open July 2 and closed July 3 and open July 30 and closed July 31. The set up for the Catfish festival is July 30.

County Attorney Dave Lett told the commissioners they needed to extend the emergency declaration for the county again. The commissioners have been approving the declaration a week at a time and doing so to allow the county to qualify for federal funding.

Auditor Abel said Matrix Integration wanted to know if they should move forward with phase two of the telephone upgrades, which would now be at the sheriff's department. The courthouse has already been upgraded. Auditor Abel said there are some funds available however she is unaware of what the jail upgrades will cost. She added that she knows the jail's phone system is in need of improvement.

Commissioner George asked how much money has been spent so far for COVID-related expenses. Auditor Abel replied that the county council approved $10,000 and around $6,000 has been spent so far. The commissioners decided to wait on Matrix moving on to the jail until they had time to look at the finances.

Auditor Abel said that StatFlight, a medical helicopter service, would like to come to the commissioners to give a presentation. She asked the commissioners if they were interested in that. Commissioner George said that unless the City of Loogootee and Town of Shoals were in favor of helping pay for the service, he didn't think it would be feasible. The commissioners decided to wait until after the city and town boards meet and discuss it next month, before scheduling the pre-

Auditor Abel suggested that the commissioners and a few outlying county offices establish county email addresses so they can be protected by RTC for cybersecurity. She said that some people are using Gmail accounts which are not secure and cannot be monitored by RTC. The commissioners approved Abel's recommendation with a compliance date to get the email addresses created by June 1.

Linda Evans-Dillon, the county's veteran service officer, asked if the commissioners were ready to allow the veterans' van to start transporting veterans to medical appointments. It was noted that the van usually transports one or two patients at a time. After discussion, the commissioners said the van could restart transports as long as the patients and van driver were okay with it. They said the van needs to be thoroughly cleaned after each transport, however.

Due to the sneeze guards ordered for the courthouse offices being on back order, the commissioners decided to lock all offices once absentee voting starts to allow voters to enter the building. It was noted that this is only if the sneeze guards are not installed prior to May 26, the start of in-person voting at the courthouse.

The next commissioners' meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 3 at 5:30 p.m. The courthouse will be closed on Tuesday, June 2 for the election.
