Shoals Library trying for grant for $892,000 expansion

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT Martin County Journal Publisher

The Shoals Public Library held a public hearing last Thursday evening to show plans for their proposed expansion. The library is in the process of applying for a $500,000 OCRA (Office of Community & Rural Affairs) grant that requires a local match which will be in the form of a USDA loan for appoximately $400,000. The interest rate is estimated at around 3.25 percent. The total cost of the project is $892,054 and will add 1,700 square feet to the existing structure.

The new addition to the library will be two-story and built on the back side of the building, into the empty lot. There will be an elevator in the new addition and the current stairs into the lower level of the library will be removed and redesigned to be less narrow and steep. According to Librarian Sylvia Albaugh, many library patrons cannot visit due to the steep incline and stairs required to get into the building. The new addition will adhere to ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) standards and be more accessible in the lower level. The upper level of new addi-(See 'SHOALS LIBRARY' on page 2)

The Martin County Commissioners met Tuesday, September 20.

Ambulance Director Jeramey Osborn reported the third ambulance, recently purchased in New York, with 36,000 miles, is at Uebelhor's getting serviced. He said that staffing is going a lot better now that employees have transitioned from their former jobs. He said he is very happy with the staff's interaction with patients. Osborn asked what needs to be done with donations that are coming in for the ambulance service. County Attorney Dave Lett said they will need to set up an account and he will create a resolution to be approved at the next meeting.

Highway Superintendent Scott Seals reported they are still working on getting repairs done to bridge 44, on Deep Cut Lake Road, and are working on damage that was done to Rutherford Road. He provided the commissioners with an application for the administrative assistant he wants to hire but wouldn't give a name.

Andy Ringwald, with Civil Defense, reported the air conditioner and smoke alarms have been installed in the civil defense building for the ambulance service. Osborn said construction is moving along and they have had some furniture delivered.

The myth and mystery about the lost Town of Hindostan III

BY BOB GREENE Late Martin County Historian

This is the third in a series of articles, submitted by Martin County Historical Society President Bill Greene, leading up to the Second Annual Hindostan Days to be held October 1 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Hindostan Falls.

John, Thomas and James Prentiss were very prominent citizens of Hindostan. Thomas and John were members of the "Proprietors." Thomas was also a civil engineer and John became a store owner and the county agent. In 1819, a postal service was started in the General Mercantile Store owned by Thomas. Thomas was also the first Clerk of Martin County and served as Recorder until November of 1820. Thomas and John both died in the fall of 1820. Laura Prentiss, wife of Thomas, also died in the fall of 1820, leaving a daughter, Laura G. and two sons, Thomas G. and Charles Meriam. Charles was the first white baby born at Hindostan. Dr. Ezekial Porter was appointed their guardianship in November 1820, and they stayed with him until April 15, 1823. Dr. Porter was paid $164 for caring for the Prentiss children. In January 1824, Thomas G. Prentiss was given to James Prentiss, and in February 1824, the courts ordered that James Porter become guardian of Thomas G. Prentiss. Also, in February 1824, the guardianship of Laura Prentiss was given to Eliza Meriam and James Prentiss. Both Laura and Thomas G. were under the age of 14. It appears that Thomas G. Prentiss stayed with James Porter and October 31 from 6 p.m.-9 p.m.

Laura Prentiss was raised by Eliza Meriam and James Prentiss. We have no record of who kept Charles Meriam Prentiss. In February 1821, Thomas Prentiss' property at Hindostan went up for sale. John's property was sold at auction in April 1823.

James Prentiss became an associate judge and in 1825 moved to Orange County where he opened a whetstone quarry. Henry Barclay bought James' property at Hindostan.

Doctor Ezekiel Porter bought land near Whitfield in December 1817. In 1820, he was appointed associate judge by Governor Jennings. He was a licensed tavern keeper and paid $15 for his license. He cared for Laura and Thomas Prentiss for three years. He also bought land near Trinity Springs and built a mill dam 15 feet high over the river there. He died in 1823.

Daniel Hewes, a grocery retailer from New Albany, moved to Hindostan in 1820. He purchases lots 21-22-170 from John Meriam. He also opened a General Mercantile Store in Hindostan. He bought a sawmill and a ferry from Frederick Sholts. He became ill in 1820 and had a will written. It said he was of 'sound mind, but weak body.' As written in the probates: Daniel Hewes had $40 worth of goods at Nathaniel Wills home in Louisville that was sold in order to help defray the freight bill of bringing goods up the river from 'Orleans.' We assume this is 'New Orleans.' Daniel also had six children who were to receive $50 each. His wife, Mary Ann Hewes, was appointed administrator of Daniel's estate. It appears Daniel died in 1826. Jessie Shelmire, an original Proprietor, came from Philadelphia where he owned a store. He came to Hindostan in 1819 and opened a store there. He was a SIDC (Southern Indiana Development Corporation) is writing the grant and it is slated for submission by November 18. If awarded, bids for construction will be sought next year with construction to be done in the summer of 2024.

COMMISSIONERS

Sheriff Josh Greene, who was unable to attend the meeting, reported the jail currently has 66 inmates with 32 of them from Vigo County.

Teresa Wininger, with the auditor's office, and Humane Resources Director Kristie Skees talked to the commissioners about employees' PERF (Public Employees Retirement Fund) since they will be adding ambulance service staff members to the plan. They provided various plans including different amounts that the county can contribute and options on changing when the employees are vested. The current plan has the employee contributing three percent and the county giving 11.2 percent. After discussion, the commissioners decided to keep the plan as is.

Wininger and Skees also discussed adding the ambulance service to the Hero's Honor benefit that provides $225,000 to an employee's family if the employee is killed in the line of duty. The cost is $100 per employee per year. The sheriff's department already has the benefit and has for one year. Skees said if the sheriff's department employees get the benefit, they have to provide it to firefighters and EMS staff. The coroner and deputy coroner were recently added to the list of employees who could be added however she is not sure if it is mandatory to include them too. She said she is waiting to hear back. The commissioners voted to add the EMS staff to the sheriff's department and firefighters. They will wait to hear what is required with the coroner and deputy coroner. Melissa Cooper, with the auditor's office, who was filling in for Auditor Michelle Norris, who is at a conference, said the auditor made a mistake at the last meeting saying the commissioners' credit card limit is $20,000. She said it's actually $10,000. The ambulance director has asked for an increase in credit limit for the ambulance credit card by $18,500 and commissioners' card by $10,000. The commissioners approved.

Prosecutor Aureola Vincz wanted to congratulate her child support division deputy because the county has gone to all green status for state reimbursements. She said they are receiving an average of $10,000 a month. Mary Smith, who was in the audience, asked Vincz where the money goes that she receives in reimbursement. Vincz replied that it goes back into the general fund.

Smith told the commissioners that the Orange County String Band will be performing in the lower level of the Shoals Library on Monday, September 26 from 6-7:15 p.m. and said the public is invited.

My friend Carolyn Clark sent me the following and I agree with it 100%:

"If my body were a car, this is the time I would be thinking about trading it in for a newer model. I've got bumps and dents and scratches in my finish and my paint job is getting a little dull—but that's not the worst of it. My headlights are out of focus and it's especially hard to see things up close.

My traction is not as graceful as it once was. I slip and slide and skid and bump into things even in the best of weather. My whitewalls are stained with varicose veins, and it takes me hours to reach my maximum speed.

My fuel rate burns inefficiently, but here's the worst of it—almost every time I sneeze, cough, or sputter, either my radiator leaks or my exhaust backfires!"

A man and his wife were awakened at 3 a.m. by a loud pounding on the door.

The man gets up and goes to the door where a drunken stranger, standing in the pouring rain, is asking for a push.

"Not a chance," says the husband, "it is 3:00 in the morning!" He slams the door and returns to bed.

"Who was that?" asked his wife.

"Just some drunk guy asking for a push," he answers.

"Did you help him?" she asks.

"No, I did not, it's 3 am in the morning and it's bloomin' pouring with rain out there!"

"Well, you have a short memory," says his wife. "Can't you remember about three months ago when we broke down, and those two guys helped us? I think you should help him, and you should be ashamed of yourself! God loves drunk people too you know."

The man does as he is told, gets dressed, and goes out into the pounding rain.

He calls out into the dark, "Hello, are you still there?"

"Yes," comes back the answer.

"Do you still need a push?" calls out the husband.

"Yes, please!" comes the reply from the dark.

"Where are you?" asks the husband.

FARMING & OUTDOORS MARTIN COUNTY JOURNAL Wednesday, September 21, 2022

When one thinks of the sense of taste and the garden, one usually thinks of an orchard or a vegetable patch. Indeed, such gardens often provide wonderful stimulation for the sense of taste, but there are many other ways to experience a garden by taste. The lines between food gardens and ornamental gardens have blurred greatly in recent times. No longer is food production limited to rows of vegetables in a truck garden. Growing edibles among the ornamentals is allowed, even encouraged. Yes, there are still some archaic Homeowners Association rules, but many of those regulations are being changed.

Salad greens are very easily incorporated into a landscape. Many such plants are ornamental, in their own right, including several types of kale and rainbow chard. Others may fit in as borders. A row of cabbage plants will provide an attractive border for a bed of zinnias or marigolds.

Edible hedges have also become quite popular. A few years ago, hedges were usually made of privet, boxwood, yew or other ornamental plants. Now, it is common to see hedges made of blueberry bushes, currants, gogi berries and other fruit-bearing bushes. Before taking that step, research the growing conditions necessary for success and plant something that will grow in the site you have. It may be something that is new to you, but that is a part of the fun. You will need to research several aspects of growing these bushes. For instance, there are several different varieties of blueberries, and each needs a specific pollinator variety that blooms at the same time.

Much of the same is true of orchards. An orchard need not be a collection of hundreds of fruit or nut trees. Instead, a few trees may be included in any landscape. One must research the need for pollinators and be aware of the problems that may occur with fruit dropping in the landscape. The art of espalier is another way to include fruit trees in the landscape. You will need to do a lot of research before attempting this art, but it can be fun and educational.

Fruiting vines may also become a part of the ornamental landscape. There is no rule stating that the vine used to cover a privacy screen has to be purely ornamental. Many types of pole beans have beautiful foliage, flowers and even colorful bean pods. You may use any vining plant to cover a pergola, an arbor or a trellis. Squash, cucumbers, melons and other vining vegetables are all candidates. All have attractive flowers, and the foliage will help hide unsightly areas of the garden. You may want to choose small-fruited varieties, as some of the larger fruits could pull the supports down. One particular vining vegetable has become popular as an ornamental specimen. Malibar spinach is not a true spinach, but is a vine with edible leaves. The vine has red stems and dark green leaves. It also has attractive flowers. While I am not personally fond of the taste of the leaves. I know others who love them for salads and cooked as greens.

Other edible crops may simply be mixed into borders of perennials and annuals. Tomatoes may be grown on attractive supports. Many peppers are quite ornamental in their own right. Growing a collection of dark purple, light purple, green and white eggplants will create an interesting garden plot. Surrounding vegetables with flowers will help attract pollinators, resulting in more produce.

Herbs will provide taste for the garden and also will be an essential part of the landscape. While the French par terre is the ultimate in an ornamental herb garden, a few herbs in pots will provide the same benefits. Many herbs are host plants for butterflies and moths, so grow enough to share. Once you have mastered cooking with fresh herbs, you will never want to be without them.

Over the past several weeks, we have seen that a garden may be experienced by all of the senses. The secret is to train our senses to appreciate what we see, feel, taste, smell and hear. Step one is to get out into the garden and enjoy it.

Join the Daviess-Martin CISMA (Cooperative Invasive Species Management Area) in October for two chances to learn about invasive plants and help control them in Daviess and Martin counties.

On October 1 as part of Hindostan Days in Martin County, the CISMA will lead a Weed Wrangle starting at 11 a.m. Volunteers will learn to identify and remove invasive bush honeysuckle from the adjacent forest. The event takes place at Hindostan Falls, on Hindostan Falls Road, less than one mile south of State Road 550. Once at Hindostan Days volunteers should check in at the Martin County Soil & Water Conservation booth for instructions and to register.

On October 8, the CISMA will host an Invasive Plant Identification Walk and Weed Wrangle at the Washington Conservation Club, located at 350 W 150 S Washington. At 9:30 a.m., attendees will learn how to identify invasive shrubs and vines such as Honeysuckle, Privet, Burning Bush, and Wintercreeper. After the ID walk, stick around to help remove these invasive plants during a Weed Wrangle workday from 10 a.m. to noon (no RSVPs needed). Removing these invasive plants will help improve the forest health and wildlife habitat on the property.

Volunteers for both events should come prepared with sturdy shoes and work gloves. Water will be provided, along with hand tools for pulling and cutting shrubs, but volunteers may also bring their own loppers or hand saws. Minors must be accompanied by an adult and have a waiver form signed by a parent/

AUREOLA VIN for Martin County Prosecutor

Hello, Martin County! It is that time of year again when we get to make a difference for our community by casting our vote. Many of you have reached out to me to show your support, and I appreciate it. I was born, and raised in this county. I graduated from Shoals High School, valedictorian with the Lily Scholarship. It was a tremendous honor to be chosen for the Lily Scholarship after all my efforts in school on top of working, volunteering in the community, and sports. I always said I would pay it forward to the county that chose to believe in me. I went on to Hanover College and then IU School of Law - Indianapolis.

I worked many jobs to help put myself through school, stayed committed to my community volunteer work, and then opened my law office right here in Shoals. As an attorney, I successfully represented my clients in many types of cases. My legal skills expanded along with my clientele.

Being able to speak in front of potential jurors, being able to submit evidence to a judge, being able to meet a deadline, being able to make persuasive arguments in a courtroom, being able to hold a legal deposition, being able to cross-examine a witness, being able to negotiate with another attorney, being able to research the law, and being able to adequately prepare for a trial were just few of the skills I used for my zealous representation of my clients. I became well established here, and in surrounding counties. I continued to be hired because of my ability to take my legal training beyond the status quo and progress my office into a modernized business that provided a vices Administration last week received approval from the federal Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services to continue its practice of extending postpartum coverage for Hoosiers receiving Medicaid during pregnancy from 60 days to one year. Indiana has been providing this extended coverage since April; last week's federal announcement will allow it to continue.

Indiana receives federal approval to continue extending postpartum Medicaid coverage to one year

"We are delighted that Hoosiers, regardless of their income, will now have access to quality healthcare for a full year following the birth of a child," said Dan Rusyniak, M.D., FSSA secretary. "This is significant as more than 40 percent of individuals who give birth each year receive Medicaid. And, since more than half of postpartum complications occur after six weeks, extending coverage to a full year will help meet Gov. Holcomb's goal of reducing Indiana's maternal mortality rate."

Previously, postpartum Medicaid coverage ended after 60 days. In May, Indiana's Office of Medicaid Policy and Planning asked CMS for approval to

The Indiana Family and Social Ser- extend the postpartum coverage period for traditional Medicaid, Healthy Indiana Plan Maternity and Hoosier Healthwise members. This will apply to all who received maternity care from Medicaid since April 1.

The postpartum coverage period is available to any individual who meets one of the following criteria:

-Becomes pregnant while already enrolled in traditional Medicaid, HIP or Hoosier Healthwise

Applies and is eligible for Medicaid while pregnant

-Applies for Medicaid after the child is born and was both pregnant and eligible in the month of application or one of the three months prior to the application month.

Today's CMS approval authorizes the extended coverage for Medicaid-eligible individuals for a five-year period, through March 31, 2027.

This policy was included in HEA 1140-2022, the bill passed by the Indiana General Assembly and signed into law by Governor Eric J. Holcomb on March 14, 2022.

Interviews may be held and/or filled concurrently with position advertising. Purdue University & Martin County are equal access/opportunity institutions fearless and ethical advocacy for my client's needs. I only sought to become a public servant after many of you requested that I provide my services to the county, and I became motivated by the stories you shared with me that were just unacceptable low standards for our county.

After you elected me, I brought my training, my skills, my determination, my hard work, and my integrity with me when I came to the Prosecutor's office. Since, then I have been focused on fixing many of the issues the Prosecutor's office has been facing for years, and thus, our county footing the bill for. I have diligently worked at rectifying the deficiencies I inherited with this office, and I aim for us to go beyond even that. When I prosecute cases you do not see a lengthy list of dismissal after dismissal, I have never backed down from a fight when a wrong needs righted, I hold criminals accountable without taking the easy quick fix, and I seek justice for victims who deserve to be heard. I send a message that our county is not going to accept being just another follower, but that we want leadership in the modern criminal justice system.

For those who doubt me, I am unsure of their hidden motives, and I only ask that you consider your source when receiving information. Are they making valid claims? Are they quick to share misinformation without taking the time to find out the truth? Are they just a good buddy to someone whose agenda is to gain power and notoriety? I have not hidden behind some ugly smear campaign. I have been professional, transparent, ethical, and I have been myself. I am a successful attorney in the prime of my career that is fully capable of providing quality service to our county. If that means a jury trial, a restitution hearing, or an innovative new program that takes extra work, I am there, ready and able. I have worked with other county departments to help achieve this as well.

I do not have a conflict with the current Judge nor the incoming Judge, and if I do have a conflict with any case then a "special prosecutor" can step in as an elected state paid prosecutor from another county and is not paid by either county for the work.

I do get convictions with prison sentences. I have started many new programs that seek justice. I have brought in reimbursement funds to the county. I have just simply refrained from throwing myself a parade for doing my job. I have stayed committed to our community and dedicated to our progress, and I ask for your vote. Thank you, Martin County!

Reps. Ellington, Lindauer invite local college students to apply for paid Statehouse internship field) and Shane Lindauer (R-Jasper) invite local college students and recent graduates of all majors to apply for a paid internship with Indiana House Republicans.

Ellington said House interns will be paid $800 bi-weekly as they work at the Indiana Statehouse in downtown Indianapolis during the 2023 legislative session, which kicks off in January and concludes at the end of April. He said internships are available in several departments and are open to college sophomores, juniors and seniors, graduate students and recent graduates.

"Paid internships offering hands-on and rewarding work experiences can be hard to find," Ellington said. "This program gives students a solid foundation for their resumes, including many skills that they can use in any profession."

Paid, spring-semester intern positions are full time, Monday through Friday, and include free parking, career and professional development assistance, enrollment access to an Indiana government class, and opportunities to earn academic credits through the student's college or university. Interns are also eligible to apply for a competitive $3,000 scholarship to use toward undergraduate and graduate expenses.

According to Lindauer, students can apply for internships in a variety of departments related to their field of study, including legislative operations, policy, and communications and media relations.

"Interning is a great way to discover your passion and build your resume," Lindauer said. "Statehouse interns are an integral part of the team and play a big

Topic for discussion: Fairness and Impartiality in the Martin County Justice System

The Martin County Judicial race is uncontested and Isha Wright-Ryan will be elected as Martin County Circuit Court Judge as of January 1, 2023. The Martin County Prosecutor race is, however, contested, with two candidates, one being the incumbent - Aureola (Wright) Vincz. As most know, these two candidates are related to each other, first cousins to be more specific. Prosecutor Vincz has yet to address this issue with the Martin County Voters, and, in my opinion, this issue should be addressed prior to the possibility of her re-election in Martin County.

These are some of the questions that Martin County Voters should be asking:

1). If there is no conflict of interested with Mrs. Vincz serving as the elected Prosecutor, while her cousin presides as Judge, why hasn't she addressed the perceived conflict, or lack there of? How many cases will require Special and/or Senior Judges and Prosecutors due to criminal perpetrators (or their defense attorney) arguing a conflict, or bias, due to the relationship factor between the Judge and Prosecutor? How will this not affect the Martin County Taxpayers?

Purdue@WestGate bridging gap between Indiana Manufacturers and doing business with the government

On Tuesday, September 6, Purdue@ WestGate and Indiana Procurement Technical Assistance Center hosted a new, first-of-its kind event. Indiana Manufacturing Day offered guidance and resources to small businesses on how they can grow their businesses through government contracting.

Twenty manufacturers from across the state were represented at the event in hopes of adding their capabilities to the Indiana defense industry, specifically with NSWC Crane. "This event did a great job of showcasing how important manufacturing is to DoD, the State of Indiana and our country. As businesses become more intentional about moving manufacturing work back to the United States, Indiana is positioned to lead that charge. It was great seeing small, Indiana, manufacturers eager to support the DoD and specifically the mission at NSWC Crane. The manufacturing capabilities we have in our state are second to none. This is definitely an event I want to be involved with going forward," said Matt Burkett, Director of Small Business Programs, NSWC Crane.

The event featured a panel discussion based on lessons learned and the future of contracting. Representatives from NSWC Crane, Conexus, DIBBS Navigator and Tri Star Engineering sat on the panel that was moderated by State Director of Indiana PTAC Program, Chris Jeffers. "Indiana PTAC is committed to helping Indiana businesses win government contracts to sustain, grow and expand their businesses in Indiana," said Jeffers. "The Indiana Manufacturing Day event was a perfect example of how Hoosier businesses come together to share best practices and collaborate with NSWC Crane and Purdue University." Purdue@WestGate hosts monthly webinars with the Indiana PTAC and strive to bridge the gap between Indiana Manufacturers and the Department of Defense. "This was the first event we have attended, and it did not disappoint. It was great to meet other like-minded individuals and learn from their experiences and expertise. We would recommend any company looking to enter the government sales space to attend," said Micah Reed of Motus Tracking Solutions. The day concluded with an open house at the new ManTech building located within the WestGate@Crane Technology Park. ManTech also featured the Dell Day Technology Bus that is currently touring nationwide. Purdue@WestGate intends to make Indiana Manufacturing Day an annual event.

Learn more about Indiana Manufacturing Day on the event website: Indiana Manufacturing Day | WestGate Academy (westgate-academy.com).

3). How many defense attorneys will argue change of venues for their clients due to the perception of a conflict of interest? What does this cost us? What is the process that determines if changes of venue are necessary? Again, what is this going to cost us?

If taxpayers do not 'foot the bill' for these special/senior case appointments, changes of venue, etc., how are they paid for?

5). Should Mrs. Vincz be re-elected, will she even be able to prosecute cases in this county without conflict? Will Martin County be re-elected a Prosecutor with no power to actually prosecute cases in our county?

I'm not writing this as a personal attack on the incumbent prosecutor, but these are legitimate questions that should be asked and answered to ensure full transparency for all Martin County voters. Martin County voters deserve the opportunity to fully comprehend the ramifications of re-electing the incumbent to the office of Prosecutor, if not real, it's a perceived conflict, or bias.
