Commissioners discuss cyber security, phones

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

More cyber security talk topped the Martin County Commissioners' meeting Tuesday night, September 24. Auditor Bobbie Abel told the commissioners that Dave Welsh, with German American and the county's insurance agent of record, provided policy information for cyber ransom attacks. Commissioner Dan Gregory suggested they hold a special meeting to further discuss the cyber security as the policy information given was 58 pages. Gregory said it is hard to understand and it would be helpful to have someone come to explain it. Commissioner Kevin Boyd said he talked to someone who does IT work and that person would also like to talk to the commissioners also. The commissioners decided to get a date that would work for everyone and schedule a closed-door meeting to discuss options.

Auditor Abel also provided information from various companies to upgrade the courthouse phone systems. She said that everyone she is talking to suggests going with a cloud-based system and the quotes she received from RTC, Frontier, Matrix and others, go as high as $5,000 a month which includes phones, internet and cyber security.

The courthouse offices are currently paying $1,199 a month for phone service and $593 a month for internet.

Abel said that Matrix is the one company who offered the phone, internet and cyber security in a package and she had a company in Bloomington reach out to offer a quote. The commissioners asked Abel to get with that company and get a quote and also get a solid quote from Matrix, out of Jasper.

The commissioners approved a resolution officially moving Sawmill Ridge Road to the county's road inventory. Highway Superintendent Leo Padgett said he inspected the road and it meets county standards.

Padgett also asked the commissioners what he should do about a tree that needs to be removed on 1180 East and Turkey Run. He talked to REMC about topping the tree, but they will not do it. He said they will turn off the electricity long enough for the county employees to take down the tree, but Padgett said they are not comfortable doing it based on the size of the tree and its location to a nearby home. The commissioners told Padgett to shorten the width they planned to do on the road thus avoiding the tree.

The commissioners also approved a resolution reducing the speed limit on Fairview Street in Loogootee from 35 miles per hour to 20 miles per hour. The City of Loogootee was also in favor of the change.

The commissioners approved $4,000 to Data Pit Stop to help move the auditor and treasurer's office software over to a new program, which will start on January 1. They also approved $566.88 to Wagler and Sons to replace the seal on the front doors of the courthouse to see if this fixes the leaking into the basement when it rains.

The county held their annual sale for properties delinquent on property taxes. Auditor Abel reported that 11 properties sold, two went unsold and two came off the sale right before it started. Discussion ensued on what to do with the two properties that have went unsold at tax sale for a few years. The commissioners asked County Attorney Dave Lett to compile a list of all county-owned properties to possibly have a sale in the future.

Animal Control Officer Josh Hughett reported there are currently 78 inmates in the jail and 29 of them are from Vigo County.

Loogootee partners with Special Olympics to bring flag football

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

The Loogootee School Board met Thursday, September 19 in a six-minute meeting.

Superintendent Chip Mehaffey reported that the school is partnering with Special Olympics Indiana and IHSAA to form a flag football team to unify students with special needs with their classmates. The first game was scheduled for last Thursday. The program is called Champions Together. None of the games will be held at Loogootee but around the state and a state champion will eventually be named.

Special Olympics International is supporting Champions Together as a model program to activate schools through "Project Unify" which also has the endorsement of the National Federation of High Schools. Superintendent Chip Mehaffey said there are not many schools in the state that have implemented the program.

In other business, the board approved the 2020 budget, capital improvements plan and bus replacement plan. A public hearing was held on September 5 and no public input was provided. Next year's budget is being submitted at $8.75 million and now awaits approval from the state.

The October board meeting will be held October 15 at 4:30 p.m. instead of the normal third Thursday of the month.

Annual tax sale brings in $68,958

Martin County officials held their annual delinquent property tax sale on September 23. The sale was conducted by Martin County Auditor Bobbie Abel and Treasurer Lori Carrico. A property tax sale is required to be held in each Indiana county for those properties where an owner of real estate fails to pay the property taxes from the prior year's first property tax bill installment. A tax lien on the property may be sold to the highest bidder to satisfy the tax obligation. The owners of the properties sold at the tax sale have one year to pay the delinquent property taxes, costs and penalties to keep the property. The sale, conducted by Indianapolis-based SRI Incorporated on behalf of Martin County, offered 13 parcels to 10 bidders.

This year's tax sale resulted in the collection of $68,958.26 from owners and buyers. 55 parcels had all taxes. (See 'TAX SALE' on page 2)

Making A Difference

By Curt Johnson
MCCF Executive Director

-- ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL --
“When one door closes, another door opens.” Alexander Graham Bell (educator, scientist and inventor) understood that we cannot always look back at the closed doors in our lives; we need to look forward to other doors that open for us and bring new opportunities.

-- OPPORTUNITIES --
The Martin County Community Foundation (MCCF) exists to provide opportunities to our county, to make a difference in people’s lives. One of these opportunities is to provide donors an avenue to give back to the community. Another is to help charitable organizations and causes improve the quality of life in our area.

One compliments the other and they need each other to make that difference; the donors need a way to give, and the charitable organizations or causes need someone to provide the resources to meet the community needs. It’s all about giving back – whether individually with your time, talent or treasure, or as an organization looking to improve the quality of life in Martin County.

-- MCCF CAN HELP --
Donors want to put their money where their hearts are. When they come to the MCCF for help, they have some level of understanding that an endowment can provide the “forever funding” for that concern of theirs. Almost any good cause would benefit from having an endowment to provide funding far into the future.

-- SCHOLARSHIPS --
Some donors have seen the need to help adults improve their quality of life by furthering their education even after they’ve been out of high school for a year or more. In those cases, both the donors and the students have seen the importance of continuing their education. Each of them also understands that as adults, life sometimes brings responsibilities and demands that challenge the goal of going back to school.

-- ADULTS TOO --
Because of these complimentary opportunities coming together, the MCCF is able to offer scholarships established specifically for this purpose of helping adults open another door in their lives and continue their education.

This year Jessica Hert and Robert Tyler Lythgoe both received one of these scholarships. Jessica is looking forward to a master’s degree in school counseling from Indiana Wesleyan University. And Tyler is pursuing a bachelor’s degree in Psychology at the University of Southern Indiana.

-- GIVING BACK --
These adult students are setting aside a time in their life to further their education and improve their quality of life. Each one of them also has in their future plans to give back for the opportunities that they’ve been given. We at the MCCF are thankful that we can help both them and our donors attain their goals.

-- WITH MORE NOW --
If you want your giving to have even more impact, the MCCF has a matching grant opportunity in place at this time. With this grant, the MCCF can match $2 for every $1 donated to unrestricted funds, which are used for our Impact Grant Cycle and other needs that emerge in the county. We will also match 50¢ for each $1 donated to any other fund type, such as a scholarship fund. The matching grant is available through December 2020, but on a first-come, first-served basis while the grant funds are available.

-- MORE INFORMATION --
For more information about the MCCF and how we can help you help others, please contact the MCCF Director, Curt Johnson, at 812-295-1022 or mccf@cf-partner.org.

TAX SALE

penalties and costs paid in full prior to the sale. Treasurer Carrico said, “Tax sales are a necessary function of county government. It is only fair to the people who pay their property taxes every year to pursue those that do not pay.”

For the two properties that did not sell, the county commissioners acquire a tax lien. The county commissioners may offer those properties to the public at a sale at a later date. Auditor Abel said, “It is our ultimate goal to return these properties to the tax rolls as quickly and efficiently as possible. Property owned by people that pay their property taxes ensure our local government services are fully funded.”

Robert asked the evangelist to pray for his hearing.

After 3 minutes of violent shaking and trying to push him over backwards, the preacher asked, "How's your hearing?"

Robert replied, "I don't know. It doesn't take place until Tuesday at the courthouse."

THOUGHTS

*People are like, "It takes a village to raise a child."

And I'm like, "Can you give me the address for that village? Cause I could use the help."

*Dear Algebra, please stop asking us to find your X. She's never coming back and don't ask Y.

*How to stay on top of the laundry when you have 2 or more kids:

1. You can't.
2. Find a new dream.

*Friend: What part of your morning routine takes the longest?

Me: Deciding to get up.

*If you are reading this, I pray your stomach gets flat without even working out.

*I was walking past a farm and a sign said, "Duck, eggs."

I thought, "That's an unnecessary comma - and then it hit me."

*Friend: How much of an allowance did you get as a teenager per week?

Me: I was allowed to live there.

*They say with age comes wisdom therefore I don't have wrinkles, I have wise cracks.

SHORTS

*I've often been asked, "What do you old folks do now that you're retired?"

Well, I'm fortunate to have a chemical engineering background and one of the things I enjoy most is converting beer, wine, and vodka into urine. I do it every day and I really enjoy it.

*Shout out to all the people who wander from room to room looking for their coffee cup while holding it in their hand. Mornings are hard. We will get through this together.

*It was a sad and disappointing day when I discovered my Universal Remote Control did not, in fact, control the universe. (Not even remotely)

*I hope there are days when your coffee tastes like magic, your playlist makes you dance, strangers make you smile, and the night sky touches your soul. I hope you fall in love with being alive again.

*Who knew that the hardest part of being an adult is figuring out what to cook for dinner every single night for the rest of your life until you die.

*A weasel walks into a bar.

The bartender says, "Wow, I've never served a weasel before. What can I get you?"

"Pop," goes the weasel.

*The weather just went from 90 to 55 like it saw a state trooper.

Make someone smile today!

We are officially in autumn now. The autumnal equinox occurred at 3:50 a.m. on Monday, September 23. The last four weeks of summer have been the driest of 2019. This will definitely have an adverse effect on the fall foliage. Many trees have already begun dropping leaves as a response to the lack of moisture. Still, because of the abundant rains earlier in the year, the water table has been sufficient to supply water to the deep roots of trees, shrubs and perennials. However, that water table has dropped and if the drought continues, we may see some serious damage to plants.

The question is whether to water and what to water. At this late time in the season, some people decide to just let annuals go and concentrate on watering the perennials, shrubs and trees. Those plants will come back next year, and it is important to keep them healthy to get them through the winter. It is better to water deep and less often, as that promotes deep root growth. Then use of soaker hoses or emitters is the most efficient watering method. Sprinklers may cover a large area, but a lot of the moisture is lost to evaporation and wet leaves may lead to fungal problems.

In the vegetable garden, water the plants you wish to keep producing. If you are to the point that you do not want another tomato, then just pull them out and clean up the bed. Personally, I want to keep the tomatoes producing, so I will be watering those beds. I will also water the cucumbers to keep them producing and the sweet potatoes, to allow the tubers to continue to develop. The second crop potatoes have bloomed, and I will just allow the foliage to die down and dig out the spuds.

The Malabar spinach has proven a remarkable plant in the hot, dry weather. It has climbed a trellis on the end of a planter bed and is both decorative and productive. The leaves may be eaten raw or cooked like spinach. The vine is red, with deep green leaves. It also produces pink flowers. It comes from Australia, so it does not need much water and it thrives in the heat. So far, I have not seen any insect damage on the leaves. Even if I did not like eating it, this plant is so beautiful and easy that it will be a part of my garden in the future. I may even resort to planting it in the ornamental areas instead of the vegetable patch.

It is also time to begin thinking about bringing in the tender plants that have spent the summer outside. Although the recent record heat makes it seem like cold is far away, the truth is that we could see frost in a couple of weeks. October 10 is usually considered the earliest frost date in our zone and some of the tropical plants cannot survive temperatures below 50 degrees, so they will need to be moved in soon. If there has been insect activity, you may wish to use an insecticidal soap. Soil-living insects may be driven out by dipping the plant in water and allowing the soil to become saturated. Moving plants into a sun porch or placing them in a shady spot will help them to become more gradually acclimated to the lower light levels of the house. That may prevent leaf drop that usually results from the rapid change in light conditions.

I am hoping that by the time this column is published, we will have received some significant rain. The Orange County Pumpkin Festival is coming up the first week in October and I know of no more certain way to ensure rain than for the festival to begin. However, I am praying that some moisture arrives before that time. A good rain this week would go a long way toward keeping our gardens healthy and saving at least some fall color. Pray hard.

NRC approves new nature preserve

The Natural Resources Commission (NRC), during its regularly scheduled bi-monthly meeting on September 17 at Fort Harrison State Park, approved the creation of a new nature preserve, Perfect Lake Nature Preserve.

The action increases to 289 the number of state-designated sites protected by the Nature Preserves Act.

Perfect Lake Nature Preserve contains 84.05 acres in Steuben County near Fish Creek. The majority of the property occupies a prominent esker (a long, narrow steep-sided gravel ridge) that offers great vistas over the lake. The upland forest is relatively young pioneer to early successional mesic forest. About 25 percent of the property consists of Perfect Lake and adjoining wetlands. It is owned by and under the administration of ACRES Land Trust.

The NRC also considered 13 citizen petitions regarding Fish & Wildlife rules.

Regarding a petition from the Indiana Ruffed Grouse Society, the NRC recommended to add the species to the state's list of endangered birds in 312 IAC 9-4-14. As a result of the NRC's decision, the DNR Division of Fish & Wildlife (DFW) will present rule language for preliminary adoption of this change at a future meeting. In the meantime, the ruffed grouse hunting season, which has been suspended since 2015, will continue to be suspended.

Regarding a petition governing the sale of native species of snakes, the NRC voted in support of the DFW's recommendation to amend the native species list in Indiana to include the subspecies name for certain species of snakes and allow another method of marking the snakes instead of PIT-tagging, but not expand the native species of snakes that can be sold under a reptile captive breeder's license.

The NRC declined to recommend for approval a petition that would have eliminated the bonus antlerless quota for Franklin County and would have changed all other deer licenses to allow only one antlerless deer to be taken in Franklin County. The emergency rule passed last week already reduced the County Bonus Antlerless Quotas (CBAQ) for deer hunting in Franklin County and the other affected counties in southern Indiana to a maximum of two.

The NRC agreed with the DFW's recommendation to not move forward with the other citizen petitions, the most significant of which proposed the following changes to 312 IAC 9:

Help prepare blinds for waterfowl season at Monroe Lake

People interested in waterfowl hunting and waterfowl observation are needed to help clean, repair, and camouflage the waterfowl hunting blinds in the Stillwater-Northfork waterfowl area at Monroe Lake.

Volunteers should meet at the Northfork Check Station at 9 a.m. on Saturday, October 5. The check station is located east of Bloomington off of State Road 46, 1/3 mile south of the intersection of Kent Road and McGowan Road.

The day will include a short training session on waterfowl blinds and the waterfowl management program at Monroe Lake. Lunch will be provided for all participants.

Work will continue until 4 p.m., but volunteers can leave any time before

-Allow the use of 28 gauge and .410 shotguns and shot smaller than number 7 1/2 for wild turkey hunting. The NRC, agreeing with part of the petition, assigned the issue back to the DFW and Advisory Council for further review regarding the use of the 28 gauge and .410 shotgun.

-Create an all-season antlered buck license and an all-season antlerless deer license.

—Start spring wild turkey season earlier in April.

-Allow the use of a crossbow by means of compressed air (an air-bow) to hunt deer in Indiana during the entire archery season. Instead, the NRC recommended the DFW move forward with an administrative rule for these crossbows that use compressed air to be used in the firearms season only, per the DFW's recommendation.

-Increase the muskellunge size limit at Bass Lake in Sullivan County, and at Loon Lake in Noble and Whitley counties from 36 inches to 44 inches.

The DFW's complete reports that address each of the citizen petitions listed above, as well as reports on the other citizen proposals on Fish & Wildlife rules, are listed at nrc.IN.gov/2350.htm under "Current Meeting Agenda."

Regarding the Division of Water, the NRC received a report summarizing public meetings and making recommendations regarding the renewal of a water contract with The Golf Club at Eagle Pointe for water withdrawal from Monroe Lake under IC 14-25-2 and 312 IAC 6.3.

The NRC Division of Hearings ended the meeting by readopting 312 IAC 9, which governs standards for Fish and Wildlife, and 312 IAC 18, which governs standards for Entomology and Plant Pathology.

The NRC is an autonomous board that addresses topics pertaining to the DNR. More details on the actions regarding the Division of Water and the NRC Division of Hearings are also available at nrc.IN.gov/2354.htm.

NRC members include the DNR director, heads of three other state agencies (Indiana Department of Environmental Management, Indiana Office of Tourism Development, and the Indiana Department of Transportation), six citizens appointed by the governor on a bipartisan basis, the chair of the DNR's advisory council, and the president of the Indiana Academy of Science. The Academy of Science president and the agency heads, other than the DNR director, may appoint proxies to serve the commission in their absences.

Registration is appreciated but not necessary — last-minute volunteers are welcome. To sign up in advance, call the Monroe Lake Office at 812-837-9546 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. and ask for Rex Watters.
