

Commissioners discuss roads, bridges; get $364,000 in timber money from Crane

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

The Martin County Commissioners met Tuesday night, October 20.

Kyle and Adam Lark, with Lark Ranch, approached the commissioners about getting road work done in their area for their customers who patron the ranch. They explained that they have received several complaints from customers about the narrowness of the road and the lack of dust control that makes driving dangerous. They requested that a 1.3-mile gravel section of Killion Mill Road be paved.

The commissioners explained that dust control could be put down and asked if Lark Ranch would be willing to put in 50 percent of the cost of materials. Commissioner Paul George said that the chloride they are using to spray on the roads has worked well and packs down the road like concrete.

Highway Superintendent Leo Padgett said that Killion Mill Road may be busy the five or six weekends that Lark Ranch is open but the rest of the year, there is almost a zero traffic count. The Larks said that they plan to start doing more events year-round. When asked if Killion Mill was slated for future work, Padgett replied that it is not, due to the traffic count.

Commissioner Paul George asked Padgett to look into how much it would cost to spray the road for dust control and contact Lark Ranch with the figures.

Highway Superintendent Padgett reported that his department moved their work hours back to 7 a.m.-3:30 p.m. five days a week, until spring.

He told the commissioners that Dubois County Water requested to trench an 18-inch wide section of Butler Bridge Road to install lines. He asked the commissioners if they had an issue with this. Commissioner George said that Butler Bridge was recently paved, and he doesn't have an issue with the work as long as Dubois County Water agrees to keep the area maintained. County Attorney Dave Lett suggested Dubois County Water submit a proposal and he would review it.

Padgett said there have been commu-

Loogootee man arrested on drug charges

The Martin County Sheriff's Office and the Loogootee Police Department responded to a report of a verbal dispute in Loogootee that led to charges for possession of methamphetamine, possession of paraphernalia, and operating a vehicle while never received a license.

On October 14 at 12:51 p.m., Martin County Dispatch was advised of a loud verbal dispute between two males at a residential address in Loogootee. Major Keith Keller and Loogootee Police Department Chief Kelly Rayhill responded to the address.

As Major Keller arrived, a male, identified as Dustin A. Cramer, 37, of Loogootee, took off on foot behind the residence. Major Keller proceeded on foot in the opposite direction and was able to stop Cramer as he appeared to begin pulling something out of his front pocket.

nication issues between REMC and CLR related to work on bridge 69 at Hindostan. Padgett said CLR cannot continue work until the electricity is shut off. He said he has been in contact with both companies and believes he has a resolution. Work is expected to start back up on the bridge this week.

Padgett reported that the county received $364,355.32 in money from harvesting of Crane timber last year.

Tim Hunt, with HWC Engineering, told the commissioners that he met with the contractors doing erosion work around Brooks Bridge, as he wasn't happy with the completed job. He said that the job called for a 30-inch thick layer of rip rap to be put down the entire slope and the company installed small pieces of rip rap and not 30 inches thick. He said the commissioners were set to approve a claim to pay the company at the meeting, but he put a hold on the payment. The company will be going in and fixing the issue.

Hunt also said that E&B Paving has completed marking the roads set for paving. He advised motorists that with road construction beginning, there may be delays and potential temporary closures.

Hunt told the commissioners that they are working on putting together a list of roads to include in the first round of 2021 Community Crossings grant applications. He said he will bring a list of 10-12 roads to the next meeting for the commissioners to choose from and include traffic counts for each road. He also informed the commissioners that due to an update needed for the grant application, his firm's contract has increased by $5,000.

Hunt also told the commissioners that they have had West Boggs Park and Martin State Forest show interest in the bridge on Brickyard Road that is slated for replacement. He said the historic nature of the bridge calls for the bridge to be legally advertised for re-use and he would like to see some entity in the county be able to use it.

James Smith, the new Commanding Officer with NSA Crane, introduced himself to the commissioners. Smith was in-et. During a pat down search, a glass smoking device was located on Cramer. After Major Keller transported Cramer to the Martin County Security Center and he was being booked-in, a small baggie containing a white powdery substance was located on his person. The white powdery substance field tested positive for methamphetamine. Cramer is currently being held on $15,000/10% bond.

Major Keller was assisted by Chief Kelly Rayhill.

Cramer was charged with possession of methamphetamine, a Level 6 Felony; possession of paraphernalia, a Class C Misdemeanor; and operating a motor vehicle while never receiving a license, a Class C Misdemeanor.

All suspects are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

TIF funds can be spent to purchase county vehicles

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT

The Martin County Redevelopment Commission met Tuesday, October 20. Attorney Dave Lett told the board members that he has looking into legally using the accumulated $450,000 in TIF (Tax Increment Financing) district funds, as was a question during budget hearings. He is waiting to hear back from the attorney advising him, so he can have the specific language. Lett said that the money can be used to purchase a vehicle or equipment for the highway department or a vehicle for the sheriff's department, as long as the focus of the purchase is for the TIF district.

Board Member Paul George said they were thinking about purchasing a vehicle for the highway superintendent, and then he can drive the area and assess weekly. He said they also considered purchasing a dump truck. Lett replied that both of

Traffic stop leads to operating while intoxicated charge

The Martin County Sheriff's Office, the Loogootee Police Department, and the Indiana State Police conducted a traffic stop in Loogootee that led to charges for operating while intoxicated-endangerment.

On October 15 at 10:50 a.m., Martin County Sheriff's Office Major Keith Keller and Loogootee Police Department Captain Jason Hennette conducted a traffic stop for a moving violation near Grant Street, west of Broadway Street in Loogootee.

Captain Hennette utilized his K9 partner, Roxy, for a free air sniff around the vehicle. K9 Roxy gave a positive indication of illegal substances inside the vehithose are legitimate expenses related to the district.

Attorney Lett said once he hears back from his advisor, he will schedule a special meeting of the redevelopment commission for next month.

Lett said he also found out that the TIF district in WestGate was established in 2007 for 25 years. A TIF district is set up with the intention of targeting that area for redevelopment. The money taken in from property taxes goes back into that TIF district and not into the county's funds. WestGate is Martin County's only TIF district, with eight parcels in the northern part of Perry Township. The gross assessed value of property in the TIF district is $8.9 million. Martin County owns one small section of land in the district that is undeveloped.

Redevelopment Commission members Keith Gibson and Warren Albright were not present for the meeting.

A small amount of suspected marijuana was located in the vehicle.

Indiana State Police Trooper Andrew Beaver assisted on scene by conducting standardized field sobriety testing on the driver, Cody Edward Lee Taylor, 30, of Wheatland. Taylor failed the tests and submitted to a chemical test at Daviess Community Hospital before Major Keller transported him to the Martin County Security Center. Taylor is currently being held for 15 days without bond.

Major Keller was assisted by Captain Hennette, Trooper Beaver, and K9 Roxy. Taylor was charged with operating while intoxicated endangerment, a Class A Misdemeanor.

OSD establishes Joint Hypersonics Transition Office Systems Engineering Field Activity at NSWC Crane

The Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) has established its Joint Hypersonics Transition Office (JHTO) Systems Engineering Field Activity at Naval Support Activity, Crane. The decision to partner with Crane was made to leverage the growing suite of government, industry, and academic capabilities associated with that organization. Acting Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering, Dr. Mark Lewis, and JHTO Director, Dr. Gillian Bussey, announced the JHTO Systems Engineering Field Activity opening in a virtual event on October 15.

This announcement was part of Dr. Lewis' engagement with Indiana's Tier I research institutions, Purdue University and University of Notre Dame, who play a crucial role in hypersonics research and development. Lewis also met virtually with Indiana Governor Eric J. Holcomb and Secretary of Commerce Jim Schellinger to discuss the full scope of the DoD investment in Indiana.

"The JHTO and its Systems Engineering Field Activity presents a signature opportunity for the Department. Leveraging the capabilities at NSWC Crane, we cannot only develop effective hypersonic technologies, but we can also develop them affordably at the speed of relevance to our warfighters. Proactive engineering for affordable upgrades is critical to the long-term sustainability of these systems," said Dr. Lewis.

NSWC Crane has received recent, significant Department of Defense (DoD) investments in test and verification and validation capabilities. This includes over $200 million in unique capabilities that include an underwater launch test complex, a missile technology evaluation facility, an integrated Hardware-in-the-Loop (HWIL) / Software-in-the-Loop (SWIL) test bed, and a Modeling & Simulation lab. More than three hundred people at Crane are working to advance hypersonic technologies and the enabling capabilities to make them possible.

"NSWC Crane has become a critical hub in the hypersonics development ecosystem," says Rick Davidoff, Acting Director of the JHTO Systems Engineering Field Activity. "This exciting announcement is the culmination of the hard work and dedication of many people. The JHTO Field Activity at Crane will allow OSD to leverage earlier and ongoing investments at Crane to help all three Services improve their hypersonic weapons with more rapid, adaptable, and modular upgrades. Indiana and the larger Midwest will have a long-term, critical role in this important national security mission."

The JHTO, headquartered at the Pentagon, was established by Congressional direction and its authorities were renewed in the Fiscal Year 2020 National Defense Authorization Act. The JHTO is responsible for creating strategies and roadmaps to develop hypersonic technologies and transition them to operational capabilities, for coordinating with foreign allies and partners, and for bolstering the hypersonics workforce. Additionally, it is establishing a university consortium for applied hypersonics to leverage the nation's academic community towards hypersonics-related research and workforce development.

"We anticipate the OSD Field Activity at Crane will play a critical leadership role as hypersonics technologies are developed and transitioned," said Dr. Bussey.

The JHTO Systems Engineering Field Activity at Crane will perform the detailed engineering activities to help execute the JHTO's mandate. The Field Activity will coordinate architectures, interfaces, schedules, and plans to transition a more modular, affordable, and upgradable hypersonics portfolio of capabilities and technologies. The Systems Engineering Field Activity has four engineering focus areas: System Architectures and Guidelines, S&T Management, Transition Management, and Modeling and Simulation. The Field Activity will also execute some of the workforce development initiatives, including sponsored research, curriculum development, and engagements with industry to create a growing pipeline of highly technical talent to enter the hypersonics workforce.

A group of tourists visited an alligator farm and was floating on a floating structure in the middle of a pool with many alligators.

The owner of the alligator farm threw a challenge to his guests: "Whoever dares to jump in, swim to the edge and survive will be awarded $1,000,000. The silence was deafening. No one dares to move.

Suddenly, a man jumped into the pool. He was chased by the alligators, but with luck, he eventually made it out of the pool, to the admiration of the other guests.

The owner of the alligator farm said, "We have a brave winner!"

After collecting his reward and all was over, the couple went back to their hotel room.

The "brave man" said to his wife, "I did not jump, SOMEONE PUSHED ME!"

His wife smiled and coolly said, "It was me."

So now you know: Behind every successful man is a woman who pushes him.

In the Garden

By Ralph Purkhiser, Purdue University Master Gardener

After many days of October's bright blue weather, a much-needed rain moved into the area over the weekend. While the dry weather helped harvest activities to make good progress, newly planted trees, shrubs and perennials sorely needed the moisture to get them off to a successful start. This rain should allow the new plants to put out roots while the ground is still warm, ensuring the new starts will be able to make it through the coming winter. Of course, they will need more moisture, and if there is another dry period, it may again be necessary to water the new plants as long as the ground is not frozen. This is true even after the leaves drop. Leaf drop does not mean that trees, shrubs and perennials are dead, as the roots will continue to develop.

It is also time to begin planting bulbs for spring flowers. I planted nearly a hundred anemone corms over the weekend and have almost that many more to plant. I also have several daffodil bulbs to get into the ground. (Incidentally, I also know that the Springs Valley Optimist Club still has some King Alfred daffodil bulbs for sale to benefit Clothe-a-Child.) You do not have to be in a big rush to plant the bulbs. While it is good for them to begin making roots to acclimate to the new site, one may actually continue planting bulbs until the ground freezes. I have planted bulbs on New Year's Day before and those flowers bloomed the first year. Make sure you plant bulbs to the proper depth. Most bulbs should be planted two to three times as deep as the diameter of the bulb. Shallow planting may result in bulbs that put on foliage early. That early foliage may come up and get frozen during subsequent cold weather and the result could be that the blooms will be damaged for the first year.

One way to ensure bulbs will not erupt before time is to mulch them after the ground freezes. The mulch layer will insulate the ground, keeping it frozen and preventing bulb eruption. The same principle keeps the roots of newly-planted perennials from heaving during the winter. To that end, you may need to purchase mulch now. Many gardens centers close for the winter or put mulch away, so it may not be available for purchase when you need it. If you buy it now, put it in a garage to keep it available for spreading when needed.

The rain has also brought down a lot of leaves. Left alone, leaves may form a mat that will smother turf grasses. There are several options to prevent that. You may rake the leaves and remove them from the area or you may turn them into fine mulch that will enrich the ground. Even mulched, the leaves may be too heavy, so rake them until they sift down between the grass blades. The excess may be used as mulch in perennial beds or added into garden beds.

The leaves are an excellent source of organic matter for garden beds. As with any organic matter, the smaller the particles, the more quickly they will break down into compost, so shredding of leaves is essential. Also, be aware that walnut leaves contain a chemical known as juglone that hampers plant growth, so do not use walnut leaves in your leaf mulch.

Another good use for the leaves is as insulation. While I normally do not promote bagging leaves in plastic bags, this is one exception. Rake and bag some leaves and place the bags in an area where they will be handy later. When a hard freeze threatens, pile the bags of leaves onto beds where turnips, carrots and other root crops have been growing. In this case, the insulation will keep the ground from freezing and you may just move some bags of leaves and pull the root vegetables as needed. I have been able to keep harvesting root crops into February using this method.

We should have beautiful color for a little while longer, so be sure to get out and take in the beauty of autumn in the Hoosier Hills. To paraphrase Robert Frost, the gold will not stay.

Lawyer Family chosen as 2020 adoptive family

The Clinton and Bridget Lawyer Family were honored at the Right to Life Banquet last Thursday night as the 2020 Adoptive Family.

Speaking on behalf of the family, Bridget Lawyer spoke of how she and her husband always wanted to adopt children after they had they had children of their own. They worked with the Foster Parent Program and in 2014 they were asked if they would care for four children ages one through eight. The family all agreed to do so and in December of 2014 the children moved in. Bridget related there are the normal ups and downs like any family, but they seem to be able to work through all the problems with the new additions to the family.

On September 19, 2016 the Lawyers were finally able to adopt the four children. "We still have a few rough patches, but they just fit right into our family. God has worked in each of us and if we had not followed his lead, we would have missed out on so many blessings! As excited as we are that they are part of our family, I do have to say this was not God's first choice for these kids. His first choice was a loving home with their biological parents. I know their mother loved them and we are so glad she chose to have them as opposed to having an abortion."

in the confirmation of a Supreme Court Justice Amy Comey Barrett. The senator did not mingle with the crowd and when he arrived was whisked off to a room near the stage area for his protection. The senator apologized for not being able to meet with individuals but said because of health concerns, all senators are being extremely careful now in view of the important vote coming up in the U.S. Senate in the next week or so. In spite of the health concerns, 300 people did attend the banquet, but it was down from previous years. All attendees to the banquet wore masks and were following the guidelines set down by the health department. This was the 44th year for the Right to Life Banquet which now features residents from Daviess, Martin and Pike counties.

District 63 candidates

and
SHANE LINDAUER

TERESA KENDALL

Teresa Kendall was born in Elwood, Indiana. She is an art teacher who taught for more than 32 years in Central Indiana public schools, including Indianapolis, Lebanon, Blackford County and Anderson. She is a graduate of Indiana State University with a BS in Education and an MS in Educational Technology and Learning Theory. She retired from teaching in 2018 and has been employed as a paralegal in Jasper for the past two years. Her husband is former Indiana State Senator and US Senate Candidate, Mike Kendall. The couple has five grown children and four grandchildren.

TERESA KENDALL

Kendall's key issues include: Full funding of public schools, including an increase in teacher pay; work to end private school vouchers and virtual charter schools.

Expand the Healthy Indiana plan to make health care insurance available to more residents of Indiana. Provide incentives that will create affordable and available housing in small towns and rural areas of the state. Her passion is public education. She says, "As a teacher for over 30 years I have personally experienced the effects of poor legislation that has taken away precious funds for public schools. The very heart of cities, towns and even neighborhoods are the public schools that our state tax dollars fund. Indiana has been lagging behind in funding and support for public education by throwing money away on fraudulent virtual schools, funding private schools with public money and wasteful testing that does not provide useful data for schools. As a professional educator, I know that we can do better with our public funds for education. My goal as a legislator is to bring common sense and practical knowledge to the funding process and I will work with any legislator of any party to provide equitable and adequate funding for all communities in Indiana."

SHANE LINDAUER

Shane Lindauer is a 1992 graduate of Jasper High School. He earned his bachelor of science degree in industrial supervision technology from Indiana State University. He subsequently earned a doctorate of chiropractic and bachelor of science in health and human sciences from Logan College of Chiropractic. Subsequent to graduation, he served as a member of the Indiana and Missouri Army National Guard. He later served as a member of the Dubois County Council and became owner of a chiropractic private practice. In addition to these, he became part owner of small family-owned recycling business. He and his wife, Stacy, have two sons.

His platform includes:
-Being pro life
-Being pro 2nd Amendment
-Favors small government with as much local control as possible

District 62 candidates

ALYSSA BAILEY
and
JEFF ELLINGTON

ALYSSA BAILEY

Alyssa Bailey was born in Indiana and raised in a rural community with her two siblings. She graduated with a bachelor's degree in Education from Indiana State University, where she met her husband, Chase Bailey. While at ISU, she served in the Army National Guard. She served for six years before taking a break in service to start her family. The couple has a son and daughter. Upon graduation, Chase accepted a position at Crane, which brought them to Greene County.

While in Greene County, Alyssa has taught special education at White River Valley Elementary for the past six years. In October of 2018, she joined the Air Force Reserves as an Intelligence Analyst and continue to serve today. She completed her Master's Degree in Special Education from Purdue University in 2019, graduating among the top of her class.

Key issues include:
Public education - Alyssa supports changing the funding formula to support public schools, increasing teacher pay to attract and retain top educators, assessing students in a way that empowers them and allows for immediate, usable data, and providing children with the skills and resources needed to become workforce and career ready.

Healthcare- Alyssa Bailey supports price transparency and holding insurance companies accountable to their patients and providers. She says we must work on making premiums more affordable, reducing out-of-pocket expenses, and capping prescription costs.

Gun rights - As a member of the military and gun-owner, Alyssa supports our second amendment right to bear arms. She says responsible gun owners should not have to worry about the government focusing efforts to confiscate firearms. Alyssa believes in protecting our rights while advocating for education and training.

Reproductive rights - Alyssa Bailey has a plan to reduce the number of unnecessary abortions that are occurring without giving the government control over our bodies. Alyssa feels that to protect ALL life, we need to focus on the reasons that women and families are having abortions and work to eliminate these

JEFF ELLINGTON

JEFF ELLINGTON

Jeff Ellington was raised in Monroe County, Indiana, and graduated from Bloomington High School South. He attended Indiana University before starting his small business, J.R. Ellington Tree Experts. He expanded his business operations over the years to Phoenix Demolition and Ellington Stables.

Jeff was a firefighter with the city of Bloomington for 28 years and retired in 2017. He married Hope Habbe in 1990, and they have two children, Lindsey (a 2015 graduate of Indiana University's Kelley School of Business), and Lincoln, a 2015 graduate of Bloomington High School South.

Jeff was elected to the Monroe County Council in 1996 and served from 1997 to 2005. He served as Monroe County recorder in 2014 to finish the term of the late Jim Fielder. He has served as District 62 representative since 2016.

His key issues include:
He believes all hands on deck to restart the Hoosier economy as we fight COVID-19 and protect citizens from the virus.

He is strongly in favor of the Second Amendment. The right to own a handgun or rifle shall not be infringed by the state. He believes people in my district have a right to hunt and use guns for personal protection.

He's for educational reform and choices. He fully supports Indiana University. He support mineral extraction and the coal industries.

He is strongly in favor of your property rights. He support the farming and timber industries and believes overregulation can hurt these industries.

He is pro-life and believes life begins at conception.

He is for small business protection and believes regulations and taxation can squeeze small businesses right out of existence. He says the Indiana General Assembly must work with small business, local chambers and local economic agencies to help small businesses thrive.

He believes Indiana and District 62 need more manufacturing jobs. In turn, more manufacturing jobs in District 62 and Indiana will increase wages.

He believes District 62, and Greene County especially, have roads and bridges that need repair and maintenance.

He says he will work to make sure Interstate 69 stretches from Indianapolis through Greene County to Evansville, and that it is maintained properly.

PLEASE VOTE PRO-LIFE!

To Vote Pro-Life means to vote for Candidates for elective office who not only say they are pro-life but are willing to put that meaning in every vote they make once they are elected.

Once elected they can vote for party leadership positions that are pro-abortion and these people kill pro-life bills and the pro-life agenda.

This is why endorsements are made by the Right to Life Political Action Committees that take into account the past voting records, public statements, response to questionnaires and history of the candidates. While they say they are Pro-Life, their actions may not reflect it.

When you vote to support Candidates who either are pro-abortion and not willing to stand up for the Pro-Life Principles, You are voting to support abortion. You are working against everything the Right to Life Organization is trying to do in protecting the lives of the unborn.

So remember, when you go to the polls, think Pro-Life and Vote for Candidates who not only say they are Pro-Life but are willing to put that into practice. There are many important issues to consider but none more important than the killing of unborn children.

WARREN ALBRIGHT
KEITH GIBSON
ADAM GREENE
RICHARD SUMMERS
JIM WOODY

Martin County Journal: Please give your background info, where you were born, raised, parents, spouse, children, job, etc.

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: I was raised in Loogootee, son of Mike and Sylvia Greene. I graduated from Loogootee High School in 2005. Then attended Wyotech in Blairsville, Pennsylvania, where I received my associate's degree in Automotive Collision Repair & Service Management. Upon graduating, I opened Greene's Body Shop Inc., in Loogootee along with Greene's Properties, LLC, a property rental business in Martin and Daviess counties. I am also a director of the Montgomery Ruritan Club and a member of the Indiana Auto Body Association.

Richard Summers: I was born in 1955 to Charles and Viola Summers, both of Loogootee. I graduated from Loogootee High School in 1973 and have been married for 46 years to Nancy (Lentz) Summers. We have three children, Amy Stevens and Ali Summers, who are both teachers in Indianapolis, and Aaron Summers, manager of Toy's Auto Parts in Shoals. We have three granddaughters and one great granddaughter. I retired from Toy's Auto Parts in 2017.

Jim Woody: I was raised in Rutherford Township. I'm the son of Pat and the late Gib Winger. I graduated from Loogootee High School in 1989. I am married to Tammy Woody and have two sons, one daughter and two grandchildren. I currently work for Amentum, a contracting company at Crane. I've been employed there for 16 years as a Group Manager. Tammy and I also started Woody's Lawn Service, LLC in Martin County two years ago and have now added rental properties to our business. I am a member of the Loogootee United Methodist Church and a past president of the VFW post 9395

Auxiliary.
Martin County Journal: What is it about the county council that interests you?

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: After attending many commissioner and council meetings, I noticed the council deals with many of the same issues as a business owner and saw an opportunity to use my business background in a way that can help the county.

Richard Summer: I really enjoy working with all the people employed with and involved with Martin County. It is not always easy to stretch the budget to make everyone happy, but I enjoy trying to resolve the issues so that we can reach a happy medium.

Jim Woody: The reason I'm interested in the county council is to be a voice for the citizens of Martin County. I want to help get a better-balanced budget and get a handle on unnecessary spending.

Martin County Journal: In your opinion, what should be the county council's number one priority?

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: In my opinion, the council needs to ensure essential services are provided for the community and cut unnecessary spending when possible to keep taxes down.

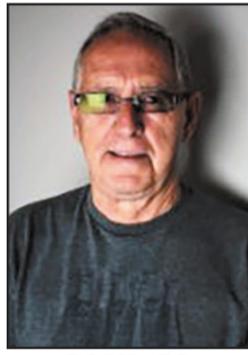

Richard Summers: Making sure we stay within the budget, and all county offices run as smoothly and efficiently as possible.

RICHARD SUMMERS

Martin County Journal: What do you think the county council could do, if anything, to help Martin County's population grow?

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: Lack of housing has been a common topic brought up in many conversations and from outside studies. It would be good to discuss possible incentives to build new homes and apartments, especially in certain areas of the county. I think there are several benefits to living in a small community, many of which are what I love most about living in Martin County.

Richard Summers: The only thing the county council can do is to approve a tax abatement for new businesses to come to our county, thus hopefully increasing our population and improving economic growth.

Jim Woody: In my opinion, for population growth, we need to get a handle on beautification, better roads, and try harder to get more businesses into our county. We need to make Martin County a county that you want to come to. We need to stick to an ordinance to keep properties and unused buildings clean and maintained. This will help bring those businesses and citizens to our county.

Martin County Journal: Of all the costs associated with "running" Martin County, which one worries you the most? And do you have any solutions to fix it?

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: With having an outside point of view, I may not see some of the costs that someone sitting on the council would see, but the rising cost of many things such as health insurance and many different software and maintenance agreements have caught my attention and I think these are areas that warrant more attention. There are many other areas that have a high cost that we should always have an eye on and look for improvements, such as our sheriff department, highway department, etc. I think the sheriff has done a great job bringing in Jim Woody: The number one priority is public safety. This would include keeping the sheriff's department, fire department and EMS funded properly. We must also make it a priority to keep our county roads better maintained, not just passable.

extra income by bringing out-of-county inmates to the jail. This is something that he doesn't have to do, but I would really encourage that to continue with our future sheriffs. It's not always about the cost, but sometimes more about the tax payers getting a good return on their investment into this county.

Richard Summers: The rising costs of health insurance for our employees is a major concern. There are no solutions that the council has control over.

Jim Woody: The one that worries me the most is the highway department. I feel that the department is understaffed. This forces the county to contract out way too much work that could be done in house at a cheaper rate, and thus creating jobs.

Martin County Journal: The county council has increased income tax twice now in three years. What do you think needs to be done to prevent this from happening again in a few years? Would you be in favor of lowering the tax rate if the county starts to be more solvent?

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: To prevent taxes from increasing again, I think it is important to be fiscally responsible and careful about our spending especially during the years following the pandemic where the county will receive less state/federal funding than normal. Granted the county becomes more solvent, I would absolutely be in favor of lowering taxes if possible.

Richard Summers: Hopefully we can gain some income from the raised taxes and stay within our budget. I would love to be able to lower taxes in the future.

Jim Woody: We must get a handle on unnecessary spending. As we increase our population and business growth, this will increase our tax base. If our county can become more solvent, I am definitely in favor of lowering the tax rate.

Martin County Journal: Is there anything else you would like to get across to the voters?

Warren Albright: Chose not to respond.

Keith Gibson: Chose not to respond.

Adam Greene: I think we live in one of the most beautiful counties in Indiana. As a lifetime citizen of the community, I want to make Martin County a better place for the younger generations to call home. I truly value your opinion and would greatly appreciate your vote on November 3rd.

Richard Summers: I have served Martin County for almost 16 years. I would be honored to serve again!

Jim Woody: With my management skills, supervisory skills and owning my own business, I feel that I can bring a very good business sense to the council. I would appreciate your support and vote for county council at large. Thank you.

Coroner candidates answer questions

and
TINA FRANKLIN

Martin County Journal: Please give your background info, where you were born, raised, parents, spouse, children, job, etc.

Cathy Evans: I was born at the Daviess County Hospital in Washington, Indiana. My parents were the late William and Delphia Heckard. I have lived in Martin County my entire life and I am a graduate of Shoals High School. I am married to Calvin Evans and we have two daughters, Heather Evans of Shoals and Lindsey Tolin of Zionsville. We also have five grandchildren. I have worked in the Martin County License Branch, the Martin County Clerk's Office and the Martin County Assessor's Office. In 1991, I began working at Memorial Hospital in Jasper as a nursing assistant. In 1993, I graduated from Vincennes University with an Associate's Degree in Nursing, cum laude. While working in critical care, I continued my education at the University of Southern Indiana graduating in 2000 with a Bachelor's degree in Nursing, cum laude. I obtained my certification in critical care from the American Association of Critical Care Nurses in 2003 and I have also received my certification in vascular access from the Association of Vascular Access in 2017. I also continue to maintain my Basic Life Support (BLS) certification and Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) certification. I have served as President of the Critical Care Unit Council and as President of the Hospital Wide Council. I continue to work on an as needed basis at Memorial Hospital in the vascular access department and the radiology department. My peers nominated me twice for the "Little Company of Mary Award". I am a member of the Dover Hill Christian Union Church where I serve as second elder. I am also a member of the choir, praise team, Kid Adventuress, and have taught Bible school and have served as the camp nurse at Nipgen Camp Meeting. I am also a member of the Eastern Star, Washington Chapter.

Tina Franklin: I was born in Bloomington, Indiana to the late Gary Byrd and Deloris Byrd (Spriggs). I graduated from Edgewood High School in Ellettsville, Indiana. I also attended Ivy Tech. I am married to Mark Franklin and we live in Shoals (Martin County) all year long. And together we have five children, Josh and Waynessa Franklin of Loogootee, Jarret Franklin and Justin Franklin, both of Loogootee, LeeAnna Byrd McFarland of Bloomington and Devon Roach of Shoals. I am currently the elected coroner of Martin County and I also work for the French Lick Resort.

Martin County Journal: Why do you want to be coroner?

Cathy Evans: I desire to be coroner because I have a compassion for people. I enjoy helping them with whatever their needs may be. All of my experience has been caring for and assisting others. I worked 26 years in critical care where it was vital to think quick and accurately. I believe my work experience in public offices and in the healthcare setting has prepared me to be an exceptional and ideal candidate for the office of coroner. I am a person who can persevere when things are tough. My critical thinking skills allow me to see the big picture while assessing the priorities of the situation. I also possess the skills of being a good listener, being empathetic, organized, timely, compassionate, and responsible, with a servant's heart. The coroner's office is a 24/7, 365 days per year position. Now that I am working on an as needed basis at Memorial Hospital, I will have more time to fulfill the position and hope to reduce the number of on-call hours for the deputy coroners.

Tina Franklin: I find the job of coroner interesting. It is my hope that I will be able to provide closure to the family of the deceased. Having a medical background is not as important as having knowledge of the Indiana statutes that pertain to death investigations. Investigating a death is about determining the cause and manner of the death. I want to continue to be able to help the family understand what occurred and be available to answer any and all questions they might have.

Martin County Journal: What are your qualifications, certifications, etc.

Cathy Evans: I have certifications in critical care and vascular access, as described above. I have experience working with people during all stages of life. The public offices that I worked in gave me experience working with people and assisting with their needs. While working in critical care, I cared for patients and their families during the dying process and was responsible for preparing the necessary paperwork for the coroner, when needed. In the vascular access department, I am responsible for placing and maintaining various intravenous lines such as PICCs, midlines, difficult IVs, and lab draws. Also, in the radiology department, I assist the interventional radiologist with procedures.

Tina Franklin: I am a state certified Medicolegal Death Investigator (MDI) and have been for about six years. This certification is required to be able to hold the position of coroner in the State of Indiana. I have had the honor of being appointed to the Indiana State Coroners Training Board by Governor Holcomb. There are four coroners appointed to this board along with the Supt. Of the Indiana State Police and the Director of the Indiana Dept of Health. As a board, we set the training standards for the state certification. My husband, Mark, is a member of the Indiana State Coroners Association Board of Directors.

TINA FRANKLIN

CATHY EVANS

Martin County Journal: If elected, what organizational or procedural changes would you make to your office, if any?

Cathy Evans: When elected, I would like to be involved with our state and local officials to identify any trends in our county and to look at possibilities to lower our death rates. One area dear to my heart would be to decrease the number of accidents, overdoses, and suicides in Martin County. Having resources available for education and prevention are key in rural Indiana. I would like to make sure that our citizens have the information they need, close to home. As required by the State of Indiana for all coroners, I will complete the 40-hour Medicolegal Death Investigation training and certification course, complete an externship with a board certified pathologist, and pass the exam.

Tina Franklin: Continue training thru the Indiana Coroners Association as required by Indiana statute.

Martin County Journal: Is there anything else you would like to get across to the voters?

Cathy Evans: When elected as your public servant as coroner, I will serve our community and county with the utmost respect to the people I serve, and I will be fiscally responsible for taxpayer dollars. I will make every effort to have a balanced budget. I will be dedicated to work with the deceased next of kin on answering questions and providing information to the best of my ability. My plan would be to report, on a quarterly basis, statistics on the number and types of deaths in our county. All the information provided would be in accordance with the privacy acts of the State of Indiana. I have been doing a grassroots campaign, wearing a mask, using hand sanitizer, and practicing social distancing. It is physically impossible to knock on every door in Martin County, so if I missed you, I apologize, but I hope the above information will provide you with some answers to your questions. I ask that you vote for a change and elect Cathy Evans Martin County Coroner on November 3rd.

Tina Franklin: I ask for your VOTE in the November 3rd election, I would like to have the honor of serving another 4 years as your County Coroner. I have compiled a staff of part-time coroners (all of which are Certified MDI). Their training includes some of the following, EMT, Paramedic, Fire Chief, Forensic Nurse. These part-time deputies are only paid $500 per year, but they are important to have on staff, since this is a 24/7 position. If I want to make a personal run to Jasper, I make sure one of the part time deputies is going to be in the county. I do not take this position lightly. I am not seeking this office to be able to get on the county health insurance. I decline the insurance each year in an attempt to save the taxpayers of Martin County some money. Also, last year Martin County had an elected official resign their position because they wanted to spend time in another state during the winter months. Anyone wanting to serve the residents of Martin County should make sure they will be available to perform the job they were elected to do all year long. This is why the voters of Martin County should do their "homework" about each candidate.

Politics (party affiliation) makes NO DIFFERENCE in the Coroner's Office. The coroner is there to investigate and determine the manner and cause of death. The coroner's office is bound by many aspects of the law, and understanding coroner law is of utmost importance.

Tina Franklin has compiled an amazing part-time staff that includes over 30 years of Law Enforcement, a Paramedic, a Firefighter, a Forensic Nurse and an EMT. Each of these individuals are State Certified Medicolegal Death Investigators as required by Indiana Law. Tina is the only candidate that is already State Certified and has the necessary experience to be coroner on DAY ONE. Tina also resides in Martin County 365 days a year.

Tina Franklin, Martin County Coroner has demonstrated this knowledge and has a PROVEN record of Professionalism, that's why we are endorsing Tinas' bid for Re-Election and we ask you do the same.

Retention of Justice of the Supreme Court of Indiana

CHRISTOPHER M. GOFF

Christopher M. Goff was appointed to the Indiana Supreme Court by Governor Eric J. Holcomb and took the oath of office as Indiana's 110th justice on July 24, 2017.

Justice Goff was born in Wabash, Indiana in 1972. After graduating from high school there, he attended Ball State University, graduating summa cum laude in 1994.

He went on to earn his law degree at the Indiana University Maurer School of Law in 1996. He is also a graduate of the Indiana Judicial College and the Indiana Graduate Program for Judges.

After law school, Justice Goff developed a successful private practice while giving back to his community. His practice spanned a wide range of areas from criminal defense and domestic relations to personal injury and small business issues, and he was named partner at a Huntington law firm after just 18 months. He served as Huntington County Public Defender for two years. His work led to the establishment of the Huntington County Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) program. Justice Goff was named Huntington County Pro Bono Attorney of the Year in 2001 and again in 2002. He also served as President of the Huntington County Police Merit Board and Vice President of the Huntington County Bar Association.

Justice Goff then left private practice to serve as Wabash County Superior Court judge for twelve years. During this time, he established the Wabash County Drug Court, Wabash County Family Recovery Court, and Wabash County Reentry Court. Justice Goff served on the Board of Directors of the Indiana Judicial Conference, representing Wabash, Huntington, Wells, and Adams counties. He also chaired the Protection Order Committee of the Indiana Judicial Conference, which provides guidance to judges, lawyers, and individuals around the state. All told during his time on the trial bench, Justice Goff disposed of over thirty thousand cases and had only one decision overturned on appeal.

Since joining the Indiana Supreme Court, Justice Goff has continued serving his fellow Hoosiers. He led a successful statewide initiative to expand Family Recovery Courts in Indiana, nearly tripling the number of programs in just two years. In May 2020, he was appointed to serve as Chair of the Indiana Justice Reinvestment Advisory Council. He also serves or has served on the Conference of Chief Justices/Conference of State Court Administrators' Mental Health Task Force, the Indiana Task Force on Public Defense, as the Indiana Supreme Court Liaison to the Problem-Solving Court Committee of the Indiana Judicial Conference, and as the Chair of the St. Joseph County Judicial Nominating Committee. He is also an adjunct professor of law at the Indiana University McKinney School of Law where he teaches a seminar course on problem-solving courts.

In 2018, the Bowen Center presented him with its Centennial Award for working to establish a culture of mental health in Northeast Indiana. Ball State University recognized him as one of its Graduates of Distinction. And in 2020, Indiana University presented him with its Bicentennial Medal in recognition of his distinguished service.

Justice Goff and his wife, Raquel, have been married since 1993. They have four children and two grandchildren. In his

Commissioner District 2
MIKE DANT

AARON SUMMERS

Martin County Journal: Please give your background info, where you were born, raised, parents, spouse, children, job, etc.

Mike Dant: Chose not to respond.

Aaron Summers: My name is Aaron Summers but most people know me by Moose. I'm the son of Richard and Nancy Summers. I have two beautiful daughters and an awesome granddaughter. I am employed locally in the auto parts business. I attended VU for two years.

AARON SUMMERS

Martin County Journal: What is it about being a commissioner that interests you?

Mike Dant: Chose not to respond.

Aaron Summers: I want to help the community. I want to get our roads in good shape, we need some more highway employees and I will see that this happens. Those guys do a great job, but they are understaffed. Also, we have great county employees, I want them proud to be a county employee. We all have to work together. That goes for the sheriff's department, and the courthouse as well. I want a Martin County that people want to come to.

Martin County Journal: How do you feel about the wheel tax? Do you think the tax is something that Martin County needs to implement?

Mike Dant: Chose not to respond.

Aaron Summers: I am very open to the wheel tax, it has to improve the roads, and it would have to be very minimal cost to the taxpayers. And I think the farmers and people such should be allowed consideration, as far as the number of vehicles. I think it could be capped at a number.

Martin County Journal: Do you have any plans or ideas on what to do about fixing the county's roads and bridges? Aside from a possible wheel tax and the Community Crossings grant funding?

Mike Dant: Chose not to respond.

Aaron Summers: That's a tough one. We pay some very good companies to study this issue and fix it. We don't get the money a lot of other counties do. At the end of the day, as far as the roads go, something isn't working, and since I've been on as commissioner, I'm very open to making things work.

Martin County Journal: In your opinion, what should be the number one priority of the board of commissioners?

Mike Dant: Chose not to respond.

Aaron Summers: My number one priority as commissioner is keeping our youth here. We want them to come back and work and reside in Martin County. We want people from other counties to want to be here. We need to be proud of our county, spend money locally. And the bridges and roads have to be fixed, we have to provide these guys the assets to do it.

Martin County Journal: Is there anything else you would like to say to the voters that I didn't touch on?

Mike Dant: Chose not to respond.

Aaron Summers: I appreciate everyone that has encouraged me, and I appreciate our residents in Martin County. I would really appreciate your vote come November 3, thank you!
