County insurance increasing by 8 percent, half of what was expected

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

The Martin County Commissioners met Tuesday, October 31.

Civil Defense Assistant Director Andy Ringwald reported the state gave out infrared thermometers that they had in overstock. Civil defense has been handing them out to first responders. They recently learned they will be getting more thermometers but are unsure how many. Ringwald said if they get a large volume of them, they will drop them off at the courthouse to be given out to residents.

Ringwald said the county's multi hazard mitigation plan is coming due, which is redone every few years. The county receives $20,304 from the state to contract someone to write the plan but the county has to have an in-kind match of $6,759. Commissioner Paul George said in the past they have used County Attorney Dave Lett's fees to serve as the match. Ringwald said he believes they can do that again. Ringwald also said a representative of each school has to participate in the plan and he will be reaching out to let them know.

Auditor Michelle Norris said Marilyn McCollough, with Thompson Insurance, reported the county will see no more than an eight percent increase in health insurance premiums for next year. Anthem originally had said it could be 15-20 percent however McCollough negotiated with them to get the increase down.

Commissioner Cody Roush asked if some of the opioid settlement money, given by the state, could be used to pay for the Youth First counselors in each of the county schools. Attorney Lett said they would have to look at the parameters of the grant given to see if that qualifies. Roush said he and Shoals Clerk-Treasurer Sierra Rutledge discussed this idea because using the money to help opioid awareness in the schools is the place to start.

Highway Superintendent Scott Seals reported he still has one Gradall down and they are going to move back to working five 8-hour days instead of the four 10 hour days, due to winter.

Attorney Lett opened the annual supply bids for stone, asphalt, and culverts. Bids were received from Rogers Group, Asphalt Materials, US Aggregate, Civil Supply Company, St. Regis Culvert, and Civilcon. Attorney Lett and Highway Superintendent Seals will take the bids under advisement and report back at the next meeting.

The commissioners voted to reschedule their November 28 meeting to November 27 due to Commissioners Roush and Aaron Summers being away at a convention. The courthouse will be closed next Tuesday, November 7 for the City of Loogootee Election and also Monday, November 10 for Veterans Day.

The next commissioners' meeting is Tuesday, November 14 at 5:30 p.m.

Shelter house grant

The Martin County Community Foundation (MCCF) recently granted $25,000 to the Martin County Alliance for the Hindostan Falls Shelter House. The Alliance had a $40,000 goal for a 1:1 match from the Indiana Housing and Community Development Authority and its CreatINg Spaces grant program. $10,000 of the MCCF grant was allowed to go toward that match, so it became $20,000. The other $15,000 of the MCCF grant is also going toward construction of the shelter house. Shown above, from left to right, are MCCF Director Curt Johnson, MCCF Board member Janie Johnson, Alliance Executive Director Jessica Potts, MCCF President Paula Ringwald, and Community Foundation Partnership Grants Officer Lisa Starr.

Martin County man sentenced to 5 years in federal prison

Timothy Guy, 76, of Martin County, has been sentenced to 5 years in federal prison after pleading guilty to possession of a firearm and ammunition by a felon, receiving stolen U.S. government property, and possession of child sexual abuse material.

According to court documents, from 1966 through 2004, Timothy Guy was employed as an explosive's handler at the Naval Surface Warfare Center - Crane Division. While working at Crane, he falsified documents to make it appear that ammunition had been destroyed, when in reality, he stole the ammunition and smuggled it out of the facility.

In 2018, Guy was found guilty of possessing child sexual abuse material after he was caught viewing the material at a Wendy's restaurant—where he went to utilize the free Wi-Fi.

On April 30, 2021, a community corrections officer found an unregistered computer in Guy's home during a routine sex offender check. Guy admitted to having flash drives that contained child sexual abuse material. A Martin County Sheriff's deputy assisting the corrections officers quickly located over 250,000 images of children under 12 years old, on 875 data storage discs and 60 thumb drives. Guy was again arrested for possession of child sexual abuse material.

Indiana State Police investigators and Martin County Sheriff's deputies began a search of Guy's property following his April 30 arrest and discovered a cellar door. When a deputy checked the cellar, he located a large amount of ammunition and other material. Investigators later obtained a search warrant and recovered 10,000 rounds of ammunition, valued at over $1,000 and five firearms including three rifles and two pistols.

Guy is prohibited from possessing a firearm due to his previous felony conviction of possession of child sexual abuse material.

"Undeterred by a prior conviction, the defendant possessed an enormous number of images of the most horrendous traumas inflicted upon countless innocent children, collected over many years, involving countless victims," said U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Indiana, Zachary A. Myers. "Even worse, he abused the position he was entrusted with to help keep our country safe, and instead stole an enormous quantity of deadly ammunition, despite being a convicted felon and forever barred by law from having guns or ammunition. I commend the work of the ATF, ISP, Department of Defense, and Martin County Sheriff's Office and our prosecutor for their work to hold this criminal accountable and make our community safer by getting him off our streets."

"I applaud the investigative team and the U.S. Attorney's Office for their commitment to bring dangerous individuals like Mr. Guy to justice, putting an end to his reprehensible actions," stated Special Agent in Charge Darrin K. Jones, DoD Office of Inspector General, Defense Criminal Investigative Service (DCIS), Southeast Field Office. "This significant sentencing demonstrates our commitment to root out criminals associated with the DoD and safeguard the most vulnerable among us."

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, Department of Defense, Criminal Investigative Service, Indiana State Police, and Martin County Sheriff's Office investigated this case. The sentence was imposed by U.S. District Court Judge, Richard L. Young. Judge Young also ordered that Guy be supervised by the U.S. Probation Office for 6 years following his release from federal prison and register as a sex offender wherever he lives, works, or goes to school.

U.S. Attorney Myers thanked Assistant United States Attorney Todd S. Shellenbarger, who prosecuted this case.

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse. Led by U.S. Attorneys' Offices and the Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section, Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state, and local resources to better locate, apprehend and prosecute individuals who exploit children via the internet, as well as to identify and rescue victims.

Why Support Brian Ader for Mayor?

Not only am I a candidate for Loogootee Mayor, but I'm also a lifelong resident who loves our city and believes that after 12 years it's now time for new leadership that will move Loogootee forward! I look forward to providing a new outlook for Loogootee citizens along with more transparent fiscal accountability.

As I've been out and about in the community, knocking on doors, while campaigning to become the next Mayor of Loogootee, I've enjoyed speaking with people and listening to the ideas, questions, and concerns of many citizens.

Having been Mayor previously, citizens would like to know how things will be different this time around.

My answer is, I have grown as a person from life experiences and I also learned from my experiences of being your Mayor previously. I will bring more patience, diplomacy, understanding, and a team focus by working together with the council and community to solve the issues facing our city by developing strategies for the future.

I understand success as a Mayor and our city happens when everyone is working together, with open communication and transparency, and by networking and building partnerships, which requires leadership.

If I am elected Mayor, I will bring the leadership necessary with a commitment to research issues with full transparency, as taxpayers expect and deserve. For example, I have been asked to examine what happened with the Community Crossings grant.

I believe we must be fiscally responsible while focusing on infrastructure needs such as neglected streets, sidewalks, and economic development. We need leadership from a Mayor who is willing to stand up for what is in the best interest of Loogootee. I will also stand up and fight to keep the Highway 231 Corridor from bypassing Loogootee as I know this is a great concern for Loogootee citizens. I believe Loogootee should have a voice that supports a 231 Corridor as an upgraded super two (2) highway of the existing 231 from Haysville to 1-69.

I look forward to the opportunities that lie ahead if I am elected as your next Mayor. It's time for change, it's now time to vote Brian Ader for Mayor.

I'm Brian Ader, and I am asking for your vote on November 7th to support transparency, accountability, and fiscal responsibility, which will help move Loogootee forward. Thank you!

MOVING FORWARD TOGETHER:

For the 11 years I have been privileged to serve as Mayor of Loogootee, my goal has always been the same: to diligently run our City and meet the needs of our citizens on a day-to-day basis, to support our City workers and staff who serve the public, to encourage and promote small businesses and nonprofits, to support and promote our schools and school activities, to maintain and upgrade our infrastructure and the equipment our workers (including the Police and Fire Departments) need to do their jobs – and make improvements which beautify our City and make us all even prouder to live here.

Small cities need grants to make essential maintenance and major improvements to infrastructure such as street paving and storm water, and we have successfully applied for and received over $875,000 in grants for those ongoing projects. More grants will be required and we will continue to pursue them.

Additionally, we have applied for and received approximately $1,000,000 in grants and donations for housing, the revitalization of our pool, the beautiful mural downtown, the new fountain and benches, improvements to the City Park - including new play-ground equipment, picnic tables, benches, and restrooms, etc.

This calendar year, there will be more enhancements to the City Park, including a walking trail, and even more playground equipment and benches. Another major project will include a downtown pavilion. These are made possible by grants as well as the hard work of our volunteer Park and Rec Board.

Perhaps the most exciting project in our near future is the possibility of up to 40 homes which will be built on the North side of Loogootee and funded in part by a $600,000 matching grant. The progress of this new development will be an on-going subject of our monthly Council meetings.

I am equally proud of our civic improvements, such as creating the Building Commissioner position, the all-volunteer Beautification Board, the yearly city-wide Thanksgiving Dinner, the Festival of Lights parade at Christmas and also Summerfest, the Halloween parade, and special events at our City pool.

In addition to my tenure as Mayor, I am a member (or President) of numerous Boards which complement our City, such as Chamber of Commerce, Martin County Alliance for Economic Growth, Daviess-Martin Four Rivers, Martin County Community Corrections, Martin County Solid Waste, Youth Council, Martin County Council on Aging, Head Start Policies and Procedures, etc. And most of you already know, I served five years as Perry Township Trustee prior to becoming Mayor.

My door is always open during business hours and I invite you to stop by City Hall to discuss any issue or idea. Likewise, I appreciate the opportunity to hear and find solutions for problems or situations our residents might have. If I'm not in the office, most everyone knows my phone number and I will answer or return every call, message, or text.

I will also continue to arrange town meetings on important issues which impact our City, such as those recently about the Mid-States Corridor and the future of our Recycling Center.

I am honored to serve the City of Loogootee and blessed to be supported by employees, staff and volunteers who take pride in their jobs and care about our City. Loogootee truly is "a Small City with a Big Heart." I love living here and am proud of the work I have accomplished as Mayor, with more to do.

I promise you I will always do my best for our City and citizens of Loogootee. I humbly ask you once again for your vote.

DOROTHEA DIVINE

Dorothea Divine died peacefully on Tuesday October 24 with family at her side in Bloomington. She was 93.

Dorothea is survived by her daughters, Nancy Fiscus (Divine) of Martinsville and Margaret LeAnne Sitzman (Divine) of Bloomington; brothers, Russell Burress of Venture, Iowa and Forrest Burress of Burnsville, Minnesota; five grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

She is preceded in death by her parents, Orville Burress and Reba Burress (True-love); her husband, Charles Ellsworth Divine; her brothers Roy Burress and Ronald Burress; her sister, Evelyn Lemke (Burress); her son-in-law, Dennis Sitzman, and her grandchild, Amber Desiree Sitzman.

Dorothea Divine was born on February 4, 1930, or there a-bouts, in Rutherford Township. The Dr. who delivered the home birth could not recall the exact date as he delivered two other babies that week, but knew it was close to Groundhogs Day and chose February 4th for the birth certificate.

She was raised by Noah and Mamie Truelove (her grandparents). Dorothea went to school in a one room schoolhouse on Truelove Road, where she managed to complete the 3rd and 4th grade in one year.

The family moved to Loogootee her freshman year of high school. It was at her graduation in 1947 that she met the love of her life, Charles Ellsworth Divine. After much encouragement from his brother, Elec, Ellsworth asked her out, and after several attempts Dorothea said yes. They were married on February 2, 1952, with John and Juanita (Divine) Workman as their witnesses. They worked and lived on the family farm in Rutherford.

Dorothea worked at NWCS (aka Crane)

for 28 years as a purchase agent before retiring. Dorothea also enjoyed volunteering within the community, being active with 4-H as a member and a leader. She spent time working with Farm Bureau as a woman's leader for several years. Dorothea had many hobbies as well; she enjoyed crocheting and making blankets for new babies of families and friends. She was always up for a challenge and would try new patterns. She enjoyed baking, cooking, cross-stitch, sewing, and gardening as well. She enjoyed being with her grandchildren and great grandchildren supporting their interests.

Dorothea loved cars, especially her dream car, the 350 hp Z28 Chevrolet Camaro. She drove it like it was on rails and was lucky that she never received a speeding ticket or drag racing ticket!

Dorothea was very quick-witted and always had a story to tell. She was loved by all that met her. She was full of love and didn't have a mean thing to say about anyone. She will be missed by many.

A funeral service was held Saturday October 28 at the Loogootee Methodist Church in Loogootee. Burial followed at the South Martin Cemetery.

Online condolences can be made at www.blakefuneralhomes.com.

Blake Funeral Home is honored to serve the family of Dorothea Divine.

October was National Learning and Development Month

Indiana Connections Career Academy, a tuition-free full-time public virtual school, serves students statewide in grades 6-12. Erica Fair, Indiana Connections Career Academy assistant principal and Martin County resident, says her favorite thing about working in education is the opportunity to inspire children by encouraging them to explore, be creative, have fun learning and believe in themselves.

In its seventh year of operation, Indiana Connections Career Academy provides students a safe, engaging environment that offers STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math) and career-focused courses to offer specific skill development and career exposure.

"Our students have access to a career portal providing them with opportunities to explore and discover various career pathways," said Erica. "Students gain real-world skills and experience in our career readiness program to help prepare them as they continue their education or join the workforce when they graduate."

Building on an already robust career program, Indiana Connections Career Academy has expanded its courses and career pathways to include Information Technology (IT) and Business for the 2023-24 school year.

"We partner with career centers around the state providing our students hands-on learning in various high wage/high demand careers while doing their core academics online," said Erica. "Our students are given the best opportunities to be career and/or college ready in a virtual setting."

Students will work with a Career Coach who will help guide and support them through interactions with college and industry partners/mentors, keep them on track to earn certifications and dual credit, and help them update their portfolios in preparation for life after high school. New digital tools will include a career portal and career assessments to identify student interests and facilitate exploration.

THOUGHTS

*Wrinkles mean I laughed. Grey hair means I cared. These scars mean I lived, and this fat butt means I love tacos.

*Finally, my bills are washed, laundry is paid, clothes are baking, and dinner is in the dryer. I got this!

*My stomach is flat. The "L" is just silent.

*I sold my vacuum the other day. All it was doing was collecting dust.

*Wanna hear two short jokes and a long joke? Joke, Joke, Joooooookoo

*I made a playlist for hiking. It has music from Peanuts, the Cranberries, and Eminem. I call it my trail mix.

*That's a pretty good ceiling. It's not the best, but it's up there!

*I wrote a song about a tortilla. Actually, it's more of a wrap.

*I was sitting in traffic the other day. Probably why I got run over.

*The challenge of retirement is how to spend time without spending money.

*If a woman is chugging chocolate chips straight out of the bag in the baking aisle at the grocery store, I suggest you just let her be.

*It's weird to think people who are 5 feet tall are only 5 Subways long.

SCHOOL THOUGHTS

*Did you hear about the piece of paper who fell in love with the binder on the first day of school? They love each other a hole punch.

*What did the math book say to the calculator on their first day of school. You can count on me to solve your problems.

*Why did the backpack feel relieved on the first day of school? It finally had a shoulder to lean on.

*Geology rocks, but geography is where it is at!

*Not all math classes are bad. Just sum.

*If you want to cut class, then just bring scissors to school.

*Students have to walk in straight lines because if they walked in circles, they'd never get to class!

*If you want to get straight A's, then use a ruler!

A man walks into a bar and there is a bunch of meat hanging from the ceiling. The man asks the bartender, "What's the deal with the meat?"

The bartender explains that if you jump and slap a piece of meat, you get to drink free for the night, but if you miss, you must buy drinks for everyone in the bar.

The man responds, "No thanks, the steaks are too high."

My daughter just walked into the living room and said "Dad, cancel my allowance immediately, rent my room out, throw all my clothes out the window, take my TV, and stereo, and iPhone, and iPod, and my laptop. Please take all of my jewelry to the Salvation Army or Cash Converters. Then sell my new car, take my front door key away from me and throw me out of the house. Then disown me and never talk to me again. And don't forget to write me out of your will and leave my share to my brother."

"Well, she didn't put it quite like that... she actually said..." "Dad, this is my new boyfriend."

Don't forget to roll your scales back 5 pounds this weekend. Oh, sorry, I meant to say, roll your clocks back one hour. My bad.

Make someone smile today!

In the Garden

By Ralph Purkhiser,
Purdue University Master Gardener

Freezing temperatures arrived in the Hoosier Hills this week, bringing an end to the growing season. Over the past several weeks, I have been busy moving plants. During the summer, my large collection of houseplants gets moved outside. Some of the most tender tropical plants would be damaged by temperatures in the 40's, so they were moved in first. With the freeze in the forecast for this week, the weekend was a flurry of activity, moving the rest of the tender plants back into the house for the winter. It is not one of my favorite chores, making me vow to refrain from buying any more non-hardy plants. There is little chance of my keeping that vow.

A youngster who visited asked me why I was carrying in the plants. I explained that they would die if I left them out in the cold, and he observed that there are a lot of plants in my yard. I explained most of the plants can survive in the cold, so they do not have to be taken in. That just triggered more questions, and I realized that the same questions may be asked by my readers and their garden helpers.

Water in the plant cells is the cause of the damage when it freezes. If you place a full bottle of water in the freezer, you will notice that the water expands as it freezes, sometimes even bursting the bottle. The same thing happens in plant cells. The freezing water causes the cell walls in the plant to break. When temperatures warm above the freezing point, the ice in the cells changes back to water and leaks out, causing the plant to be limp and turn dark.

All plants are not the same. Some plants make their own antifreeze, using proteins, sugars and other minerals. The strength of the antifreeze determines the planting zone for a particular plant. The United States Department of Agriculture has created the Plant Hardiness Zone map, with ten zones based on the annual extreme low temperatures in each area. Each zone has temperature minimums about 10 degrees F warmer than the next lower-numbered zone. In Southern Indiana, we are now in zone 6, and a plant rated to survive in zone 6 will be able to survive temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero. Within any landscape, there are also micro-climates, where temperatures remain a little warmer. Stones heat up on sunny days, so a plant next to a stone may survive a freeze that one in the open would not. Proximity to buildings may also give one a chance to grow a plant that is rated to zone 7.

Plants also have different types of cells, and that also affects how they react to a freeze. Woody parts of plants have thicker cell walls and they do not break as easily. Other's cells are more elastic and will stretch with the freezing water. Plant roots, including bulbs, corms, tubers and other underground plant parts are insulated by the soil, so the top of the plant may die, but the plant will grow again next spring. Not all bulbs have the same hardiness, even if they are under the soil. Again, they may survive a mild winter, but disappear after a hard winter. To be safe, you may dig these less-hardy bulbs after the tops of the plants have been killed by a freeze and store the bulbs in a cool, dry location.

The freeze may have ended the growing season, but certainly not the gardening season. There is still a lot going on at Sandhill Gardens, where the gardens have been planned for interest in all seasons. Stop in and see us sometime.

New Outdoor Indiana features 2024 calendar, Hunt for Hunger

Do you or someone you know love looking at photos of Indiana's outdoors and learning more about the many recreational opportunities it offers?

A gift solution is ordering a subscription to Outdoor Indiana magazine before December 10. Your subscription will include the 2024 calendar, which is enclosed in the November/December 2023 issue.

The calendar can also be purchased separately for $10, and features photos from all over the state.

Calendar photo highlights for 2024 include scenes from Shades, Lincoln, Fort Harrison, Whitewater Memorial, Pokagon, and Potato Creek state parks, as well as shots from Fern Cliff and Charles Springs nature preserves, plus Goose Pond and Hovey Lake Fish & Wildlife areas, the Hoosier National Forest, and Daviess County.

The issue also features an article by Indiana First Lady Janet Holcomb promoting the Indiana Hunt for Hunger program, which pays for deer donated by hunters to be processed into healthy venison for hungry Hoosiers.

Outdoor Indiana is available now at Indiana State Park Inns across the state for $4. Subscriptions are $15 for one year (six issues, a 27% savings over cover price) and $28 for two years (12 issues, a 42% savings).

PURE COUNTRY Throwback

By Dan Gregory

Originally published November 4, 2008

I am writing this Pure Country column after having voted at our small polling location in Rutherford Township, not far from where I went to school for the first seven years of my grade school education, and with all of the election outcomes yet to be known. This is my first venture into the political arena as a candidate for one of our county commissioner seats. I suppose in a way I was destined to try this at least once in my life. Many experiences I have had kept moving me towards an eventual run for public office even though I have harbored misgivings about the whole idea, mostly that I don't want my family to have to bear any of the unpleasantness that may come their way if I am successful. By the same token, there have been times when I felt it a duty to offer my service. I don't have any doubts that I can learn what I need to know to be effective.

Voting for our leaders and representatives was something I was taught to be a citizen's duty at an early age. Both my parents have worked at the polls. The pursuit of an elected position came about after much thought and consultation with people who know me well. Without their encouragement, I would never have given it a go.

I stumbled greatly at the thought of calling my friend an opponent, but since we both agreed to support the other, regardless of the outcome, that made the race a lot easier. I never said anything negative about my friend, and I am glad for that.

There were many days I forgot that I was even running for public office this fall. The date of November 4th seemed a long way off last spring when I decided to run. Now here it is, my strategy is complete. Time to find out who the voters want to work for them in the next four years.

I decided early on that this would not change me, but seeing your name on signs along the road and in the papers, has a way of elevating and bloating your ego. I have enough family and friends that will help me keep my head on straight though, and if I get too big for my britches, I know someone will remind me of my many flaws. These are the same people who encouraged me that they thought I should go for it, and I trust their judgment maybe more than my own.

I think in retrospect, and regardless of the outcome today, this has been a positive experience for me and my family. If successful, the hard work will start soon and the decisions I make will be in good faith and hopefully fair. If not successful, then I will simply have one more experience. I will still be happy, and I will have done something that a very small percentage of the people ever attempt or get the chance to do.

Whatever the election outcome for our local, state, and national offices, I am satisfied that one of our greatest freedoms is the opportunity for citizens to choose their leadership. Disagree we might about the selection of our leaders, but I feel this way: Freedom is a precious commodity and privilege and has been provided to us at great cost by the veterans and the hard-working citizens of our country. Veterans Day is next Tuesday, let's pause and celebrate the many freedoms we all enjoy as Americans.

Loogootee City Council District 3 candidate answers questions

(Editor's Note: Loogootee City Council candidate Tim Hudson contacted the Martin County Journal after last week's election preview issue and explained that he had technical difficulties getting his responses to The Journal questions on time. Those responses are below. Hudson is running against Carroll Rayhill.)

MCJ: Please tell the readers who you are and a little about your personal background.

TIM HUDSON

Tim Hudson: Hi, my name is Tim Hudson, and I am running for District 3 City Council. I would appreciate your vote in November. I was born, raised and have lived my whole life in Loogootee. I married Rachel Blackwell, and we have three kids, Amanda Johnson (Derek), Adam Hudson (Morgan) and Aaron Hudson (Jovanna). We have 5 grandchildren, Emma, Katlyn, Brantlee, Colten and Cheyanne. I served in the National Guard for 8 years. I have owned and operated T & R Mechanics for over 30 years and I am currently, and for over 20 years, a Loogootee Community School Bus Driver. I also served as building commissioner for over 4 years.

MCJ: What motivated you to run for Loogootee City Council, and what qualifications or experience do you bring to the role?

Tim Hudson: My reason for running for the city council is to start putting our citizens and our town's needs above all else. While in my capacity as the building commissioner, I was able to learn a lot and make several contacts to ensure we were following the rules and guidelines set out to be in compliance. I learned not only how the office of the building commissioner should operate but also how other departments within the city were operating. I felt, at times, it was just chaotic and a lack of understanding and support for all departments was apparent. It was not a TEAM effort in my opinion, it was a competition and sides were drawn. I feel like with the knowledge I gained in those 5 years along with owning my own business it would enable me to make sound judgements and hear all sides before making a decision. I could call out specific issues, good old boys or even occurrences but that is not my goal, my goal is to make Loogootee a better place for everyone who lives here.

MCJ: What do you believe is the role of the city council?

Tim Hudson: I believe the role of the city council is to be the voice of the people. They should work with the citizens to identify problem areas and needs within the city and work to find solutions to fix the issues. They should be involved in the yearly planning and budget process. The council members are elected for a reason, and it is not to vote with the "majority" it was to vote for what was best for the city.

MCJ: What do you believe are the most pressing issues facing Loogootee, and how do you plan to address them if elected?

Tim Hudson: I believe our biggest issue is the budget and staying within a set budget, so our city does not go broke. I think we can come to an agreement by hearing all sides and setting priorities and not veering from the budget in place. I also believe the way the different departments are run is an issue. This should be uniform across the board not as each supervisor sees fit. I think the employee handbook should be utilized to train the supervisors and employees on the rules and regulations. We need to resolve issues as they come up, not in advance. Department needs should come through the council and not be decided at the department level. We cannot continue to rob from Peter to pay Paul and stay solvent. I believe the roads and the sidewalks are an issue that needs addressed promptly also. I will address these issues by being open, honest and direct to not only the citizens but also to my peers on the board if elected. I will work effortlessly to fix the issues our great city has.

MCJ: How do you plan to handle disagreements or conflicts within the city council or with the mayor, and what is your approach to building consensus on important issues?

Tim Hudson: I will be open to hearing everyone's views, ideas and resolutions and will work with our "team" to find the best solution for our city. I believe that everyone has a voice and we should all be using that voice for one thing, and that is the good of our city. The voice includes our citizens and would encourage all of them to become more involved by at least attending or listening in on the monthly meetings.

MCJ: Is there anything else you would like voters to know?

Tim Hudson: I would like the voters to know that I will work tirelessly and to the best of my ability to resolve their issues. It's time for a change so we can move forward and keep our city great.

Pickleball grant

Loogootee Pickleball was recently awarded a $5,000 grant from the Smithville Charitable Foundation. These funds will go toward phase two of the four court pickleball complex project which is laying of the asphalt. The pickleball committee plans to initiate phase two in the spring of 2024.
