City council talks insurance with room full of agents

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

Jay McNeece, with Benefits 7, talked to the Loogootee City Council at their meeting Tuesday night, November 10, about the city employees' health insurance. McNeece said they decided to go with Anthem with the 80/20 policy that has a $2,000 deductible and $5000 out-of-pocket cost. He said they managed to improve on drug co-pays also. The plan was reduced by 8.3 percent or a $15,000 savings for the city due to fewer employees and less claims. McNeece said the dental and vision policies stayed the same.

After more discussion, the council approved the new health plan for next year.

Rex Strawn, the city's insurance agent of record, talked to the council about the city's need for a cyber security liability policy. He said will have to find out more information on pricing.

Eric Ackerman, with Downey Insurance, told the council that IPEP awarded the city a $6,500 grant to go toward safety equipment. The grant comes with a $1,300 match, paid by the city.

Dave Welch, with German American, talked to the council about becoming the city's agent. He noted that it was awkward to be present with the current agent of record and commended Strawn for being in insurance for as long as he has and the hard work he has put into it. Welch said he just believes that German American can provide more services to the city than the current agent.

Welch went on to say that it was discussed at the last meeting that Strawn lives in Loogootee, but he does not. Welch reiterated that German American donates a lot of money to the city and he may not be a resident of Martin County but is invested in the community. He said the city's worker's compensation policy is due for renewal in January and he would like to take over as the agent. He said he has helped the county implement safety meetings with the highway department, and he believes safety is a crucial issue that needs to be addressed in the city. He invited the council to attend a safety meeting he will be conducting on Thursday at the county highway department.

"Change is not easy," said Welch, adding that he believes the county is pleased with what he's been able to do for them.

Rick Norris said he thinks the entire council needs to be present to make such a decision. Council Member Carroll Rayhill was not present. They decided to table discussion.

Council Member Teresa Nolley said she would like to speak to the department heads and find out who they would recommend. The mayor replied that it's primarily the clerk-treasurer who deals with the insurance agent. Nolley said that may be the case but she doesn't deal with the city's insurance issues and would like recommendations from those who do.

Mayor Noel Harty presented quotes from Matrix Integration for cyber security upgrades. The quotes included $1,600 for the utility office in the annex building, $1,154.16 for a new computer for the mayor's secretary and $1,920 for upgrades in the municipal building. The

Two Martin County residents die from COVID-19 complications

The Indiana Department of Health received notification of two deaths from the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) for Martin County. The individuals were an adult male and an adult female. No further information will be released due to privacy laws.

Since the beginning of November, Martin County has seen a daily increase in the number of cases of novel coronavirus (COVID-19). The total number of positive cases for Martin County is now at 261. To date, more than 2,000 people have been tested for COVID-19 from Martin County.

There is a lot of confusion regarding isolation and quarantine. The following information explains the difference between isolation and quarantine:

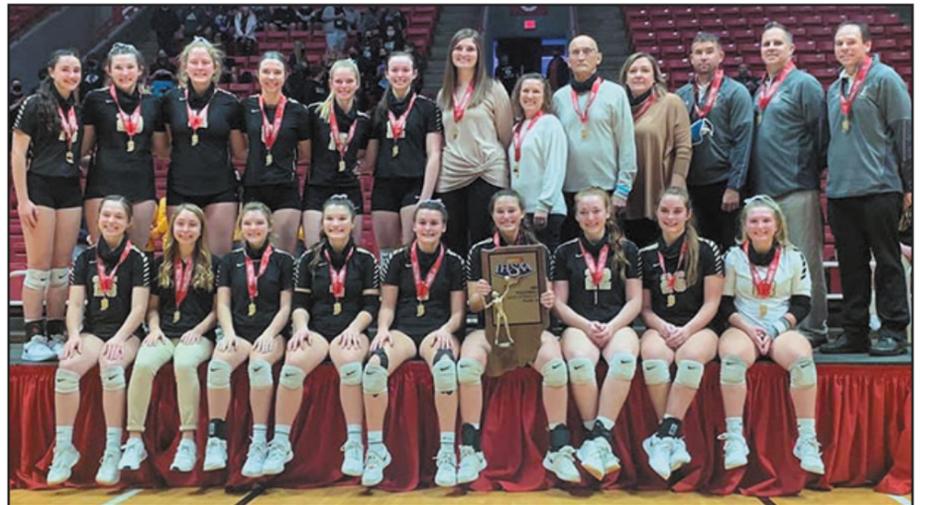

Isolation is keeping the infected person away from others, even in their home. Isolation is for a period of 10 days from the date of symptom onset or until symptoms have resolved. Isolation for asymptomatic Covid-19 positive person is 10 days from the date the positive test was collected.

Quarantine is keeping someone who might have been exposed to the virus away from others. Quarantine helps prevent the spread of disease that can occur before a person knows they have symptoms or know they are sick. (See below)

If a person in quarantine gets tested, they still must complete the 14-day quarantine period even if they get a negative test result. Symptoms can begin 2-14 days after exposure to an infected person. If they develop symptoms while in quarantine, they would begin an isolation period of 10 days from symptom onset. Testing is recommended for anyone in quarantine that develops symptoms.

If someone in your household is symptomatic for COVID-19, all household members should stay at home until the symptomatic person is tested or receives an alternate diagnosis from their doctor. If someone in your household has recently been tested for COVID-19, all household members should stay at home until they receive their results. The symptomatic person should isolate away from the rest of the household until results are received or until they see their doctor. Examples of alternate diagnosis could include strep throat, flu, etc. If the household member's COVID-19 test is negative or they receive an alternate diagnosis, asymptomatic household members can return to normal activities.

Visit the Indiana State Department of Health's COVID-19 website at <https://coronavirus.IN.gov> for more information, including frequently asked questions about COVID-19.

Commissioners decide not to move forward with Stat Flight proposal

BY COURTNEY HUGHETT
Martin County Journal Publisher

Commissioner Paul George said at the Martin County Commissioners' meeting last Wednesday night, that he spoke with Lost River Township Trustee Millie Brown and her advisory board is not interested in paying for their portion the recent Stat Flight proposal. Stat Flight is a medical helicopter service and a representative from their company had approached the commissioners about providing service to every resident in Martin County for $25,188. Commissioner George said that the plan was for each township trustee to chip in money to cover their constituents and if they are not all on board, the plan will not work. George said there is no reason to move forward with the Stat Flight proposal and recommended not having any further negotiations with them at this time. "There's no sense in dragging it out anymore," he said. He added that they haven't moved their base to Huntingburg yet, as they said they would, which was part of the reason the county entertained the proposal initially. He said that he understands that the City of Loogootee signed a contract with them to cover their residents and that was their choice. He said Stat Flight can contact the county again once their base is moved to Huntingburg.

Candace Roush and Isha Wright-Ryan, with the community corrections advisory board, talked to the commissioners about hiring an attorney. Due to a conflict of interest with hiring a lawyer in the county, they need an attorney to advise their board. Wright-Ryan said the attorney is not for litigation but simply for advice. The firm they would like permission to hire is Ziemer, Stayman, Weitzel, Shoulders, LLP, of Evansville. The cost will be $250 per hour and Roush and Wright-Ryan said they hope the attorneys are not needed long-term. The commissioners approved hiring the attorney for up to $10,000.

Dave Welch, with German American, requested that the commissioners approve the cyber security insurance renewal for $2,200. The policy decreased by $30. The commissioners approved.

Welch also told the commissioners that the highway department has gone 56 days with no injuries or accidents. He said they continue to conduct safety meetings and plan to have a small celebration once the highway department reaches 90 days accident free.

Leo Padgett, highway superintendent, reported that he was able to purchase rock and rip rap from Indian Creek Quarry, who are liquidating their inventory, for half price.

Padgett also told the commissioners that INDOT will be taking over review of railroad crossing signs. He said that several need to go up however the state will reimburse the county for the signs, through a grant.

Tim Hunt, with HWC Engineering, provided the commissioners with a preliminary list of roads for them to review to add to the January application for the Community Crossings grant. Hunt said that six roads could get done, possibly seven. He asked the commissioners to narrow down the list provided to eight roads, by priority. Hunt said that INDOT reported they have $50 million to pass out for the next cycle of grants and $110 million in applications were not funded the last cycle, so it will be competitive.

Hunt asked the commissioners to sign the contract with HWC for $35,000 to apply for the Community Crossings grant. He told the commissioners that if Martin County doesn't get funded in the first round of grants next year, HWC will reapply in the second round for no extra fee.

County Attorney Dave Lett opened bids for material, including stone, asphalt and culverts, from Rogers Group, Civil Supply, Asphalt Materials, Cave Quarries, and CivilCon. The county attorney and highway superintendent will review the bids and bring them back to the next commissioners' meeting.

Tiffany Whaley, with Martin County Ambulance, reported they are carrying a lot more COVID-19 positive patients and are going through a lot of PPE (personal protective equipment). She said that no ambulance service employees have contracted the virus so far.

The commissioners approved purchases

-- YOUTH FIRST --
 The Martin County Community Foundation recently presented Youth First (based in Evansville) a "Make My Day" grant to help continue the support of a social worker in the Loogootee Community School Corporation (LCSC). The Youth First (YF) mission is to strengthen our youth and families by providing programs that prevent substance abuse, promote healthy behaviors, and maximize student success.

-- LCSC SUPPORT --
 The school's Youth First social worker, Mrs. Megan Shake, has been working to reduce risk factors and remove barriers to learning as well as to increase protective factors (i.e., mood management, hope, etc.), improve life skills, build resiliency and promote positive social norms. Her efforts help our students to be less concerned and anxious about day-to-day activities and issues, to have better attendance, participate in school activities, complete homework, and show less problematic behaviors such as harming others or quick tempers.

The assistance and guidance that our children have available to them though Youth First is invaluable for their growth, well-being, and success as students and adults. Angie Risacher was happy to present Youth First a $500 grant to help this organization continue to serve the youth of Martin County.

 council approved the quotes
 Adam Greene talked to the council about purchasing the parking lot next to his business, Greene's Body Shop. He asked if the city would consider selling it. Noel said he knows they discussed this at the last meeting, but Adam would like the council to reconsider selling the lot.
 Council Member Nolley said she thought the mayor was looking into the process of the city selling property. The mayor said he did but last month Nolley said she wasn't interested in selling. Nolley agreed that she said that but thought the mayor was going to look into the process anyway. Mayor Harty said he is not reviewed what the city attorney sent but can forward the information to the council. City Attorney Isha Wright-Ryan didn't have her email to review but said she believes they have to receive sealed bids. The mayor said they also have to get appraisals.

 Teresa Nolley asked about work being done for the stormwater projects. The mayor said they are still waiting on the railroad company.
 Mayor Harty said the city didn't receive the $250,000 ROI grant to upgrade the empty lot at the corner of Church Street and JFK Avenue. He said there will be an opportunity to apply for another grant next year.

COMMISSIONERS

 ing two drop boxes for $750 each to place outside the treasurer's office and possibly the clerk's office to collect payments. Treasurer Lori Carrico said that she is not sure if Clerk Gerald Montgomery wants to have one. The commissioners decided to purchase two and will find a use for the other one if the clerk doesn't want it.

Auditor Bobbie Abel presented quotes to replace the courthouse air conditioning units. She said the courthouse custodian reached out to another company, but they have not yet responded. The quotes she presented were from Spartan and M&M Electric. The auditor told the commissioners that if they want the cost to come out of this year's budget, they need to act soon. After discussion, the commissioners decided to table a decision until the next meeting.

Auditor Abel said that current coroner, Tina Franklin, who lost her bid for reelection, has requested to retain possession of the cell phones the county pays the bills for, for her office. The bills are in the name of the employees and they will take over paying the bills. Currently they submit the bills for reimbursement from the county. The commissioners agreed to let them keep the cellphones and pay the bill themselves.

The council approved a maintenance contract for the city's four lift stations for $2,500 per visit, which will be once a year.
 During the board of public works and safety meeting, prior to the council meeting, the mayor said a city water customer questioned whether something could be done about his remaining bill balance of $1,426.64. The original bill was $2,836.55 and the board of works approved an adjustment of $1426.64 at their last meeting. The mayor said this is still quite a balance, but he will have to find out more information before the board of works can discuss it further.

More Neat Stuff

By Ann Ackerman

One of my friends who has crossed 70 and pushing 80 was asked what changes he was feeling in himself? I thought the following lines were interesting, so I thought I'd share.

1. After loving my parents, my siblings, my spouse, my children, my friends, now I have started loving myself.

2. I just realized that I am not an "Atlas". The world does not rest on my shoulders.

3. I now stopped bargaining with vegetables and fruits vendors. A few pennies more is not going to burn a hole in my pocket, but it might help the poor fellow save for his daughter's school fees.

4. I pay my waitress a big tip. The extra money might bring a smile to her face. She is toiling much harder for a living than me.

5. I stopped telling the elderly that they've already narrated that story many times. The story makes them walk down the memory lane and relive the past.

6. I have learned not to correct people even when I know they are wrong. The onus of making everyone perfect is not on me. Peace is more precious than perfection.

7. I give compliments freely and generously. Compliments are a mood enhancer not only for the recipient, but also for me. And a small tip for the recipient of a compliment, never, NEVER turn it down, just say "Thank You"!

8. I have learned not to bother about a crease or a spot on my shirt. Personality speaks louder than appearances.

9. I walk away from people who don't value me. They might not know my worth, but I do.

10. I remain cool when someone plays dirty to outrun me in the rat race. I am not a rat and neither am I in any race.

11. I am learning not to be embarrassed by my emotions. It's my emotions that make me human.

12. I have learned that it's better to drop the ego than to break a relationship. My ego will keep me aloof, whereas with relationships I will never be alone.

13. I have learned to live each day as if it's the last. After all, it might be the last.

14. I am doing what makes me happy. I am responsible for my happiness, and I owe it to myself. Happiness is a choice. You can be happy at any time, just choose to be!

I decided to share this to all the readers. Why do we have to wait to be 60 or 70 or 80, why can't we practice this at any stage and age....?

THOUGHTS

*If you eat well...get lots of sleep...do exercise...and drink lots of water...you'll die anyway! Open the wine.

*I could start my day without coffee, but I like being able to do things like saying words and putting pants on.

*I'm not an early bird or a night owl, I'm just some form of permanently exhausted pigeon.

*I'm about to pull these steaks off the grill. It's my neighbor's grill, but he went inside, and I don't think he can see me.

*The fridge is a perfect example of what matters is on the inside.

Cops & Kids accepting donations

This year marks the 30th annual Cops & Kids event, sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 101. For the past 29 consecutive years, men and women from local and state law enforcement, fire departments, DNR, the courts and other first responders have volunteered to purchase Christmas gifts for the Head Start children of Daviess and Martin counties. This year, they are hoping to raise enough funds to allow them to spend $150 per child to purchase clothing and requested toys.

Because of COVID-19, things will be different this year. In order to keep everyone safe and healthy, the children will shop and choose their gifts at Walmart, with the help of the teachers and parents. Officers will follow social distancing guidelines from the health department but will still be able to assist with the decisions made.

Gift cards will be purchased by FOP and utilized by the parents to buy specifically for the child, with the assistance of the FOP representative. When the gifts are purchased, they will be left in layaway at Walmart until December 17. The cops, firemen, and other volunteers will then be a part of the giving by assisting with the distribution of the packages.

In the Garden

By Ralph Purkhiser, Purdue University
Master Gardener

The freeze last week brought an end to the growing season. There is still plenty of work to be done at Sandhill Gardens to clean up and get the garden ready for next spring, but it is also time to take a step back and look at this growing season with a critical eye.

COVID-19 affected every aspect of our lives, and the garden was no exception. Prior to the active gardening season each year is the garden show season. It was disappointing to see one show after another cancelled. As we adjusted, some of the later shows went virtual, and I was able to attend some west coast shows that I had never been able to attend before.

While many industries suffered because of the virus and resulting lockdown, garden centers prospered. Many people were home on COVID furloughs and took advantage of the extra time on their hands to do some gardening. Mother Nature pitched in and a late spring frost nipped some of the plants that over-eager gardeners had planted, so many went back to the garden centers to purchase bedding plants again. The result was that many garden centers sold out of bedding plants early in the season and business was brisk throughout the summer. For some, it was a new experience and I hope they got hooked on their own fresh tomatoes and will join the rank of gardeners. For others, it was a return to a way of life from earlier years. I hope it brought some good memories and the discovery of the healthy lifestyle found in the garden.

For me, summertime means a succession of fairs to judge. Most of the fairs were virtual this year, including the Indiana State Fair. It was a different experience altogether to judge horticulture projects virtually, but we did it. I pray we do not have to do the same next year.

Personally, I had more time to spend in the garden, but I also lacked any help in the garden, so I had to concentrate on projects I could do by myself. Some turned out well and others were not so great.

Perhaps the biggest success was the new "moon garden". This niche garden was established at the top of the cliff, overlooking the valley below. This is the perfect spot to watch a sunset and planting a wide assortment of white flowers there meant enjoying the garden after watching the sunset. The light fountain added to the evening mystique. As with all gardens, one is never finished. I have purchased the materials for a moon gate, but still do not have that installed at the site. Next year, I hope to add even more white flowers to the area. It has become one of my favorite spots in the gardens.

The gift of a couple of rusted-out stock tanks resulted in more raised beds in the vegetable garden. I did not get them early enough to actually fill with soil and plant, but they have been a great place to compost in place. Next spring, I will top them off with soil and plant them with root crops. In general, it was a good year in the vegetable garden. I did not put things out early, so I did not lose anything to the late frost. My tomatoes were late, but plentiful and I had a wide variety of salad greens. Luffa gourds shared the tunnel arch with morning glories, and I harvested several, to dry for sponges. Of course, as the summer progressed, other demands on my time resulted in less time to garden and weeds got ahead of me, but that seems to be an annual occurrence.

I ordered a lot of wildflower seeds to plant in the meadow. However, I did not have great success with germination. Many wildflowers require a cold treatment to germinate, so I am hopeful that some of the seed is still there and will come to life next spring.

Even for master gardeners, each season presents challenges. Hope springs eternal. I am already planning for next year.

State park properties to temporarily close for deer hunts

Select Indiana state park properties will temporarily close in the coming weeks so controlled deer management hunts can take place. Each hunt runs two days. The first is on Monday, November 16, and Tuesday, November 17. The second is on Monday, November 30, and Tuesday, December 1. Participating state park properties will close to the general public on the evening before each of the two hunts.

Participating state park properties are: Brown County, Chain O'Lakes, Charles-town, Fort Harrison, Harmonie, Lincoln, McCormick's Creek, Ouabache, Pokagon, Potato Creek, Prophetstown, Shades, Spring Mill, Turkey Run, Versailles, and Whitewater Memorial state parks, as well as Trine State Recreation Area.

These state park properties will re-open the morning after each two-day hunt. All Indiana state park properties not mentioned will be operating under normal hours.

Indiana DNR biologists evaluate which state park properties require a deer management hunt each year based on habitat recovery and previous harvest rates at each park property. The state park properties are home to numerous natural communities that serve as significant habitat. The deer management hunts help control browsing by deer to a level that ensures habitat for native plants and animals.

Only individuals selected from the draw may participate at any site.

A full report on the 2019 deer management hunts is at stateparks.IN.gov/files/sp-DeerRMRR.pdf. The 2020 report will be available in March 2021.

Information regarding 2021 state park deer management hunts, including online applications, will be available next summer at on.IN.gov/reservedhunt. The application deadline is usually in mid-August of the year in which the hunts are to take place.

Deer firearms season begins November 14

The deer firearms season is from November 14-29. Remember, the deer firearms license allows a hunter to take only one buck. Hunters can harvest an antlerless deer during the firearms season with a firearm if they possess a deer bundle license, bonus antlerless license, resident youth consolidated hunting and trapping license, or comprehensive lifetime hunting license. Antlerless deer taken with a firearm during the firearms season would count toward the bonus antlerless quota, unless you are hunting in a deer reduction zone with the appropriate license and count the deer toward the deer reduction zone bag limit. Bonus antlerless deer cannot be taken on all DNR properties; find information about restrictions. Bonus antlerless deer cannot be taken in Benton or Tipton counties until November 26.

Introduce the next generation to hunting on free youth hunting days. The second set of dates falls on November 28-29. Free youth hunting days are a great chance for youth to harvest a deer, try waterfowl hunting, or take to the fields or forest in search of other game.

Youth must be accompanied by an adult who is at least 18 years of age, and the adult must possess a valid hunting license. During free youth hunting days, resident youth and nonresident youth do not need a hunting license, a State migratory waterfowl stamp, or a Harvest Information Program (HIP) number to hunt waterfowl or other migratory birds. All persons 16 years old or older must possess a federal duck stamp.

In the winter, the red shouldered hawk focus their hunger on small mammals and the occasional small bird. They typically hunt these warmblooded creatures from a perch. They build their nests high in the trees during the winter or early spring and often decorate their nests with various green plants.

DNR evaluates effectiveness of bass stocking at Patoka Lake

Through a partnership with Indiana Bass Federation (IBF), DNR fisheries biologists are starting a research project to evaluate survival rates of stocked largemouth bass in Patoka Lake.

The IBF solicited donations to purchase 3,200 advanced fingerling largemouth bass. More than 900 were stocked in May, and 2,300 are being stocked early this month. All of the stocked bass are tagged with an internal passive integrated transponder (PIT) tag, allowing each fish to be uniquely identifiable by using a scanner.

Research across the central United States has shown stocking fingerling size (2-4 inch) largemouth bass into lakes with self-sustaining bass populations has had limited to no success at improving bass populations. This project is using advanced fingerlings (6-9 inches) to test if these larger fish will survive and grow to the legal minimum length of 15 inches at Patoka Lake.

"Thanks goes out to the Indiana Bass Federation for their fundraising efforts and making this research project possible," said Dan Carnahan, south region fisheries supervisor. "We look forward to evaluating the results of this survival study."

DNR will conduct spring and fall electrofishing surveys over the next three years to monitor the stocked and naturally reproduced bass populations to determine if they differ in growth, catch rates, and condition factor. Starting in 2023, DNR will search for PIT tagged bass while monitoring bass tournaments to help determine if the stocking was successful.

DNR holiday gift packs are available

Cross those hard-to-buy-for people off your shopping list by giving them a holiday gift pack from the DNR.

The DNR gift pack saves you up to $31 over buying the items individually.

A gift pack is a gift the recipient can use the whole year, whether that person enjoys camping or sleeping in the comfort of one of seven Indiana State Park Inns.

The $99 gift pack includes a 2021 resident annual entrance permit, a one-year subscription to Outdoor Indiana magazine and calendar, and one of two $65 gift card options. One gift card option can be used at the campgrounds — another gift card option, for those who like to enjoy nature from the indoors, is a $65 State Park Inns gift card. You also have the option of upgrading either of those gift cards to $100 by paying $35 more. Various pack types are available.

Orders ship within three to five business days. Orders received by December 6 will ship by December 14. The offer is available through December 31. Packs can be purchased online only at shopIN-stateparks.com.

Indiana has 32 state parks and reservoirs throughout the state. The entrance permit grants gate entrance for all of 2021 for all state park properties beginning January 1.

The inns gift card can be used at any of seven state park lodging facilities, as well as at the award-winning Pete Dye-designed golf course at Fort Harrison State Park in Indianapolis. The card can also be used for lodging, meals in the dining rooms, or gift purchases.

The camping gift card can be used toward the rental of cabins (excluding inns-operated cabins), campsites, cottages, group camps, recreation buildings, rent-a-camp cabins, shelters, youth and rally camps at all state park and reservoir properties. It can also be used at a handful of DNR Division of Forestry properties, including Deam Lake State Recreation Area (SRA), Greene-Sullivan State Forest, and Starve Hollow SRA.

The camping gift card may also be used to purchase daily entrance, lake permits, horse tags, and any other items sold by park-operated gates, stores and gift shops. The camping gift card cannot be used at any privately operated concessions, camp stores, marinas or saddle barns.

Outdoor Indiana is a bi-monthly magazine that brings you the best of the state's outdoors in 48 pages of full color. The normal subscription rate is $15 per year. Learn more about the magazine at outdoorindiana.org.

National unemployment stands at 6.9 percent for October

Total nonfarm payroll employment rose by 638,000 in October, and the unemployment rate declined to 6.9 percent, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today. These improvements in the labor market reflect the continued resumption of economic activity that had been curtailed due to the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic and efforts to contain it. In October, notable job gains occurred in leisure and hospitality, professional and business services, retail trade, and construction. Employment in government declined.

This news release presents statistics from two monthly surveys. The household survey measures labor force status, including unemployment, by demographic characteristics. The establishment survey measures nonfarm employment, hours, and earnings by industry.

Household Survey Data

In October, the unemployment rate declined by 1.0 percentage point to 6.9 percent, and the number of unemployed persons fell by 1.5 million to 11.1 million. Both measures have declined for 6 consecutive months but are nearly twice their February levels (3.5 percent and 5.8 million, respectively).

Unemployment rates declined among all major worker groups in October. The rate was 6.7 percent for adult men, 6.5 percent for adult women, 13.9 percent for teenagers, 6.0 percent for Whites, 10.8 percent for Blacks, 7.6 percent for Asians, and 8.8 percent for Hispanics.

Among the unemployed, the number of persons on temporary layoff fell by 1.4 million to 3.2 million. This measure is down considerably from the high of 18.1 million in April but is 2.4 million higher than in February. The number of permanent job losers, at 3.7 million in October, changed little over the month but is 2.4 million higher than in February.

In October, the number of long-term unemployed (those jobless for 27 weeks or more) increased by 1.2 million to 3.6 million, accounting for 32.5 percent of the total unemployed. By contrast, the number of unemployed persons jobless 15 to 26 weeks decreased by 2.3 million to 2.6 million, and the number of persons jobless 5 to 14 weeks decreased by 457,000 to 2.3 million. The number of persons who were jobless less than 5 weeks was about unchanged at 2.5 million.

The labor force participation rate increased by 0.3 percentage point to 61.7 percent in October; this is 1.7 percentage points below the February level. The employment-population ratio increased by 0.8 percentage point to 57.4 percent in October but is 3.7 percentage points lower than in February.

In October, the number of persons who usually work full time rose by 1.2 million to 123.6 million, and the number who usually work part time increased by 1.0 million to 26.2 million.

The number of persons employed part time for economic reasons increased by 383,000 to 6.7 million in October, after declines totaling 4.6 million over the prior 5 months. These individuals, who would have preferred full-time employment, were working part time because their hours had been reduced or they were unable to find full-time jobs. This group includes persons who usually work full time and persons who usually work part time.

The number of persons not in the labor force who currently want a job decreased by 539,000 to 6.7 million in October; this measure is 1.7 million higher than in February. These individuals were not counted as unemployed because they were not actively looking for work during the last 4 weeks or were unavailable to take a job.

Among those not in the labor force who currently want a job, the number of persons marginally attached to the labor force, at 2.0 million, was about unchanged in October. These individuals were not in the labor force, wanted and were available for work, and had looked for a job sometime in the prior 12 months but had not looked for work in the 4 weeks preceding the survey. The number of discouraged workers, a subset of the marginally attached who believed that no jobs were available for them, was 588,000 in October, essentially unchanged from the previous month.

Household Survey Supplemental Data
In October, 21.2 percent of employed persons teleworked because of the coronavirus pandemic, down from 22.7 percent in September. These data refer to employed persons who teleworked or worked at home for pay at some point in the last 4 weeks specifically because of the pandemic.

In October, 15.1 million persons reported that they had been unable to work because their employer closed or lost business due to the pandemic—that is, they did not work at all or worked fewer hours at some point in the last 4 weeks due to the pandemic. This measure is down from 19.4 million in September. Among those who reported in October that they were unable to work because of pandemic-related closures or lost business, 11.7 percent received at least some pay from their employer for the hours not worked, up from 10.3 percent in September.

About 3.6 million persons not in the labor force in October were prevented from looking for work due to the pandemic. This is down from 4.5 million in September. (To be counted as unemployed, by definition, individuals must either be actively looking for work or on temporary layoff.)

These supplemental data come from questions added to the household survey beginning in May to help gauge the effects of the pandemic on the labor market. The data are not seasonally adjusted. Tables with estimates from the supplemental questions for all months are available online at www.bls.gov/cps/effects-of-the-coronavirus-covid-19-pandemic.htm.

Establishment Survey Data

Total nonfarm payroll employment rose by 638,000 in October and has increased for 6 consecutive months. In October, nonfarm employment was below its February level by 10.1 million, or 6.6 percent. Notable job gains occurred over the month in leisure and hospitality, professional and business services, retail trade, and construction. Employment in government declined.

Employment in leisure and hospitality increased by 271,000 in October, with gains in food services and drinking places (+192,000); arts, entertainment, and recreation (+44,000); and accommodation (+34,000). Leisure and hospitality has added 4.8 million jobs since April, but employment in the industry is down by 3.5 million since February.

Professional and business services added 208,000 jobs in October, with temporary help services (+109,000) accounting for about half of the gain. Employment also increased in services to buildings and dwellings (+19,000), computer systems design and related services (+16,000), and management and technical consulting services (+15,000). Employment in professional and business services is 1.1 million below its February level.

In October, retail trade added 104,000 jobs, with almost one-third of the gain in electronics and appliance stores (+31,000). Employment also rose in motor vehicle and parts dealers (+23,000), furniture and home furnishings stores (+14,000), clothing and clothing accessories stores (+13,000), general merchandise stores (+10,000), and nonstore retailers (+9,000). Employment in retail trade has risen by 1.9 million since April but is 499,000 below its February level.

Construction added 84,000 jobs in October. Specialty trade contractors added jobs, both in the nonresidential (+28,000) and residential (+18,000) components. Employment also rose in heavy and civil engineering construction and in construction of buildings (+19,000 each). Construction has added 789,000 jobs in the last 6 months, but employment is down by 294,000 since February.

Employment in health care and social assistance rose by 79,000 in October but is down by 950,000 since February. In October, health care employment increased by 58,000, with the largest gains occurring in hospitals (+16,000), offices of physicians (+14,000), offices of dentists (+11,000), and outpatient care centers (+10,000). These increases were partially offset by a decline of 9,000 in nursing and residential care facilities. Social assistance added 21,000 jobs over the month.

Employment in transportation and warehousing increased by 63,000 in October, with gains occurring in warehousing and storage (+28,000), transit and ground passenger transportation (+25,000), and truck transportation (+10,000). By contrast, air transportation shed 18,000 jobs. Employment in transportation and warehousing is 271,000 below its February level.

The other services industry added 47,000 jobs in October, with gains occurring in personal and laundry services (+27,000) and in repair and maintenance (+18,000). Employment in other services is 436,000 below its February level.

Manufacturing employment rose by 38,000 in October but is 621,000 lower than in February. Gains occurred in fabricated metal products (+7,000), primary metals (+6,000), and wood products (+4,000). Employment continued to trend up in food manufacturing (+6,000) and in plastics and rubber products (+4,000).

Employment in financial activities rose by 31,000 in October but is 129,000 lower than in February. Over-the-month job gains occurred in finance and insurance (+17,000) and real estate (+10,000).

In October, government employment fell by 268,000. A decrease of 138,000 in federal government was driven by a loss of 147,000 temporary 2020 Census workers. Job losses also occurred in local government education and state government education (-98,000 and -61,000, respectively).

Employment in other major industries, including mining, wholesale trade, and information, changed little in October.

In October, average hourly earnings for all employees on private nonfarm payrolls increased by 4 cents to $29.50. Average hourly earnings of private-sector production and nonsupervisory employees rose by 5 cents to $24.82. The large employment fluctuations over the past several months—especially in industries with lower-paid workers—complicate the analysis of recent trends in average hourly earnings.

The average workweek for all employees on private nonfarm payrolls was unchanged at 34.8 hours in October. In manufacturing, the workweek increased by 0.3 hour to 40.5 hours, and overtime rose by 0.2 hour to 3.2 hours. The average workweek for production and nonsupervisory employees increased by 0.1 hour to 34.2 hours.

The change in total nonfarm payroll employment for August was revised up by 4,000 from +1,489,000 to +1,493,000, and the change for September was revised up by 11,000 from +661,000 to +672,000. With these revisions, employment in August and September combined was 15,000 higher than previously reported. (Monthly revisions result from additional reports received from businesses and government agencies since the last published estimates and from the recalculation of seasonal factors.)

Police stepping up seat belt enforcement in November

Indiana State Police Jasper Post will be increasing seat belt enforcement patrols now through the end of November as part of the national Click It or Ticket mobilization. The department will be joined by more than 250 law enforcement agencies around the state that will be working overtime to reduce motor vehicle deaths and injuries in Indiana.

The patrols are supported with National Highway Traffic Safety Administration funds provided by the Indiana Criminal Justice Institute.

“Over the years, we’ve had a number of incidents where someone wasn’t wearing their seat belt and was either injured or ejected that could have been prevented,” said Lieutenant Jason Allen, Jasper Post Commander. “Buckling up matters. It saves lives and is your best defense against injury or death. Don’t skip this simple step and pay for it later.”

Last year, out of the total number of motorists involved in passenger vehicle crashes, 90 percent were wearing a seat belt. Despite this, unrestrained motorists accounted for over half of all vehicle fatalities in 2019 (308 out of 565), according to data from the criminal justice institute.

Drivers under the age 34, particularly young male drivers, were more likely to be found not wearing a seat belt. Additionally, individuals not buckled up in crashes were three times more likely to get injured when the driver was speeding and seven times more likely when the driver was impaired.

Indiana has a primary seat belt law, which allows law enforcement officers to stop and cite drivers and passengers for failing to wear a seat belt. Drivers can also be cited for each unbuckled passenger under the age of 16.

“Every time you go somewhere in a vehicle, whether you’re a driver or passenger, you should always wear a seat belt,” said Devon McDonald, ICJI Executive Director. “Not only is it the law, but it’s the single most effective thing you can do to protect yourself on the road.”

When it comes to seat belt safety, the department recommends making sure the lap belt is properly secured across the hip and pelvis, below the stomach. The shoulder belt should be positioned across the middle of the chest and away from the neck – never behind the back or under an arm.

If the seat belt doesn’t fit, or the car is older and only has lap belts, ask the car dealer or vehicle manufacturer about seat belt adjusters, extenders or retrofits.

Additionally, children under eight must be properly restrained in a federally approved child or booster seat. Parents and caregivers can choose the safest car seat for their child by visiting TheRightSeat.com, or to find a certified Child Passenger Safety Technician, who can inspect and assist with the installation of a car seat, visit www.childseat.in.gov.

ISP, federal and local government agencies collect more than 39,000 pounds of unwanted medications

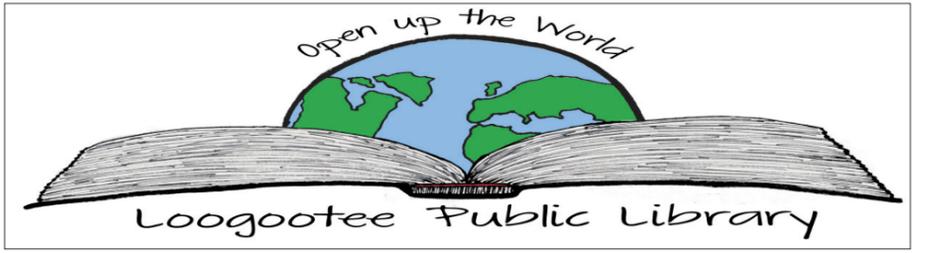

On Saturday, October 24, Hoosiers participated in the 19th nationwide “Prescription Drug Take Back Day” by visiting Indiana State Police Posts, locations sponsored by the Indiana Professional Licensing Agency (IPLA) and the Indiana Board of Pharmacy, and other sites across the state.

“Prescription Drug Take Back Day is the perfect opportunity for Hoosiers to clean out their medicine cabinets and safely dispose of any unused medication,” said Indiana Executive Director for Drug Prevention, Treatment and Enforcement Douglas Huntsinger. “No matter if it’s one prescription or 10, each prescription we properly dispose of makes Indiana’s communities safer places for all.”

In partnership with the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), the drug take back initiative seeks to prevent prescription drug abuse and theft through proper disposal of prescription drugs.

During the one-day event, the DEA reports that Hoosiers safely disposed of more than 39,000 pounds of unused medication. Collectively the Indiana State Police received 2,130 pounds of unused, expired or unwanted medications for proper disposal. Our partners from the IPLA and the Indiana Board of Pharmacy received 1,194 pounds of prescription medications.

For more information about the bi-annual “Prescription Drug Take Back Day” or to find year round disposal locations visit <https://takebackday.dea.gov/>.
